SIR,

Ostend, May 27. 1798.

It is with inexpressible concern that I am to acquaint you that Colonel Campbell, of the 3d guards, died this morning of the wound he received in the action of the 20th instant. The loss of this invaluable officer to the service is irreparable, and by his country ever to be lamented.

Major-General Burrard, with all the officers (three or four excepted that were left with me) and soldiers, are removed to Lille, where I expect to be sent as soon as I am sufficiently recovered of my wounds.

I have the honour to be, &c.

EYRE COOTE, M. G.

To the Right Hon. Henry Dundas, &c.

WHITEHALL, July 21.

A dispatch, of which the following is a copy, has been received from the LORD LIEUTENANT of Ireland by his Grace the Duke of PORTLAND, his Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department.

MY LORD,

Dublin Castle, July 15. 1798.

I have the honour to acquaint your Grace, that it being reported that the mountains of Wicklow were a receptacle for bodies of rebel fugitives, I directed Lieutenant-General Lake to move different columns, in various directions, to clear that part of the country. He returned to-day to Dublin, and reports, that he was not able to find anybody whatever assembled in any part of that district.

The Lieutenant-General gives the highest credit to the perseverance and spirit of the troops during very long and difficult marches through a country almost inaccessible for troops.

On Monday last the rebels, which had been in the mountains, passed over to the Bog of Allen. On Wednesday they attacked, with a body of about 1500, the town of Clon, and where they were repulsed with the loss of sixty men by Colonel Blake, who marched from Mullingar, and attacked them with about fifty infantry, and as many yeomen cavalry. This body
