The Edinburgh Gazette.

Published by Authority.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 26, 1838.

Colonial-Office, Downing-Street, January 24, 1838

DISPATCES have been received from Lieutenant-General Sir John Colborne, K.C.B. Commander of the Forces in Canada, dated 13th and 15th December 1837, of which the following are extract and copies:—

Extract from a Dispatch from Lieutenant-General Sir John Colborne, K. C. B. to Major-General Lord Fitzroy Somerset, K. C. B. dated Montreal, December 13, 1837.

" I HAVE the honour to acquaint you, that, on the return of Colonel Gore from St. Hyacinthe with part of the force under his command, I detached Lieutenant-Colonel Hughes, of the 24th Regiment, with ten companies, to attack the rebels which had entered St. Armand, from Swanton, in the United States; the brave and loyal volunteers of Missisqui, however, had, previously to the march of that officer from St. John's, dispersed the Canadians of which he was in pursuit. They were commanded by Bouchette and Gaynon.

" I proceed this day, with all my disposable force, towards St. Eustache, in expectation of speedily putting down the revolt in the Grand Brule, in the county of the two mountains."

Head-Quarters, St. Benoit, Grand My Lord, Brule, December 15, 1837.

In transmitting to you a copy of a dispatch to the General Commanding in Chief, I beg to inform your Lordship, that I entertain no doubt that the revolt in Lower Canada is completely at an end. The whole of the habitans, who were in arms, in the county of the Lake of the Two Mountains, the most disturbed part of the district, since the commencement of the revolt, are returning to their homes, and bringing in their arms to my Head-quarters.

I have the honour to be, &c.

J. COLBORNE, Lieut.-Gen.

The Right Hon. Lord Glenelg, H. M. Secretary of State, Colonial Department.

(Copy.)

MY LORD,

I MARCHED with the disposable force under my command from Montreal on the 13th, and entered Saint Eustache on the next day; this village had been occupied for ten days by about twelve hundred rebels, commanded by Chenien and Girod, two of the most active of their leaders.

On the appearance of the Queen's troops, the greater part of the rebels dispersed, but others remained, and fired from the church and adjacent houses, which were taken without much loss.

I continued my march to Saint Benoit, Grand Brule, this morning; a section of the country in which more outrages had been committed than in any other part of the country, since the commencement of the revolt.

It appears that the rebel army dispersed yesterday; and this morning the peasantry, which have been assembled, are bringing in their arms to Head-quarters; and I have reason to believe that, in every part of the country, the habitans have returned to their houses, and that the revolt has been completely put down. Our loss has been inconsiderable: the details of the march I shall take an early opportunity of communicating to you.

I have the honour to be, &c.

J. COLBORNE, Lieut.-Gen.

Major-Gen. the Right Hon. Lord FitzRoy Somerset, &c. &c. &c.

THE
ORIGINAL EDINBURGH ALMANAC,
OR UNIVERSAL SCOTS & IMPERIAL REGISTER,
FOR 1838;

WITH A COMPLETE
CALENDAR OF FESTIVALS AND ANNIVERSARIES,
TIDE TABLES, AND A SERIES OF ASTRONOMICAL TABLES, &c
(Containing upwards of 600 Pages.)

IN preparing THE EDINBURGH ALMANAC for 1838, the Proprietors have spared neither labour nor expense. While it includes every accustomed list of general interest and utility, all of which have been derived from authentic sources, it will be found to contain various new features, which cannot fail greatly to add to its Value as a MANUAL OF UNIVERSAL REFERENCE. The Proprietors therefore encourage the hope, that the exertions they have made to render the Work worthy of the advanced intelligence of the times, will secure for it a greater degree of public favour and success, than can be awarded to any new and untried publication of the same kind.

To the NOBILITY and GENTRY, it is recommended by the Amplitude of its information regarding the Peerage and Baronetage, Houses of Parliament, &c.—To the ARMY and NAVY, by the number of New and Additional Lists of those Services—particularly the MEDICAL and COMMISSARIAT Departments—besides extended Information of the INDIAN ARMIES, with NEW TABLES of PAY reduced to BRITISH CURRENCY.—To the CLERGY, by the extent and accuracy of its Information on Subjects connected with the Church, the New List of EXTENDED CHURCHES—the various Dissenting Communities—the Universities and Schools—the Religious—Benefvolent—and Literary Institutions, &c.—GENTLEMEN of the LAW will find in its pages some Exclusive Information relative to the Courts and Law Bodies, as well as Ample Lists of the various Practitioners in Town and Country.—To BANKERS, it is equally useful, from containing not only all the accustomed information regarding Scottish Banks in Town and Country, but a list of all the Branch Banks established in Britain since 1826, by the Bank of England, &c.—To the MERCHANT, MANUFACTURER, and AGRICULTURIST, it furnishes much important and Accurate Information, in the various Departments in which they are respectively interested, besides other valuable Branches of Information.
