ADMIRALTY-OFFICE, SEPT. 20.

Copy of a letter from Sir James Saumarez, K. B. Rear Admiral of the Red, to William Marfden, Esq. dated at Guernsey, 14th Sept. 1806.

S I R,

I herewith inclose, for the information of my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, a letter I have this day received from Captain Burrowes, of His Majesty's ship Constance, acquainting me with his having, in company with the Strenuous and Sharpshooter gun-brigs, driven on shore, near Cape Frehol, a French frigate of 30 guns, in a situation as to leave no doubt of her being completely destroyed.

The exertion of Captain Burrowes, and of Lieuts. Nugent and Goldie, of the gun-brigs, since they have been upon this station, has excited my highest approbation, and the service they have performed will be more highly appreciated when I state that there is every reason to believe the frigate they have destroyed was on her way from Brest, with a supply of stores for the equipment of a large frigate lately launched at St Maloes. I have the honour to be, &c.

J. SAUMAREZ.

His Majesty's ship Constance, Jersey,
Sept. 12. 1806.

S I R,

I have the honour to state, that on Tuesday the 9th inst. this ship, the gun-brigs Strenuous and Sharpshooter in company, fell in with and drove on shore to the westward of Cape Frehol, a French frigate, coppered, and about 30 guns; it coming to blow hard that morning, with thick weather, we were obliged to weigh from off St Maloes, with a strong flood tide, and to beat to the westward. About noon we perceived the enemy endeavouring to pass between us and the Cape, to the eastward. Seeing us close, and likely to cut him off, he preferred running on shore to fighting his way, and went right in before the wind. The surf beating against him, and the weather getting worse, I could not stand nearer the rocks, and called off the Strenuous, who was nearest, and I feared would not be able to get off. The wind moderating in the evening, I worked up with the ebb, and perceived him high and dry within a ledge of rocks close to the sand hills, but far out of reach of shot. I anchored for the night, but found no means of further annoyance in the morning; for the prospect of burning him I thought too hazardous by the boats, having the army (who appeared in numbers), his own crew, guns, and a battery on the hill to defend him. As the tide flowed the wind increased to such a degree as obliged me to consult our own safety, and leave the coast; and from the assurance of the pilot, and my own observation, there can be little doubt the gale which followed has made him a complete wreck. As soon as it is moderate I shall go down again, and report accordingly.

It gives me great pleasure to remark to you Sir, the zeal and gallantry of Lieutenants Nugent and Goldie, of the gun-brigs; had there been occasion, I had every reason to expect the utmost from them, as well as Mr Dobbs (the First of this ship), and all the officers and men of the squadron.

I inclose weekly accounts of the vessels under my orders, and have the honour to be, &c.

H. S. BURROWES.
