8495	Private ...	Paul, J. ...	1st Battalion, Highland Light Infantry	For great gallantry on the 27th April 1915, near Ypres, when he left the advanced trench under a very heavy shell and rifle fire to assist in bringing up ammunition to the firing line, nine out of ten of the party carrying the ammunition being wounded.
6837	Private ...	Pearson, W. H. ...	2nd Battalion, East Lancashire Regiment	For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in rendering first aid and carrying in wounded under heavy rifle and shell fire, and under circumstances requiring the greatest courage and determination.
474	Company Serjeant-Major	Peat, R. J. ...	8th City of London Battalion, The London Regiment (Post Office Rifles), T.F.	For conspicuous gallantry on the 25th and 26th May 1915, at Festubert. The supply of bombs running short, he collected as many as he could find, and took them himself, under a heavy fire, to supply the grenadiers, and when they had all been killed he threw bombs himself, without any previous experience, until he was wounded.
53489	Bombardier	Pemberton, J. ...	7th Division, Royal Field Artillery	For gallant conduct and ability on the 16th-22nd May 1915, at Festubert, when in charge of the Headquarters R.A. telephones. Owing to his conspicuous energy and resource the communications were well maintained. For three days and nights he was constantly out repairing wires, frequently under fire.
18257	Serjeant ...	Percy, J. ...	Royal Army Medical Corps	For conspicuous gallantry throughout the campaign, especially at Festubert from 16th to 18th May 1915, when he worked continuously night and day under incessant fire bringing in the wounded. Serjeant Percy has shown great resource and courage under heavy fire and has set a fine example in devotion to duty.
56526	Bombardier	Petty, A. W. ...	80th Battery, Royal Field Artillery	For conspicuous gallantry during the heavy fighting in the Ypres salient between 17th April and 11th May 1915, when he repeatedly repaired the telephone wires under heavy rifle and shell fire; he was wounded on the latter date whilst repairing the wires, but continued at his work until communication had been restored. The excellent work performed by the 80th Battery during this critical period was largely due to his unflagging zeal and devotion to duty.
1498	Acting Serjeant	Pike, P. R. ...	1/3th (County of London), Princess Louise's Kensington Battalion, The London Regiment, Territorial Force	For conspicuous gallantry and ability on the 9th May 1915, near Rouges Bancs, when, in charge of a bombing party, he cleared the enemy's trenches for nearly 100 yards. The supply of bombs running short, he crossed the open under heavy fire, and brought up a fresh supply. Later, on learning that the bombers on his right had not gained the enemy's trenches, he went to the assistance of the machine gunners of another regiment, and held the enemy until the order to retire was given.
5018	Private ...	Player, E. A. ...	2nd Battalion, Wiltshire Regiment	For conspicuous gallantry on the 17th and 18th May 1915, at Festubert. During the day he was continually working as a stretcher-bearer under heavy shell fire, and at night he organised the stretcher parties under the Medical Officer. On the 19th May his gallant conduct and devotion to duty under heavy shell fire was particularly noticeable.
