WHITEHALL, October 1, 1909.

HIS Majesty the King has been pleased to award Edward Medals of the First Class to Michael Lyons and John Shields.

At the Mount Morgan Mine, Queensland, on the 4th November 1908, a subsidence occurred of a mass of ore weighing about 12,000 tons. Five men at work in the excavations were killed; two, Lyons and Banks, escaped, the latter being seriously injured in the head. Lyons called up the shaft for help. John Shields volunteered to descend, running very great risks while he was being lowered in consequence of falling debris. He reached the two men, and with the help of Lyons, who was unwilling to leave his wounded companion, Banks was securely fastened to the rope, and eventually all three were drawn up.
