JOHN HALL,

Inspector-General of Hospitals.

Metropolitan Cattle Market, Copenhagen Fields, June 13, 1855.

This day the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor, and the Deputation of Aldermen and Common Councilmen of the City of London, waited upon His Royal Highness Prince Albert with the following Address, which was read by the Right Honourable J. A. Stuart Wortley, M.P., the Recorder, and which His Royal Highness was pleased to receive very graciously:—

To His Royal Highness PRINCE ALBERT.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, Her Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the city of London, in Common Council assembled, desire, by the warmest expression of our gratitude, to testify to your Royal Highness the value which we attribute to your gracious presence on this occasion.

The proceedings of this day are of deep interest and importance to the great community of the metropolis, and to the country at large.

These costly and extensive works have been undertaken by the corporation of the city of London in deference to the suggestions of the National Legislature, and under a strong sense of the responsibility accompanying the powers and the means confided to them by their fellow-citizens.

If the transfer of the Chief Metropolitan Market to this new and spacious locality shall be successful, it will not only have removed all ground of complaint arising from the character of its ancient site, but will also have conferred essential benefits upon the population of this vast capital as well as on those important branches of our National industry which are concerned in supplying with food the increasing masses of its inhabitants and the countless numbers who frequent it.

In the happiness and prosperity of all classes of Her Majesty's subjects your Royal Highness has always evinced the warmest and most active interest, and we know nothing more likely to secure success to this great undertaking than the sanction and encouragement afforded in its inauguration by the illustrious Consort of our Queen.

We therefore humbly rejoice in the opportunity thus given to us of welcoming your Royal Highness on this spot, of expressing our heartfelt gratitude for your Royal Highness's attendance, and of manifesting anew our affectionate and respectful attachment to the Person and Family of the beloved Sovereign of these Realms.

To which Address His Royal Highness was pleased to return the following most gracious answer:—

My Lord Mayor and Gentlemen,

"Accept the expression of my hearty thanks for your kind welcome, and for the gratifying assurance of your loyal and affectionate attachment to the Queen and Her family.

"I have been much pleased by the opportunity which your kind invitation has afforded me of seeing and admiring the great work which you this day open to the public; a work which not only deserves all admiration in itself on account of the excellence of the arrangements and the magnificence of the design, but which will, I trust, be found eminently conducive to the comfort and health of the city of London.

"That its success will be commensurate with the spirit in which it has been undertaken and carried out, I cannot doubt.

"A certain dislocation of habits and interests must inevitably attend the removal of the great City Market from the site it has occupied for so many centuries, and this may possibly retard for the moment the fullest development of the undertaking. But any opposition arising from such causes will soon cease; and the farmers will doubtless soon learn to appreciate the boon thus conferred upon them by the London Corporation, in the increased facility which will be afforded to them for the transaction of their business, and the comparative security with which they will be enabled to bring up and display their valuable stock in the Great Metropolitan Cattle Market."
