The Speech of the Lords Commissioners to both Houses of Parliament, on Tuesday, July 29, 1856.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

“We are called by Her Majesty to release you from further attendance in Parliament, and at the same time to express to you Her warm acknowledgments for the zeal and assiduity with which you have applied yourselves to the discharge of your public duties during the Session.

“When Her Majesty met you in Parliament at the opening of the Session, Her Majesty was engaged, in co-operation with Her Allies the Emperor of the French, the King of Sardinia, and the Sultan, in an arduous War, having for its object matters of high European importance, and Her Majesty appealed to your loyalty and patriotism for the necessary means to carry on that War with the energy and vigour essential to success. You answered nobly the appeal then made to you, and Her Majesty was enabled to prepare for the operations of the expected campaign naval and military forces worthy of the power and reputation of this Country.

“Happily it became unnecessary to apply those forces to the purpose for which they had been destined. A Treaty was concluded by which the object for which the War had been undertaken was fully attained, and an honourable Peace has saved Europe from the calamities of continued warfare. Her Majesty trusts that the benefits resulting from that peace will be extensive and permanent, and that while the friendships and alliances which were cemented by common exertion during the contest will gain strength by mutual interests in peace, those asperities which inherently belong to conflict will give place to the confidence and goodwill with which a faithful execution of engagements will inspire those who have learnt to respect each other as antagonists. Her Majesty commands us to thank you for your support in the hour of trial, and to express to you Her fervent hope that the prosperity of Her faithful people, which was not materially checked by the pressure of war, may continue and be increased by the genial influence of peace.

“Her Majesty is engaged in negotiations on the subject of questions in connection with the affairs of Central America, and Her Majesty hopes that the differences which have arisen on those matters between Her Majesty's Government and that of the United States, may be satisfactorily adjusted.

“We are commanded by Her Majesty to inform you that Her Majesty desires to avail Herself of this occasion to express the pleasure which it afforded Her to receive, during the war in which she has been engaged, numerous and honourable proofs of loyalty and public spirit from Her Majesty's Indian Territories, and from those Colonial Possessions which constitute so valuable and important a part of the dominions of Her Majesty's Crown.

“Her Majesty has given Her cordial assent to the Act for rendering more effectual the Police in Counties and Boroughs in England and Wales. This Act will materially add to the security of person and property, and will thus afford increased encouragement to the exertions of honest industry.

Her Majesty rejoices to think that the Act for the improvement of the internal arrangements of the University of Cambridge will give fresh powers of usefulness to that ancient and renowned seat of learning.

The Act for Regulating Joint Stock Companies will afford additional facilities for the advantageous employment of capital, and will thus tend to promote the development of the resources of the Country; while the Acts passed relative to the mercantile laws of England and Scotland will diminish the inconvenience which the difference of those laws occasioned to Her Majesty's subjects engaged in trade.

“Her Majesty has seen with satisfaction that you have given your attention to the arrangements connected with the County Courts. It is Her Majesty's anxious wish that justice should be attainable by all classes of Her subjects with as much speed and with as little expense as may be consistent with the due investigation of the merits of causes to be tried.

“Her Majesty trusts that the Act for placing the Coast Guard under the direction of the Board of Admiralty will afford the groundwork for arrangements for providing in time of peace means applicable to National defence on the occasion of any future emergency.

“Gentlemen of the House of Commons.
“We are commanded by Her Majesty to thank you for the readiness with which you have granted the supplies for the present year.

" My Lords and Gentlemen,

" Her Majesty commands us to congratulate you on the favourable state of the revenue, and upon the thriving condition of all branches of the National industry ; and she acknowledges with gratitude the loyalty of Her faithful subjects, and that spirit of order and that respect for the laws which prevail in every part of Her dominions.

" Her Majesty commands us to express Her confidence that on your return to your homes you will promote, by your influence and example in your several districts, that continued and progressive improvement which is the vital principle of the well-being of Nations ; and Her Majesty fervently prays that the blessing of Almighty God may attend your steps and prosper your doings, for the welfare and happiness of Her people."

WAR-DEPARTMENT, July 30, 1856.

LORD PANMURE has received a Despatch, of which the following is a copy, addressed to his Lordship by General Sir William Codrington, K.C.B. :—

Constantinople, July 16, 1856.

MY LORD,

FINDING that all arrangements would be completed for evacuating the Crimea on the 12th instant, I wrote the previous day to the officer in command of the Russian troops, a Colonel of the Gendarmerie, at Kamiesh, that I should be ready to hand over the Dockyard of Sevastopol, and the port of Balaklava on that day.

Her Majesty's ship Algiers had entered the port of Balaklava on the 7th instant ; the 56th Regiment embarked in that ship on the evening of the 11th : The only troops remaining were one wing of the 50th Regiment, which formed the guard of the town that night.

The following-day, the 12th, at one P.M., all the remaining stores and establishments having been embarked, a company of the 50th was posted outside of the town to receive the Russian troops, and on their approach marched in with the Russian Guard, composed of about 50 mounted Cossacks, and a similar number of Infantry Cossacks.

The usual form of salutes took place, the Russians placed sentries where they wished, and the four companies of the 50th marched on board the Algiers. I embarked with my personal staff at the same time.

Although the weather was unfavourable we were enabled to quit the harbour of Balaklava that evening.

Admiral Sir H. Stewart and Admiral Fremantle were at anchor outside the harbour ; they weighed, and we all sailed for this place, where I arrived to-day.

I have, &c.,

W. J. CODRINGTON,
General Commanding.

The Lord Panmure, &c., &c., &c.

At the Court at Osborne-House, Isle of Wight, the 28th day of July 1856,

PRESENT,

The QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS by an Act passed in the session of Parliament holden in the eleventh and twelfth years of Her Majesty's reign, intituled, "An Act to prohibit the importation of sheep, cattle, or other animals, for the purpose of preventing the introduction of contagious or infectious disorders," it is amongst other things enacted that it shall be lawful for Her Majesty, from time to time, by Order in Council, to make such regulations for subjecting sheep, cattle, horses, or other animals to quarantine, or for causing the same to be destroyed upon their arrival in this country, or for destroying any hay, straw, fodder, or other article whereby it appears to Her Majesty that infection or contagion may be conveyed, and generally, to make such regulations with respect to the importation of sheep, cattle, horses, or other animals, as Her Majesty may consider to be necessary, in order to prevent the introduction of any contagious or infectious disorder ; and also, by any further Order or Orders in Council, from time to time to revoke the whole or any part of such Order or Orders issued, under the authority of the said Act.

And whereas by an Order in Council bearing date the fourth day of September one thousand eight hundred and forty-eight, issued in pursuance of said Act, Her Majesty was pleased to make certain regulations with respect to the importation of sheep and lambs infected with a certain contagious disease, and whereas it is expedient to revoke the said Order, and to extend the provisions thereof.

Now therefore, Her Majesty, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, and under the authority of the said Act, doth order, and it is hereby ordered, that the said Order in Council dated the fourth day of September one thousand eight hundred and forty-eight, shall, from and after the day of the insertion hereof in the London Gazette, cease and determine.

And whereas it has been represented to Her Majesty that sheep, lambs, cattle, and pigs, infected with certain contagious or infectious disorders, are from time to time imported or brought into this country, whereby infection or contagion may be conveyed.

Now therefore, Her Majesty, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, and by virtue of the said Act, doth order, and it is hereby further ordered, that if any sheep, lambs, cattle, or pigs, imported or brought into this country, shall appear at the time of their importation to be infected with or labouring under any contagious or infectious disorder, whereby infection or contagion may be conveyed, such sheep, lambs, cattle, or pigs, and all or any sheep, lambs, cattle, or pigs, imported or brought into this country in the same ship or vessel with any sheep, lambs, cattle, or pigs which shall appear to be so diseased, and all hay, straw, fodder, or other article by which it shall appear that infection or contagion may be conveyed, shall be seized and detained by the officers of Her Majesty's customs at the port of import, and the circumstances be forthwith reported by such officers to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs; and if it be certified to the said Commissioners by any veterinary surgeon appointed by them to inspect such sheep, lambs, cattle, or pigs, that they or any of them are infected with or labouring under any such disorder, then the said Commissioners may, if they think proper, cause such sheep, lambs, cattle, or pigs, as are so certified, to be forthwith destroyed; and they, the said Commissioners, shall thereupon give such directions as they think fit, either for destroying or for further detaining all or any others of the sheep, lambs, cattle, or pigs, which may have been so imported or brought into this country in the same ship or vessel with the sheep, lambs, cattle, or pigs so certified as aforesaid, together with all such hay, straw, fodder, or other article, or for restoring the same to the owner or owners thereof, subject to any conditions which they may think fit to prescribe, and upon payment by such owner or owners of any expenses incurred by the said Commissioners in respect of the detention thereof.

And the Right Honourable the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury are to give the necessary directions herein accordingly.
