WHITEHALL, April 14. 1807.

THE King has been pleased to grant the dignity of a Baron of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland unto Sir Thomas Manners Sutton, Knt. one of the Barons of His Majesty's Court of Exchequer, and to the heirs male of his body lawfully begotten, by the name, style, and title of Baron Manners, of Foston, in the county of Lincoln.

ADMIRALTY-OFFICE, April 14. 1807.

Copy of a letter from Rear-Admiral Sir ALEXANDER COCHRANE, K. B. Commander in Chief of His Majesty's ships and vessels at the Leeward Islands, to WILLIAM MARSDEN, Esq. dated on board the Northumberland, at sea, the 2d February 1807.

SIR—I have the honour to inclose, for the information of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, the copy of a letter from Captain Sayer, of His Majesty's ship Galatea, giving an account of the capture of the French national corvette Lynx, (one of those which escaped from Sir Samuel Hood's squadron,) by the boats of that ship, under the command of Lieutenant Coombe.

When it is taken into consideration the fatigue of so long a row as the boats' crew had before they came up with the enemy, their great disparity in numbers, their having to attack a man of war under sail, completely prepared for their reception, and their perseverance in the attack, without a chance of support from the ship, after being twice repulsed, I may safely say that more determined bravery has not been shown during the war. While I admire their gallantry, I must sympathise with the friends of those who fell in the action. In the death of Lieutenant Henry Walker, who was some time ago promoted from this ship, the service has lost a most promising officer. Lieutenant Coombe's conduct speaks for itself; although he had before lost a leg, his activity in the execution of his duty has always been remarked; in this action he received a severe, and I fear a dangerous wound, in the thigh, above the former amputation; I therefore feel assured their Lordships will judge him deserving their protection.

I have the honour to be, &c.

ALEX. COCHRANE.

His Majesty's ship Galatea, Coast of Caraccas, Jan. 10. 1807.

SIR—Yesterday morning we discovered, from the mast-head, a sail in the S. E., steering for La Guira, and soon compelled her to another course for Barcelona; about noon it was mostly calm, when she appeared to be a man of war, and by her manœuvre, an enemy; she had now the advantage of us by a breeze, and with her lofty flying sails, and sweeps, was leaving us fast. At two o'clock her top-gallant sails were scarcely above the horizon, but in a situation between the ship and the coast that still afforded me hopes of her, by co-operation of the boats; they pushed off under the direction of the First Lieutenant William Coombe, manned with five officers, fifty seamen, and twenty marines; and after rowing about twelve leagues in eight hours, (part of the time under a burning sun,) they came up with her, going, with a light land breeze, about two knots; having first hailed her, our brave fellows instantly attempted to board on both quarters, but by the fire of her guns, which had been all trained aft in readiness, and having to combat, under every disadvantage, with more than double their numbers, were twice repulsed by them. The boats now dropped, and poured through her stern and quarter-ports a destructive fire of musketoons and small arms that cleared the deck of many of the enemy, who were all crowded aft; when, after an arduous struggle, (a third time,) for a footing, our men rushed a-board, and in a few minutes drove all before them; the bowsprit and jib-boom were covered; some flew aloft, and others below; the Captain and most of his officers were lying wounded on the decks, leaving the remainder of this handful of men in proud possession of the French imperial corvette, Le Lynx, of fourteen twenty-four pounders caronades, and two long nine-pounders, chasers, pierced for eighteen guns, and manned with one hundred and sixty-one men, commanded by Monsieur Jean M. Yarquest, with dispatches from Guadaloupe for the Caraccas; she is two years old, and a well equipped fine vessel, in all respects fit for His Majesty's service.

At the head of our invaluable men's names, who fell in this quarter of an hour's sharp contest, stands that of the Second Lieutenant Harry Walker, of his third wound; of the officers commanding our five boats, only Lieutenant Gibson was unhurt. It may be unnecessary to add Lieutenant Coombe's report, that every man did his duty—I am satisfied they did.

I am, Sir, &c.

Copy of a letter from Capt. T. COCHRANE of His Majesty's ship Jason, to Rear-Admiral Sir ALEX. COCHRANE, K. B.

His Majesty's ship Jason, at Sea, January 28. 1807.

SIR—Having received your orders by His Majesty's sloop Osprey, I proceeded towards Maroney river, and yesterday morning at day-light, Soramine river bearing south by east twenty-six miles, discovered a ship and brig, nearly six miles on the weather beam, apparently men of war; and from the information I received a few days before, conceived them to be the vessels of which we were in search; and about a quarter before ten, succeeded in bringing the ship to action within pistol-shot, who shortly after struck, and proved to be La Favorite, (formerly in His Majesty's service,) mounting sixteen long sixes and thirteen twelve-pounder carronades, having on board one hundred and fifty mien, and commanded by Mons. Le Marant Daniel, Lieutenant de Vaisseau. The brig, from her sailing superior to the Favorite, and in consequence of signals from her, kept above gun-shot to windward, and I am sorry to say, from the time it took to exchange the prisoners, and being favoured by the wind, she has made her escape; she mounts fourteen brass eight-pounders, (English nines,) and one hundred and twenty men.

I am happy to add that we had only one man wounded; the favourite had one killed and one wounded, and was very much cut up in her sails and rigging.

I cannot conclude without returning thanks to Lieutenant Pringle, first of this ship, for his active conduct on this, as well as every occasion, and am only sorry that this affair did not afford him a greater opportunity of distinguishing himself.

I have the honour to be, &c.

ESTATE IN ABERDEENSHIRE FOR SALE.

To be Sold by Public Sale, under the authority of the Court of Session, within the New Session House, Edinburgh, upon Wednesday the 24th day of June next, betwixt the hours of 5 and 6 o'clock afternoon,

The Lands and Estate of Woodhill, with the Teinds, lying in the parish of Inverury and county of Aberdeen; consisting of about 456 Scots acres, 147 whereof are under wood, all inclosed, and in a very thriving condition, and of which about 57 acres are old plantations.

The situation of this Estate is particularly beautiful, extending about two miles along the north banks of the river Don, in which it has a right of Salmon Fishing, and there are good stations for Nett and Rod Fishing upon the premises.

The farm of the Mains, which was in the natural possession of the proprietor, consists of about 126 acres of arable land, of which 112 are inclosed and subdivided, and are at present in grass of various ages. The rest of the estate is capable of most extensive improvement, and the fall of the river Don, which runs through the property, gives a command of water for any machinery. The Mansion House and Offices are sufficient to accommodate a large family, and there is a good Garden and Pigeon-house on the estate.

The estate is distant from the city of Aberdeen about 16 miles, and only about 3 miles from Inverury, to which there is now an excellent turnpike road from Aberdeen.

The free proven Rental of the estate is 246l. 15s. 8d. 2-12ths, and the Wood and Ground on which it stands are valued at L. 3520.

The whole premises will be exposed in one lot, at the upset price of L. 10,923: 10: 5.

The Lands hold of the Crown for payment of a trifling feu-duty, and stand rated in the cess-books at L. 200 Scots.

The Titles, Conditions of Sale, and Judicial Rental, are to be seen in the hands of Mr George Bruee, Depute-Clerk of Session. For further information, application may be made to Messrs Inglis and Robertson, 49, Queen Street, and Mr Alexander Shaw, Advocate, Aberdeen.

A late and very important Improvement on the TRUSS.

MR TURNBULL, Surgeon to the Society for the Relief of the Ruptured Poor, &c. has recently constructed a Truss, possessing this special principle, that it may be applied with equal advantage and success to the complaint, whether it be seated on the Right, or on the Left Side, so that when the prolapsed parts forming the Rupture are returned into their natural situation by a gentle, cautious, and gradual pressure of the fingers, they are retained and supported with perfect ease, neatness, firmness, and effect; and that in many instances without the inconvenience of the Thigh Strap. This Apparatus, with proper directions for its application, with a Manual, containing "Rules and Instructions very necessary to be observed by Persons of both Sexes afflicted with Ruptures," may be had at Mr Turnbull's, Warwick Court, Holborn, where Letters addressed, (Post paid,) will be punctually attended to. The advantages arising from its circulation are appropriated to the purposes of the above useful Establishment, which has been the means of affording essential Relief to upwards of 7000 of the industrious Poor, labouring under this Malady.
