The Schedule.

TO THE COMMITTEE OF LLOYD'S.

We have examined the Books for the above Accounts for the year ending 31st December, 1924, in accordance with the "Instructions for the guidance of Auditors," dated 10th December, 1924, drawn up by your Committee, and approved by the Board of Trade. In our opinion, so far as the Liabilities and Assets shown in the Books are concerned, the Assets shown in the Books and those deposited with Lloyd's Committee and those since provided, belonging to each name, are correctly valued and available and sufficient to meet his liabilities as therein shown, and to wind up his outstanding Underwriting Accounts. The Liability of the current Underwriting Accounts has been calculated on the basis as directed in the "Instructions for the Guidance of Auditors."

We have verified by actual inspection or Bankers' Certificate the Investments and Cash at the Bankers at 31st December, 1924, and have compared the Brokers' balances with the Ledger, and in arriving at the Brokers' balances, discount has been taken into account and provision made for any debts whose recovery in full is doubtful. The funds also are held in trust in the names of two Trustees, who are both living, under a Deed of Trust, duly executed and approved by your Committee and in accordance with the terms of such Deed.

All the information we required has been supplied to us, and so far as our examination of the Books has gone, they appear to have been properly kept.
