WILDLIFE AND COUNTRYSIDE ACT 1981

THE ARDERSIER GLACIAL DEPOSITS (HILLHEAD FARM) NATURE CONSERVATION ORDER 1996

NOTICE is hereby given that on 29th May 1996 the Secretary of State, acting under section 29 of the Wildlife and Countryside Act 1981, made the Ardersier Glacial Deposits (Hillhead Farm) Nature Conservation Order 1996. The Order applies section 29(3) of the Act to the land specified in article 1 of the Order and specifies, in article 3 of the Order, the operations which appear to the Secretary of State to be likely to destroy or damage the geological or physiographical features thereon.

The general effect of the Order is to prevent the carrying out on the land specified in article 1 of the Order of the operations referred to above unless certain conditions are met.

This Order took effect when it was made and will cease to have effect 9 months after it was made unless the Secretary of State previously gives notice that, having considered the Order, he does not propose to amend or revoke it or that he has amended or revoked it.

Objections to, or representations about, the Order may be made to the Secretary, The Scottish Office Agriculture, Environment and Fisheries Department, Pentland House, 47 Robb's Loan, Edinburgh EH14 1TY no later than 1st July 1996. These should be made in writing and state the title of the Order. In the case of objections, the grounds on which they are made should also be stated.

A copy of the Order and the Plan referred to in it have been deposited at the offices of Highland Council, Regional Buildings, Glenurquhart Road, Inverness, IV3 5NX and may be inspected there free of charge at all reasonable hours.

OFFICE OF TELECOMMUNICATIONS

PROPOSED MODIFICATIONS OF THE LICENCE OF BRITISH TELECOMMUNICATIONS (BT)

1. THE Director General of Telecommunications (the "Director") in accordance with section 12(2) of the Telecommunications Act 1984 (the "Act") hereby gives notice that he proposes to make modifications to the licence granted to British Telecommunications ("BT") on 22nd June 1984.

2. The principal modifications which the Director proposes to make and their effects are described in the Schedule below. The Director also proposes to make a number of minor and consequential modifications for the purposes of the principal proposed modifications.

Fair Trading Conditions

3. The reasons for the proposed modifications are set out in some detail in OFTEL's consultative documents "Effective Competition: A Framework for Action" (July 1995), "Fair Trading in Telecommunications" (December 1995) and "Pricing of Telecommunications Services from 1997" (June 1996).
4. The telecommunications market is going through a period of fundamental change. Over the last twelve years it has moved from monopoly, through duopoly, to a market with about 150 Public Telecommunications Operator licensees and many other companies offering a range of different facilities and services. Regulation must evolve to meet the need of a changing market.
5. Regulation is an imperfect substitute for competitive market forces, which can be hindered rather than encouraged by the maintenance of heavy-handed, backward-looking rules. OFTEL needs to be able to take effective and speedy action against anti-competitive practices, while beginning the essential process of withdrawing from prescriptive rule-making and detailed price control.
6. BT remain a significant player in many telecommunications markets, BT's licence has many detailed, prescriptive licence conditions. The time is now right, however, for a move towards a regulatory approach which is lighter, in that it imposes fewer a priori prescriptive rules, but firmer in that it puts the onus clearly on operators, and especially on dominant operators, to ensure that they do not engage in anti-competitive behaviour; which therefore imposes on Licensees a condition which prohibits anti-competitive practices; and which enables the Director to secure fair trading without having first to go through the lengthy process of individual licence modification.
7. The current process is unsatisfactory. BT's licence contains 76 conditions, many of which were drafted in 1983/84, at a time when BT had a monopoly in the provision of telecommunication services. Experience to date has shown that, due to the detailed specific nature of the licence conditions, it is often difficult for the Director to take enforcement action because the behaviour complained of is not covered by the precise terms of the condition.
8. A licence cannot specify in detail every conceivable type of anti-competitive behaviour. It is clear that there are gaps in the current conditions in BT's licence. Under the licence, the only practical solution open to the Director when a gap is exposed in the licence is to seek to modify, and hence expand, the licence to ensure that the newly-identified practice is caught in the future, BT's licence has been in a continual process of such modification and hence expansion, for several years. The system is slow and it does not provide any immediate redress to those who suffer from the anti-competitive behaviour.
9. The Director, therefore, proposes that BT's licence be modified as described in Part 1 of the Schedule to include a condition which prescribes behaviour with appreciable anti-competitive effect. The proposal includes procedures designed to protect the legitimate interests of the Licence.

10. The proposed condition has been written so that it can be included in all significant licences granted under the Telecommunications Act. Once so included it will form a uniform set of rules to apply to the holders of all such licences.

11. Adoption of the proposed new condition would result in the deletion of fifteen conditions as detailed in Part 1 of the Schedule.

Control of BT's Prices

12. The reasons for the proposed modifications relating to the control of BT's prices are set out in some detail in OFTEL's consultative documents. "Pricing of Telecommunications Services from 1997" (December 1995 and March 1996) and statement "Pricing of Telecommunications Services from 1997" (June 1996).

13. The Director proposes to make the modifications described in Part 11 of the Schedule in order to protect the interests of those of BT's customers who are not able to benefit from the effects of increased competition in the telecommunications market. While there are good prospects for competition in certain services and for medium and large businesses, effective competition for most residential customers and small businesses will not be genuinely available for all services until there is effective competition to BT from alternative local access operators. The proposed modifications would provide for a price control covering the same services as the last price control but focused on the residential and small business sectors of the market.

14. The formal price control would be applied to the residential market only but, in order to ensure that the benefits of price control are focused on those customers least able to benefit from competition, only the revenues from the first 80% of residential customers by bill size will be used as the weights in the price control formula. BT would be required to ensure that the price of services within its cap rise by not more than RPI -4.5% each year.

15. The Director proposes that the interests of small business users should be protected by requiring BT to offer a package to businesses which would provide call charges no higher than those used for calculating adherence to price control in the residential market and rental increases of no more than RPI per year. Should BT provide OFTEL with an adequate assurance as to the protection it will give to small business customers following the publication of the June 3 policy statement on price control, it may prove unnecessary to change BT's licence to this effect and the relevant licence modifications should be withdrawn.

16. In respect of control of private circuit prices, the Director proposes to remove price control from those sectors of the market that are now subject to competition and put a safeguard (RPI) cap on other sectors. Digital circuits with a capacity of over 64 kbit/s would therefore be completely removed from price control. Both analogue private circuits and digital private circuits of a capacity of 64 kbit/s or less would be placed into separate baskets and subject to price caps of RPI +0%, with no sub-caps. No price for an individual international private circuit route would be allowed to increase by more than RPI.

17. The proposed modifications in relation to the control of BT's prices would give BT considerable freedom in pricing, with only a quarter of revenue capped compared with 64% now. The Director can only allow BT this freedom if the Fair Trading Condition is in place. The Fair Trading condition and the modification of the control of BT's prices therefore form an indivisible package.

Service Providers

18. The reasons for the proposed modifications in relation to service providers (see Part III of the Schedule) are set out in detail in OFTEL's consultative document 'Promoting Competition in Services Over Telecommunication Networks' (February 1996) and statement 'Promoting Competition in Services Over Telecommunication Networks' (June 1996). The Director has had regard to responses to the consultation which he conducted following publication of the consultative document in which he sought views on the evolution of the market in services provided by network operators, over their own networks and those services provided by independent service providers with no such networks. Network services as described in the consultative document form one of the main components of enhanced services, also described in the document. BT is the dominant supplier of network services to independent service providers. It also supplies enhanced services. The Director wishes to take steps to ensure that independent service providers may compete on a more equal basis with BT in their provision of enhanced services.

19. The Supplemental Services Business is the regulatory entity through which BT provides many enhanced services (as described in the Document). It is defined in Condition 18.3 of BT's licence as consisting of various activities to the provision of Relevant Services, the Systems Business, also defined in Condition 18.3 of BT's licence, consists of various activities relating to the provision of services which are not Relevant Services. In Schedule 1 of BT's licence, Relevant Services are defined in sub-paragraph (yA) of paragraph 1 of Part 1.

20. The definition of 'Relevant Services' covers, by reference to the 'Value Added and Data Services' class licence issued in 1987, the provision of all telecommunications services provided by means of BT's Applicable Systems except for a telecommunication service 'the only substantial element of which is conveyance of live speech or Telex Messages'. The result of the provisions is that the Systems Business is the regulatory vehicle for providing conveyance of live speech or Telex Messages and the Supplementary Services Business is the regulatory vehicle for providing any other type of telecommunication service, including basic data services.

21. By virtue of the provisions of Condition 17, BT must provide services from the Systems Business to independent service providers on the same terms as it provides them from the Systems Business to the Supplemental Services Business. In order to promote fairer competition in enhanced service provision between BT and independent service providers, the Director considers that a wider range of services than at present should be supplied from the Systems Business to both independent service providers and the Supplemental Services Business.

22. The technological convergence of voice and data transmission makes regulatory distinctions between the two difficult to justify. To remedy the present situation and to achieve the objective of promoting fairer competition in the enhanced services market the Director therefore proposes that all conveyance services, making no distinction between voice and data, and including the switching required to effect such conveyance and other necessarily incidental services such as billing and basic call set-up, ought to be described as 'Network Services', and provided from the Systems Business.

23. In addition to conveyance BT can offer services to its customers which could not practicably be provided by any other person even though the services have features over and above basic conveyance, switching and necessarily incidental services. Calling Line Identity and Call Waiting are examples. It is therefore necessary to include these services within the definition of Network Services.
24. Also, there are services which are clearly enhanced services, in that they do not consist entirely of basic conveyance, nor do they fall within paragraph 23 above and yet it would not be right to expect BT to provide them from the Supplemental Services Business because this could introduce an unacceptable degree of inefficiency into the operation of its systems. Number Translation Services, Calling Card, Personal Numbering Services, VPN and Centrex fall into this category. The Director proposes that in the case of any such service, he would agree with BT, following consultation with interested parties, that it should be provided as a Network Service and accordingly, be provided from the Systems Business. For reasons of regulatory transparency and good order, BT would be obliged to maintain and publish a list of such services and to provide the Director with a copy.
25. It is proposed that all the services described in paragraphs 22, 23, and 24 above should be defined as 'Network Services', and that the definition of Relevant Services should be modified so as to cover any service provided by BT's Applicable Systems except Network Services.
26. With regard to the prices which the Licensee may charge to independent service providers for the provision of such services, the Director considers that, in the light of other proposals he is making with regard to the insertion of provisions into the BT licence prohibiting anti-competitive behaviour, it would not be appropriate for him to retain the power to determine charges to Service Providers as defined in Condition 15.8.
- Representations
27. The Director is required by section 12(2) of the Act to consider any representations or objections which are duly made and not withdrawn. Following consultation and BT's agreement with them, the Director proposes to make the modifications forthwith.
28. Representations and comments on, or objections to, the proposed modifications in respect of the Fair Trading Condition and Control of BT's prices may be made to Chris Taylor, OFTEL, 50 Ludgate Hill, London EC4M 7JJ (telephone 0171 634 8850), and in respect of Service Providers to Philip Sack at the same address, no later than 15th July 1996.
29. Any confidential material should be clearly marked as such and separated out into a confidential annex. All representations or objections received by OFTEL, with the exception of material marked confidential, will be made available for inspection in OFTEL's library. OFTEL encourages interested parties to place the non-confidential parts of their representations, objections and comments on their own Internet pages, in addition to sending OFTEL, a hard copy. Comments on this document (if they are relatively short) can also be sent to OFTEL at the following e-mail address; press.office.oftel@gtnet.gov.uk
30. Copies of the proposed modifications may be obtained from Peter Hammond at the above address (telephone 0171 634 8841).

SCHEDULE

Proposed principal modifications of conditions of the BT Licence

Part 1: Fair Trading Condition

1. The insertion of a condition to maintain effective competition

The proposed condition 18A in BT's licence will broadly prohibit any acts or omissions by the licensee which have an adverse effect on competition in the United Kingdom in any market related to commercial activities connected with telecommunications. The condition will prohibit any abuse of a dominant position enjoyed by the licensee's group and the making of anti-competitive agreements which have no countervailing benefits for efficiency and for the customer.

The condition is modelled on the principles of the EC competition rules, which are well known to BT (and will be familiar to other licensees, which have indicated that they, will accept the terms of the condition).

The condition will prohibit certain types of behaviour, in the same way that other conditions of BT's licence do. The condition will be enforceable using the procedure available to the Director under the Telecommunications Act. However, as an additional safeguard to the licensee, the condition lays down procedural steps which the Director must follow before enforcing the condition. These include a requirement that he must give full reasons for his decisions.

2. Deletion of outdated conditions

It is proposed to delete the following conditions which are now no longer necessary or are obsolete.

Condition 7 - Calls made by Emergency Organisations. The Condition requires BT to have operators to connect calls in circumstances when they cannot be dialled direct. Because it is now possible to dial Emergency Organisations direct, the condition is redundant.

Condition 28 - Arbitration of disputes with customers. This condition has been superseded by a Code of Practice and standard contract terms providing all inexpensive arbitration procedure in the event of disputes.

Condition 37 - Requirement to provide itemised information. This now falls under the definition of universal service and there is, therefore, no need for specific condition.

Condition 40A - Requirement to provide means of access to the Applicable Systems. This condition imposes an obligation on BT to provide access to its Applicable Systems, in conformity with certain standards which have now been superseded.

Condition 41 - Statutory testing. BT no longer undertakes statutory testing.

Condition 46 (paras 2 to 5) - Determination power in respect of Private Circuits. These allow the Director to determine prices for Private Circuits. They have never been invoked and are inappropriate at a time when the Director is withdrawing from detailed prescriptive price determination.

Condition 49 - Pre-notification of joint ventures. This condition requires BT to notify the Director of certain agreements or arrangements. OFTEL learns of any economically significant joint ventures through other clearance procedures.

3. Deletion of conditions covering behaviour which will be covered by the proposed condition.

It is proposed to delete the following conditions which deal with practices which, if they have an appreciable adverse effect on competition, would be prohibited by the proposed condition to maintain effective competition.

Condition 17A - Differential Charging. This condition was inserted to give BT greater flexibility to reduce call tariffs to fully allocated costs. Special rules on discounting are now no longer appropriate.

Condition 22 - Prohibition of preferential treatment. This condition requires BT's systems business not to give preferential treatment to any apparatus supply business which it may have.

Condition 25 - Charges for the maintenance of certain exchange lines. This requires BT to publish charges for the maintenance of certain exchange lines and justify any charge differential by quality of service.

Condition 35 - Prohibition of linked sales. The condition prohibits linked sales other than in certain limited circumstances.

Condition 36 - Prohibition of non-statutory testing arrangements. This condition prohibits certain exclusivity arrangements in the purchase of BT telecommunications apparatus.

Condition 40 - Prohibition of non-statutory testing arrangements. This condition prevents BT from imposing tests on apparatus to be connected to its network, over and above those required for apparatus approval under the provisions of the Act.

Condition 42 - Limitations on integrated wiring situated on Served Premises. This condition prevents BT from installing its wiring in such a way to prevent work on other systems installed on the premises.

Condition 44 - Limitations on certain maintenance arrangements. This condition covers the publication of charges, terms and conditions for maintenance services which the customer can obtain only from BT.

Part II: Control of BT's Prices

Control of General Prices (Condition 24A)

The proposed modification would restrict the scope of the price control on BT to prices for residential customers only. Prices for services to business customers would no longer be suited to price control. Furthermore, the calling profiles used to weight price reductions in each individual service, or "Revenue weights", would relate only to revenues from that service earned from customers whose bills are equal to or less than the highest bill in the eighth decile of all residential customers when ranked on the basis of the amount billed by BT to residential customers for price controlled services. A price change in a service used heavily by the first eight deciles of BT's residential customers would thus go further to meeting its price control obligations than one used only sparingly by such customers.

The modification would protect low volume business users by requiring BT to offer a package to business customers which is at least as favourable (for equivalent usage) as one in which the line rental is capped at RPI +0% and is set initially at £35 (as increased by RPI during the period before 1st August 1997) and call charges are the same as those offered under the residential customer reference tariff. This particular modification may not be necessary if BT is able to provide satisfactory public assurances to OFTEL as to the protection it will offer to its small business customers.

If BT fails to meet its price control obligations in the any price control year (including the final price control year), it would be required to make such changes to its controlled prices in that, or the following, year as may be reasonably required to satisfy the Director that the matter had been remedied.

Control of Private Circuit Prices (Condition 24B)

The proposed modification would divide private circuits into four distinct groups for price control purposes. Analogue private circuits and digital private circuits of a capacity of 64 kbit/s or less would be priced into separate baskets and each made subject to an RPI + 0% price cap. Digital circuits with a capacity of over 64 kbit/s would be removed completely from price control. In the case of international private circuits, BT would be obliged to ensure that no price for an individual route increases by more than RPI.

Treatment of Packages (Condition 24C)

BT is currently required to forego a minimum amount of revenue each year by offering discounts to its customers, whether business or residential. The proposed modification would reduce this minimum, but require that it be met only through discounts to residential customers. The level of these discounts, when expressed as a percentage of undiscounted revenues, would have to be greater than or equivalent to the value of discounts offered to BT's residential customers for the year ended 31st July 1996 (known as the "Score"), and expressed as a similar percentage. If the discounts offered in the final year of the price control period do not match or better the Score, BT would have to reduce its undiscounted prices in that year to compensate.

Part III: Service Provider

Paragraph 1(yA) in Part 1 of Schedule 1, the definition of 'Relevant Service' would be deleted and replaced with a definition which covered all services provided by means of the Licensee's Applicable Systems (as defined in Annex A of the BT licence) other than Network Services.

Sub-paragraph 15.3 to 15.9 inclusive of Condition 15 would be deleted.

The term 'Network Service' would be defined in Condition 18.3 of the BT licence, so as to give effect to the considerations set out in paragraphs 22 to 24 above, including a provision under which the Director and BT would agree, following consultation with Interested Parties (a term defined Condition 16B, 10 of the BT licence), that a service should be provided by BT as a Network Service. Sub-paragraph (d) of the definition of 'Systems Business' would be deleted and replaced with a reference to the provision of Network Services, preserving the saving with respect to the generality of sub-paragraph (a) of that definition.

A provision would be inserted after Condition 1.3 obliging BT to maintain a list of services agreed to be provided as a Network Service, a copy of which would be provided to the Director 14 days after agreement has been reached. The list would also be published by BT in accordance with its existing obligations under Condition 16.3.

Bankruptcy (Scotland) Act 1985: Schedule 5 Paragraph 5(3)

Trust Deed for Creditors by
THOMAS LAIRD (JNR)

A TRUST DEED has been granted by Thomas Laird (Jnr), residing at 17 Kirhill Road, Netherton, Wishaw ML2 0BG on 28th May 1996 conveying (to the extent specified in section 5(4A) of the Bankruptcy (Scotland) Act 1985) his Estate to me, Bryan Alan Jackson CA, Pannell Kerr Forster, 78 Carlton Place, Glasgow G5 9TH as Trustee for the benefit of his creditors generally.

If a creditor wishes to object to the trust deed for the purposes of preventing it becoming a protected trust deed (see notes below on the objections required for that purpose) notification of such objection must be delivered in writing to the Trustee within 5 weeks of the date of publication of this Notice in The Edinburgh Gazette.

Notes:

The trust deed will become a protected trust deed unless within the period of 5 weeks of the date of publication of this Notice in The Edinburgh Gazette a majority in number or not less than one third in value of the creditors notify the Trustee in writing that they object to the trust deed and do not wish to accede to it.

The effect of this is that paragraphs 6 and 7 of Schedule 5 to the Act will apply to the trust deed. Briefly, this has the effect of restricting the rights of non-acceding creditors to do diligence (ie to enforce court decrees for unpaid debts) against the debtor and confers certain protection upon the trust deed from being superseded by the sequestration of the debtor's estate.
