ADMIRALTY-OFFICE—MAY 22.

Copy of a Letter from the Right Honourable Lord Keith, K. B. Admiral of the Blue, &c. to William Marsden, Esq. dated at Ramsgate, the 20th Instant SIR,

I herewith transmit, for the information of their Lordships, a letter which I have this day received from Commodore Sir Sidney Smith, acquainting me that the enemy's flotilla at Flushing had been pushed out from that port on the 16th instant to form a junction with that at Ostend, and that the greatest part of them had succeeded in reaching the latter place, notwithstanding the vigorous measures that were used by the Commodore and his Squadron to resist their progress; a circumstance which is to be imputed only to the numerous disadvantages to which his Majesty's ships were subjected in consequence of the shallowness of the water, and the effect of enemy's field artillery and their batteries on the shore; for the Commodore appears to have used every practicable exertion to defeat the design, and to have been very gallantly seconded by all the officers serving under his orders.

I also enclose a list of the killed and wounded on this occasion; and have the honour to be, &c.

KEITH.

Antelope, at anchor, off Ostend, May 17, 1804.

MY LORD,

Information from all quarters, and the evident state of readiness in which the enemy's armaments were in Helvoet, Flushing, and Ostend, indicating the probability of a general movement from those parts, I reinforced Captain Manby, off Helvoet, with one ship, and directed Captain Hancock, of the cruiser, stationed in shore, to combine his operations and the Rattler's with the Squadron of gun-boats stationed off Ostend.

The Antelope, Penelope, and Amiable, occupied a central position in sight both of Flushing and Ostend, in anxious expectation of the enemy's appearance. Yesterday at half past five a. m. I received information from Captain Hancock, then off Ostend, that the enemy's flotilla was hauling out of that pier, and had already twenty-one one-masted vessels, and one schooner, outside in the roads; and at half past seven the same morning, I had the satisfaction to see the Flushing flotilla of fifty-nine sail, viz. two ship-rigged praams, nineteen schooners, and thirty-eight schuyts, steering along-shore from that port towards Ostend, under circumstances which allowed me to hope I should be able to bring them to action. The signal was made to the Cruiser and Rattler for an enemy, in the E. S. E. to call their attention from Ostend; the Squadron weighed the moment the flood made, and allowed the heavier ships following them over the banks; the signals to chase and to engage were obeyed with alacrity, spirit, and judgment, by the active and experienced officers your Lordship has done me the honour to place under my orders. Captains Hancock and Mason attacked this formidable line with the greatest gallantry and address, attaching themselves particularly to the two praams, both of them of greater force than themselves, independent of the cross-fire from the schooners and schuyts; I lent the Amiable by signal, to support them. The Penelope, (having an able pilot, Mr Thornton), on signal being made to engage, Captain Broughton worked up to the centre of the enemy's line, as near as the shoal water would allow, while the Antelope went round the Stroom-Sand to cut the van off from Ostend; unfortunately our gun-boats were not in sight, having, as I have understood, since devoted their attention to preventing the Ostend division from moving westward.

The enemy attempted to get back to Flushing; but, being harassed by the Cruiser and the Rattler, and the wind coming more easterly against them, they were obliged to run the gauntlet to the westward, keeping close to the beach, under the protection of the batteries.

Having found a passage for the Antelope within the Stroom-Sand, she was enabled to bring her broadside to bear on the headmost schooners before they got the length of Ostend. The leader struck immediately, and her crew deserted her. She was however recovered by the followers; the artillery from the town and camp, and the rowing gun-boats from the Pier, kept up a constant and well-directed fire for their support; our shot, however, which went over the schooners, going on shore among the horse artillery, interrupted it in a degree; still however it was from the shore we received the greatest annoyance; for the schooners and schuyts crowding along could not bring their prow guns to bear without altering their course towards us, which they could not venture; and their side guns, though numerous and well served, were very light. In this manner the Penelope and Antelope engaged every part of their long line from four till eight, while the Amiable, Cruiser, and Rattler, continued to press their rear. Since two o'clock the sternmost Praam struck her colours and ran on shore; but the artillery men from the army got on board, and she renewed her fire on the Amiable with the precision of a land battery, from which that ship suffered much. Captain Bolton speaks much in praise of Lieutenant Mather, who is wounded.

Several of the schooners and schuyts immediately under the fire of the ships were driven on shore in like manner, and recovered by the army. At eight, the tide falling, and leaving us in little more water than we drew, we were reluctantly obliged to haul off into deeper water to keep afloat, and the enemy's vessels that were not on shore, or too much shattered, were thus able to reach Ostend; these and the Ostend division have hauled into the basin. I have anchored in such a position as to keep an eye on them; and I shall endeavour to close with them again if they move into deeper water. I have to regret that, from the depth of the water in which these vessels move, gun-boats alone can act against them with effect. Four have joined me, and I have sent them in to see what they can do with the Praam that is on shore.

I have great satisfaction in bearing testimony to your Lordship of the gallant and steady conduct of the captains, commanders, officers, seamen, and marines under my orders. Captains Hancock and Mafon bore the brunt of the attack, and continued it for six hours against a great superiority of fire, particularly from the army on shore, the howitzer shells annoying them much. These officers deserve the highest praise I can give them. They speak of the conduct of their Lieutenants, officers, and crews, in terms of warm panegyric. Messrs Budd and Dalzell from the Antelope acted in the absence of two lieutenants of those ships. Lieutenants Garrety and Patful, commanding the favourite and Stag cutters, did their best with their small guns against greater numbers of greater calibre. Lieutenant Hillier, of the Antelope, gave me all the assistance and support on her quarter-deck his ill state of health would permit. Lieutenant Stokes and Mr Skiffer, acting lieutenant, directed the fire on the lower and main decks with coolness and precision. It would be the highest injustice if I omitted to mention the intrepid conduct of Mr Lewis, the master, Mr Nunn, and Mr Webb, pilots, to whose steadiness, skill, and attention, particularly the former, I shall ever feel myself indebted, for having brought the Antelope into action within the Sands, where certainly the enemy could not expect to be met by a ship of her size; and for having allowed her to continue engaged with Commodore Verhuel to the last minute it was possible to remain in such shoal water with a falling tide. It is but justice to say, the enemy's Commodore pursued a steady course, notwithstanding our fire, and returned it with spirit to the last.

I could not detach open boats into the enemy's line, to pick up those vessels which had struck, and were deserted, mixed as they were with the still firing. Captain Hancock sent me one schuyt that had hauled out of the line and surrendered. She had a Lieutenant and twenty-three soldiers of the 48th regiment, with five Dutch seamen on board. She is so useful here, I cannot part with her yet. Enclosed is a list of our losses, which, though great, is less than might have been expected, owing to the enemy's directing their fire at our masts. The Rattler and the Cruiser have of course suffered most in the latter respect, but are nearly ready for service again. The smoke would not allow us to see the effect of our shot on the enemy; but their loss, considering the number of them under our guns for so long, must be great in proportion. We see the mast heads above water of three of the schooners, and one of the schuyts, which were sunk. I have the honour to be, &c.

W. SIDNEY SMITH.
