CEYLON.

NOTICE is hereby given, that it is the intention of the Government of Ceylon to allow the general export from the island of Cinnamon, in any vessel and to any place whatsoever, provided the same shall have been purchased from the Government Stores; and it is intended to hold public sales of that article, by auction, on the first Monday of every month, at the export warehouse (or any more convenient place, of which due notice will be given) at Colombo.

The first monthly sale will be held on the first Monday in December next; and the quantity which will be exposed for sale at each sale will probably be about 50,000 pounds.

The Cinnamon will be assorted into three sorts, first, second, and third, and imbed in bales of 100 pounds, and the lots put up will be of five bales in a lot.

The article is to be paid for in ready money, in the currency of the island, or in specie, which will be received at the current exchange of the day at Colombo.

The purchaser of each lot will be furnished with a licence in duplicate, stating the quantity and quality of the Cinnamon, and certifying it was purchased from government, and entitling the holder to export the spice free of all duty. These licences will be transferable; and, when the article is to be shipped, the licenses are to be produced in duplicate to the Commissioner of revenue, to be indorsed by him, with the name of the ship and port to which it is to be shipped from Colombo, which will be the only port of the island whence shipments will be allowed.

The exporter will deposit the duplicate of the license in the custom-house, retaining the original, to be produced, if required, at the custom-house in England.

Any Cinnamon exported or attempted to be exported without license will be confiscated; and the person exporting or attempting to export it will be liable to a fine of 300 rixdollars for each pound.

The retail of Cinnamon in the island will continue under the restrictions already enacted, as do all penalties against the sale or possession of the same by persons not licensed.
