

Edinburgh Gazette.

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY.

FROM FRIDAY, MAY 29, TO TUESDAY, JUNE 2, 1812.

The following Addresses have been presented to his Royal Highness the Prince Regent; which Addresses his Royal Highness was pleased to receive very graciously:

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.
The humble Address of the Noblemen, Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, and Commissioners of Supply of the County of Ayr, assembled here this day by public Advertisement.

May it please your Royal Highness,
WE, his Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Noblemen, Freeholders, Justices of Peace, and Commissioners of Supply of the county of Ayr, assembled on special notice, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness with the assurance of our most sincere and dutiful attachment. While we unite with the rest of his Majesty's faithful subjects in deeply lamenting his Majesty's continued indisposition, we feel grateful to providence that the government of these realms has devolved upon a prince, who has demonstrated by the whole of his conduct, both during the period of his restricted regency and since its expiration, that his highest ambition is to walk in the footsteps of his illustrious father, and to adhere to that line of policy which has so effectually contributed to uphold, amidst the wreck of nations, the honour, independence, and security of the British islands.

We beg leave to offer to your Royal Highness our most cordial congratulations on the numerous and brilliant successes which have everywhere crowned the efforts of the British arms, during the period of your Royal Highness's administration of the government of the state. We have received with the highest satisfaction and gratitude the assurances which your Royal Highness has afforded, of your determination to adhere with unshaken constancy to the cause of our allies in the peninsula, and to maintain against every aggression those maritime rights, on which the stability and welfare of his Majesty's dominions so essentially depend.

Convinced as we are by our past experience, that your Royal Highness has no other objects in view but such as are directed to the prosperity and happiness of the people at large, we look forward with the utmost confidence to the future, and rely upon your Royal Highness continuing, in the discharge of your sacred trust, to act upon those principles which are best calculated to insure the safety and preserve the honour of the British nation.

Signed by our Preses, in our presence, and by our appointment, at Ayr, this 5th day of April 1812.

GLASGOW, Preses.

To his Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

WE, his Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, and Commissioners of Supply, of the county of Fife, beg leave at this juncture to approach your Royal Highness with sentiments of sincere attachment to your person and government. While we unite with our fellow subjects in deploring the heavy calamity which deprives us of the paternal care of our revered sovereign, we feel consolation in the reflection that the government has devolved on your Royal Highness, and that your are at full liberty to follow such measures as are best calculated to promote the public welfare. We are fully sensible of the arduous nature of the task which has devolved on your Royal Highness, and hope the period is not distant when every description of his Majesty's subjects will exert their best energies to aid you in the discharge of them.

We beg leave to congratulate your Royal Highness on the brilliant commencement of your government, and the late splendid success of the British arms, and we hope and trust that, under your Royal Highness's auspices, the safety, glory, and prosperity of the united empire will long continue unimpaired.

We feel for the privations and burdens to which the lower classes are at present subjected, and will in our respective spheres do all in our power to alleviate them, but these the nature of the contest in which we are engaged renders unavoidable. We hope, however, that a vigorous and united exertion will render them merely temporary, and that the thinking part of the community will reflect on the magnitude of the stake we have at issue, (involving our existence as a nation, and every thing that is dear in social life), and will contrast their own situation and the comforts they enjoy, with the horror and miseries to which surrounding nations are exposed.

We take the liberty of tendering your Royal Highness assurances of our most cordial and zealous support, and of our firm determination to risk every thing at our disposal for the preservation of that constitution under which we and our ancestors have enjoyed prosperity and happiness; and we confidently hope that by the aid of divine providence the blessings we enjoy, both civil and religious, will, under your Royal Highness's illustrious family, be handed down unimpaired to the latest posterity.

At Cupar, the 5th May 1812.

Signed in name, presence, and by appointment of the Meeting, by

KELLIE, Preses.

To his Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, his Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Provost, Magistrates, and Town-Council of the Royal Burgh of Dunfermline, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness with the warmest sentiments of attachment to your person, and respect for your government; and to express the strong feeling of admiration and gratitude which have been impressed upon us by the firm, dignified, and patriotic conduct of your Royal Highness, on your assuming the unrestricted government of the empire.

In common with every description of his Majesty's subjects, we sincerely lament the continued indisposition of our venerable and beloved sovereign, who, through so long a series of years, and in times the most eventful and disastrous to the nations of Europe, his happily governed these kingdoms, ever proving himself the father and
