WAR-DEPARTMENT, April 20, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received two Despatches and their Enclosures, of which the following are Copies, addressed to His Lordship by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,
April 3, 1855.

MY LORD,

I HAVE the honour to transmit to your Lordship a Letter of this date, from Dr Hall, enclosing a weekly return of the sick of the Army, up to the 31st ultimo.

Your Lordship will see with satisfaction that the general health of the Army continues steadily to improve.

I have also to submit to your Lordship, with reference to your Despatch, No. 22, of the 26th February, the copy of a Letter from the same Officer, on the question of accommodation for wounded men, on the event of any sudden emergency occurring.

As the ships referred to by Dr Hall are constantly on passage, and might all be so at the time they might be wanted for the wounded, I proposed to Sir Edmund Lyons to have some sailing vessels got ready for their reception, and accordingly, with his sanction, the following transports are under preparation:—Orient, Sir George Pollock, St Hilder, William Jackson, and Poitiers;—and it is calculated that they will hold from 100 to 150 men each.

I have, &c.

RAGLAN.

The Lord Panmure, &c., &c.

Enclosure 1.

Before Sevastopol,
April 3, 1855.

MY LORD,

IN transmitting the weekly state of sick to the 31st March, I have the honour to state, and I am sure it will be pleasing to your Lordship to learn, that the general health of the Army continues steadily to improve; and although fevers and bowel complaints continue to prevail, they are both assuming a milder character, and the latter are of much less frequent occurrence.

During the present week the admissions to strength have been in the ratio of 3.93 per cent., and the deaths to strength 0.38 per cent.

Last week the admissions to strength were 4.35 per cent., and the deaths 0.52 per cent.;

which makes a decrease of 139 in the admissions, and 43 in the deaths during the week.

Fever continues to prevail in some particular regiments more than in others; but I am in hope change of locality will correct this.

The comforts of the men are greatly improved in every respect, and it is evinced by their cheerfulness and more healthy appearance.

The rations are good and abundant, the men are well clothed, and due attention is paid to the sanitary condition of the different camps. The supply of water is ample at present, and means are being adopted to insure it in future by constructing new tanks, cleaning out those that already exist, and digging fresh wells.

Indeed, so far as the physical wants of the men are concerned, I am of opinion the force is as well provided as any army can reasonably expect to be when employed on active service in the field.

The hospitals are on a respectable footing, not crowded, and amply provided with all that is necessary for the comfort and welfare of the sick; and if the casualties of war do not fill our hospitals we may fairly look forward to have a diminished sick-list in future.

But should the chances of war unfortunately produce wounded, I calculate we shall be able to accommodate 1400 on shore, and arrangements are being made for the reception of between 500 and 600 on board ship, which I sincerely trust will be more than sufficient for our wants. I have, &c.,

J. HALL,

Inspector-General of Hospitals.

To Field-Marshal Lord Raglan, G.C.B., Commanding-in-Chief.

Enclosure 2.

Before Sevastopol,
March 23, 1855.

SIR,

WITH reference to the question of accommodation for wounded men in the event of any sudden emergency arising, I have the honour to state, for the information of the Field-Marshal Commanding-in-Chief, that in addition to the accommodation which the regimental establishments of the Divisions in front will afford—say from 250 to 300—I propose to occupy thirty of the new huts in rear of the 3d Division, at present in the possession of the 14th and 39th Regiments, which would afford comfortable accommodation for 480; and as these huts are built on dry, elevated, clean ground, with water not very distant, I calculate thirty more of the huts might be given over in case of any very great emergency, and the troops put under canvass, which would afford room for 480 more. At the Sanitarium at Balaklava, I calculate on accommodation for 200 wounded, in addition to the convalescents there at present, when the huts now in course of erection are completed.

From the crowded state of the general hospitals at Scutari, the length of time they have been occupied, and the amount of fever that has prevailed in them of late, I am most unwilling to send wounded men there if I can possibly avoid it; but should necessity compel us to resort to that measure, the steamers are already fitted as hospital ships, and would be capable of transporting, with ease and comfort, 620 wounded.

The hospital establishments at Smyrna, Abydos, and Gallipoli, are full; and as typhoid fever is reported to have made its appearance in the hospital at Smyrna, it would not be desirable to send wounded men there during its continuance.

If compelled to form another hospital establishment out of the Crimea, I should suggest, from what I have heard, that Sinope be selected. I speak from hearsay, for I have never been there myself, but perhaps the Commander-in-Chief might be pleased to have it surveyed by some competent person, and a report made of its capabilities.

Our accommodation for wounded, taking minimum numbers, will therefore stand thus:—

I have, &c.,

(Signed) T. HALL,
Inspector-General of Hospitals.

To Major-General R. Airey,
Quartermaster-General.

Before Sevastopol,

My LORD, April 7, 1855.

SOME interchange of troops has taken place since I addressed your Lordship on the 31st ultimo.

Battalions and considerable convoys have entered the town, and other bodies of troops have been seen to leave the north side. The garrison has been constantly engaged in adding to the works, and particularly in connecting the rifle pits in the immediate front of our right attack; and as we have pushed forward, the fire upon our advance has occasioned more loss, I deeply regret to say, than we have sustained since the sortie of the

2nd March
Lieutenant Bainbrigge, of the Royal Engineers, was I lament to have to add, killed on the morning of the 4th April, whilst in the execution of his duty, by the bursting of a shell.

He was a young officer of much promise, and though he had not long been here, he had acquired the esteem and good opinion of his brother officers, and his loss is greatly deplored by all.

I enclose the Return of Casualties to the 5th instant.

I have, &c.,

INVESTITURE of His Imperial Majesty, NAPOLEON III, EMPEROR of the FRENCH, with the Ensigns of the Most Noble Order of the Garter.

At the Court at Windsor Castle,
April 18, 1855.

A CHAPTER of the Most Noble Order of the Garter having been summoned for this day, the following Knights Companions, in their mantles and collars, assembled in the Guard Chamber; viz:—the Marquess of Exeter, the Duke of Richmond, the Marquess of Lansdowne, the Duke of Buckingham and Chandos, the Marquess of Salisbury, the Duke of Cleveland, Earl De Grey, the Marquess of Abercorn, the Marquess of Hertford, the Duke of Bedford, the Earl of Clarendon, Earl Spencer, Earl Fitzwilliam, the Duke of Northumberland, the Earl of Ellesmere, and the Earl of Aberdeen, attended by the undermentioned Officers of the Order, in their mantles, chains, and badges; viz:—the Bishop of Winchester, Prelate; the Bishop of Oxford, Chancellor; the Honourable and Reverend the Dean of Windsor, Register; Sir Charles George Young, Knight, Garter Principal King of Arms; and Sir Augustus William James Clifford, Baronet, Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod. At half-past three o'clock the Knights Companions were severally called over by Garter, and proceeded into the Grand Reception Room, when the Sovereign, and His Royal Highness the Prince Albert, His Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge, and His Serene Highness the Prince of Leiningen, having passed to the Throne Room, the Knights Companions, with the Officers of the Order, proceeded into the presence of the Sovereign.

The Chancellor then, by command of the Sovereign, promulgated a new Statute, dispensing with the existing Statutes of the Order, in as far as required for the especial purpose therein mentioned, and in consideration of the high friendship and close alliance now happily subsisting between the Sovereign and His Imperial Majesty, Napoleon III, Emperor of the French, ordaining and declaring His Imperial Majesty a Knight of this Most Noble Order, any statute, decree, rule, or usage to the contrary notwithstanding.

His Royal Highness Prince Albert and His Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge, the two Senior Knights Companions present, thereupon retired from the Chapter, and conducted the Emperor of the French from His Imperial Majesty's Apartments to the Chapter Room, between their Royal Highnesses, preceded by Garter (bearing the Ensigns of the Order upon a crimson velvet cushion) and by Black Rod.

On entering the Chapter Room, His Imperial Majesty was received by the Sovereign and the Knights Companions standing, and on approaching the Sovereign was seated in a Chair of State on the right hand of Her Majesty.

The Sovereign announced to the Emperor of the French that His Imperial Majesty had been declared a Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter.

Garter then, kneeling, presented the Garter to the Sovereign, and Her Majesty, assisted by His Royal Highness Prince Albert and His Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge, buckled it on the left leg of His Imperial Majesty, the Chancellor pronouncing the Admonition.

Garter next presented in like manner the Ribband with the George, and the Sovereign, assisted as before, put the same over the left shoulder of His Imperial Majesty, the Chancellor pronouncing the Admonition.

The Sovereign thereupon gave the Accolade to the Emperor of the French; and His Imperial Majesty then passing round the table received the congratulations of each of the Knights Companions present, and then resumed his seat.

The Chapter being ended, the Knights Companions were severally called over by Garter, and, with the Officers of the Order, retired from the presence of the Sovereign with the usual reverences.

During the ceremony a Guard of the Honourable Corps of Gentlemen-at-Arms was in attendance at the door of the Chapter Room; and a special Guard of Honour of the Honourable Corps was on duty, in attendance upon His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of the French. A Guard of Honour, consisting of two Companies of the Grenadiers, and one Company of the Coldstream Guards, with the Band of the latter corps at their head, were posted in the Great Quadrangle of the Castle, and, on the termination of the Investiture, saluted and retired.

Her Imperial Majesty the Empress of the French, attended by the Princess d'Essling, the Countess de Montebello, and the Baroness de Malaret, witnessed the August Ceremony, as did also the French Ambassador and the Countess Walewski, and the following members of His Imperial Majesty's suite; viz.—Marshal Vaillant, Minister of War, the Duke of Bassano, the Count of Montebello, Colonel Count Ney, Count Fleury, the Marquis de Toulangeon, and Count Tascher de la Pagerie.

Their Royal Highnesses the Duchess of Kent, the Duchess of Cambridge, and the Princess Mary of Cambridge, several of the Great Officers of State and Cabinet Ministers, with the Officers of the Royal Household, were also present.

At the conclusion of the Chapter, Her Majesty accompanied the Emperor to his apartments, followed by the Empress and His Royal Highness Prince Albert, and attended by the Ladies and Gentlemen of the Imperial and Royal Suites. Her Majesty and the Prince then returned to their own rooms.

The Officers of the Order had afterwards the honour of being severally presented to Their Imperial Majesties.

In the evening a State Banquet was given in St George's Hall to their Imperial Majesties, at which were present the above-named Royal, Noble, and Distinguished Personages; the Knights Companions and Officers of the Order.

During the Banquet Her Majesty drank to the health of Her Illustrious Visitors the Emperor and Empress of the French.

In the Evening a Grand Concert was performed in the Music Room, to which a numerous party of the Nobility were invited, and the town of Windsor was illuminated.

At the Court at Windsor Castle,
April 18, 1855.

The Queen, as Sovereign of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, hath been graciously pleased, by Letters-Patent under Her Royal Sign Manual and the Great Seal of the Order, bearing date this day, to dispense with all the statutes and regulations usually observed in regard to Installation, and to grant unto His Imperial Majesty NAPOLEON III, EMPEROR of the French, Knight of the said Most Noble Order, and duly invested with the Ensigns thereof, full power and authority to exercise all rights and privileges belonging to a Knight Companion of the said Most Noble Order of the Garter, in as full and ample a manner as if His Imperial Majesty had been formally installed, any decree, rule, or usage to the contrary notwithstanding.
