FOREIGN OFFICE, October 14, 1863.

THE following Despatch has been addressed by Earl Russell to Sir Alexander Malet, Her Britannic Majesty's Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the Diet of Frankfort :

Foreign Office,
September 29, 1863.

SIR,
Your Despatch of the 21st instant shows in a convincing manner that the state of affairs between Germany and Denmark is becoming very serious.

You state that a Report of a Committee has been presented to the Diet, from your analysis of which it appears that the framers of this Report recommend Federal execution in the Duchy of Holstein ; that the Report is to be considered on the 1st of October ; and, if adopted, execution will take place three weeks afterwards, the shortest interval of time, you observe, which the Constitution of the Diet allows.

It appears further that the grounds upon which the resolution of Federal execution is to be based, are of the widest description.

The Report says, "The aim of the execution consists unmistakably in carrying out the Diet's Decrees of the 11th of February and the 12th of August 1858, of the 8th of March 1860, of the 7th of February 1861, and the 9th of July 1863, in so far as this has not already been done, and at the same time in fulfilment of the declared engagement entered into by the Royal Rescript of the years 1851-2, with reference to the Duchies of Holstein and Lauenburg, that is to say, to establish between the said Duchies, together with Sleswig, and the Kingdom of Denmark Proper, a general constitution connecting them by a common union (gleichartiger herbande) which should secure the independence and equal rights of each, in such wise that no one part should be subordinated to another ; and likewise for the establishment of provincial constitutions for the Duchies of Holstein and Lauenburg, possessing a representation with competence of final decision."

It is impossible for Her Majesty's Government to shut their eyes to the gravity of the proposition which the Diet have to consider.

Had the report of the Committee gone no further than to affirm that the Royal Letters-patent do not fulfil the resolutions of the Diet as to the Duchy of Holstein ; that the Duke of Holstein has no right to dispose of the money of Holstein without the consent of its representatives ; that he has no right to enact laws for Holstein but in concurrence with the Diet of Holstein ; that the long delays of the Danish Government to come to a satisfactory arrangement have made Federal execution necessary ; Her Majesty's Government, although they would still have lamented the interference of the German Diet at this particular time, could not have denied that the principles asserted were the sound, and indeed the fundamental principles of constitutional government.

But it cannot be pretended that the constitution of the whole Danish Monarchy can be subject to the jurisdiction of the German Confederation.

If the representatives of the Duchies of Holstein and Lauenburg are to have a veto on the proceedings of the Danish Parliament and of the Danish Government, it is obvious that measures the most necessary for the defence of Denmark against a foreign enemy may be hindered, the whole action of the Danish monarchy may be paralysed, and the integrity and independence of Denmark may be seriously impaired.

Her Majesty, by the Treaty of London of May 8, 1852, is bound to respect the integrity and independence of Denmark. The Emperor of Austria and the King of Prussia have taken the same engagement.

Her Majesty could not see with indifference a military occupation of Holstein, which is only to cease upon terms injuriously affecting the constitution of the whole Danish monarchy.

Her Majesty's Government could not recognise this military occupation as a legitimate exercise of the powers of the Confederation, or admit that it could properly be called a Federal execution.

Her Majesty's Government could not be indifferent to the bearing of such an act upon Denmark and upon European interests.

Her Majesty's Government therefore earnestly entreat the German Diet to pause, and to submit the questions in dispute between Germany and Denmark to the mediation of other Powers unconcerned in the controversy, but deeply concerned in the maintenance of the peace of Europe and the independence of Denmark.

I am, &c.,

(Signed) RUSSELL.

P.S.—You are desired to give the President of the Diet a copy of this Despatch.

THE Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade have received, from the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, a copy of a Despatch from Her Majesty's Chargé d'Affaires at Washington, containing a Proclamation issued by the President of the United States, opening the Port of Alexandria, Virginia, to commercial intercourse.

Board of Trade, Whitehall,
October 15, 1863.

THE Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade have received, from the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, a copy of a Despatch from Her Majesty's Chargé d'Affaires at Washington, enclosing, as follows, a copy of a circular issued by the Treasury of the United States to the Agents of that Department, "concerning trade with and in States declared in "insurrection, and concerning abandoned and captured property," together with a summary of the most important provisions in the revised regulations presented by the United States Secretary of the Treasury:—

To the Special Agents of the Treasury Department.

GENTLEMEN.—The President of the United States having, by proclamation of July 1, 1862, declared and proclaimed that the States of South Carolina, Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi, Arkansas, Tennessee, North Carolina, and the State of Virginia, except the following counties, Hancock, Brooke, Ohio, Marshall, Wetzel, Marion, Monongalia, Preston, Taylor, Pleasants, Tyler, Ritchie, Doddridge, Harrison,

Wood, Jackson, Wirt, Roane, Calhoun, Gilmer, Barbour, Tucker, Lewis, Braxton, Upshur, Randolph, Mason, Putnam, Kanawha, Clay, Nicholas, Cabell, Wayne, Boone, Logan, Wyoming, Webster, Fayette, and Raleigh, are in insurrection and rebellion:

And having also, by proclamation on the 31st of March 1863, revoked certain exceptions made by his former proclamation dated August 16, 1861, and declared that the inhabitants of the States of Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama, Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi, Florida, and Virginia, (except the forty-eight counties of Virginia designated as West Virginia, and except also the ports of New Orleans, Key West, Port Royal, and Beaufort, in North Carolina,) are in a state of insurrection against the United States, and that all commercial intercourse, not licensed and conducted as provided in said Act, between the said States and the inhabitants thereof, with the exceptions aforesaid, and the citizens of other States and other parts of the United States, is unlawful, and will remain unlawful until such insurrection shall cease or has been suppressed, and notice thereof has been duly given by proclamation; and all cotton, tobacco, and other products, and all other goods and chattels, wares and merchandize, coming from any of said States, with the exceptions aforesaid, into other parts of the United States, or proceeding to any of said States, with the exceptions aforesaid, without the license and permission of the President, through the Secretary of the Treasury, will, together with the vessel or vehicle conveying the same, be forfeited to the United States:

And the Act of Congress "further to provide for the collection of duties on imports and for other purposes, approved July 13, 1861," having authorized said proclamation, and the license and regulations referred to:

And the Act of Congress supplementary to said Act of July 13, 1861, approved May 20, 1862, having conferred additional powers on said Secretary, and prescribed further conditions of trade:

And the Act of Congress, approved March 12, 1863, entitled "An Act to provide for the collection of abandoned property and for the prevention of frauds in insurrectionary districts within the United States," having declared

"That it shall be lawful for the Secretary of the Treasury, from and after the passage of said Act, as he shall from time to time see fit, to appoint a special agent or agents to receive and collect all abandoned or captured property in any state or territory, or any portion of any state or territory of the United States, designated as in insurrection against the lawful government of the United States by the proclamation of the President of July 1, 1862: Provided that such property shall not include any kind or description which has been used, or which was intended to be used, for waging or carrying on war against the United States, such as arms, ordnance, ships, steamboats, or other water-craft, and the furniture, forage, military supplies, or munitions of war."

And further, "That any part of the goods or property received or collected by such agent or agents may be appropriated to public use on due appraisal and certificate thereof, or forwarded to any place of sale within the loyal States, as the public interests may require; and that all sales of such property shall be at public auction to the highest bidder, and the proceeds thereof shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States."

And further, "That he shall cause a book or books of account to be kept, showing from whom such property was received, the cost of transportation, and the proceeds of the sale thereof."

And further, "That any person claiming to have been the owner of any such abandoned or captured property may, at any time within two years after the suppression of the rebellion, prefer his claim to the proceeds thereof in the Court of Claims; and on proof, to the satisfaction of said Court, of his ownership of said property, of his right to the proceeds thereof, and that he has never given any aid or comfort to the present rebellion, to receive the residue of such proceeds after deducting the expenses of transportation and sale of said property, and any other lawful expenses attending the disposition thereof."

And further, "That it shall be the duty of any officer or private of the regular or volunteer forces of the United States, or any officer, sailor, or marine in the naval service of the United States, upon the inland waters of the United States, who may take or receive any such abandoned property, or cotton, sugar, rice, or tobacco, from persons in such insurrectionary districts, or have it under his control, to turn the same over to an agent appointed as aforesaid, who shall give a receipt therefor; and in case he shall refuse to do so, he shall be tried by a court-martial, and punished as said court shall order, with the approval of the President of the United States."

And the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy having respectively made and published orders for the enforcing of said acts:

The following regulations are prescribed for the government of the several supervising, assistant, and local special agents and agency aids, appointed to carry said Acts and the regulations made under them into effect, and for the purpose of conducting the commercial intercourse licensed and permitted by the President, and preventing the conveyance of munitions of war and supplies to insurgents, or to localities declared to be in insurrection against the United States, or in such quantities that there will be imminent danger of their falling into the possession or under the control of insurgents; and are published, together with the proclamations and license of the President, the several Acts of Congress, and the orders of the Secretaries of War and of the Navy, for the information of parties interested.

All officers charged with the execution of these regulations, while using necessary vigilance to prevent supplies to rebels, either directly or by undue accumulation at points where there will be imminent danger of their falling into their hands, and in collecting abandoned or captured property, will be careful to occasion as little inconvenience as possible to any legitimate trade or intercourse, or to loyal people.

S. P. CHASE,

Secretary of the Treasury.

Treasury Department, September 11, 1863.

The President has considered and approved the revised trade regulations prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury for the government of the limited commercial intercourse between the citizens of the loyal States and the inhabitants of States and parts of States heretofore declared to be in insurrection. The Secretary has given the most careful consideration to the subject, and, while many of the former restrictions have been removed, due provision has been made to prevent the rebels from benefiting by the regulations.

The general supervising special agents, now five in number, are required, after conference with the Generals commanding departments, when possible, and with their sanction, unless unavoidable circumstances prevent the obtaining of it, to designate by known geographical boundaries, or by the enumeration of counties, that portion of the territory included in their agencies respectively, with which trade may be safely permitted, and report such designation to the Secretary. The part of territory so designated shall be called the trade district; and no transportation of goods, except as specially provided for, shall be permitted beyond the lines of such district. If it shall appear that, beyond the lines of national military occupation, there is some territory within which the supply of necessaries is required by humanity and sound policy, while trade cannot yet be safely re-established, then the supervising special agent, with the sanction of the General commanding the department, but in no case without his sanction, and subject to revocation and modification by the Secretary, may in like manner designate the portion of territory in their respective agencies to which goods may be properly permitted for individual and family supply, but for no other purpose. The territory so designated shall be called the supply district, and no goods shall be transported thereto for re-sale, except as provided by regulation. Authorized traders, except in the cities of Memphis and Nashville, and such other cities or towns as may hereafter be designated by the Secretary, with the concurrence and approval of the General commanding the department, shall not sell goods to others to be resold by them, but shall sell only to persons for their own individual family or plantation use. In Memphis, Nashville, and other cities after designation, authorized traders may sell goods to other traders, for the purpose of re-sale upon the certificate of the proper local special agent. Persons and families residing in these cities may purchase supplies for their own consumption at any trade store therein, without any permit or certificate, but goods so sold shall not be transported out of the said cities without the permit of the proper officer. Upon the request of the General commanding the department the establishment of one or more trade stores in any city or town of a supply district may be authorized under the same regulations as trade stores are established in trade districts, and subject to military orders. But the authority to establish such stores may be revoked and such stores discontinued whenever the public interest may require it. All proper and loyal persons may apply in the prescribed form for authority to purchase for money, other than gold or silver, any of the products of the country within the lines of national military occupation in the agency, except when prohibited by the General commanding the department, or other special military order, and to transport the same to market, on executing a proper bond. Every permit to purchase or sell cotton, tobacco, or other merchandise within any place or section in a State heretofore declared in insurrection, after commercial intercourse therewith shall have been permitted by the Secretary of the Treasury, and every permit to transport the same thereto, therein, or therefrom, shall clearly define the character and quantity of the merchandise. Boats and vessels may be cleared, and merchandise not prohibited may be permitted, from any port which has been blockaded but opened by proclamation, upon payment of such fees only as were chargeable therefor before the blockade was declared, but subject to prescribed regulations, and upon giving bond not to land or discharge any of such merchandise at any intermediate point, except under permit authorised by the regulations. But no goods, wares, or merchandise shall be shipped or transported from and out of such opened port, except under permits granted upon compliance with the regulations and local rules, and payment of prescribed fees.

The above are a few of the most important provisions. The modified regulations are to supersede those of March 31 last, and all others conflicting with them. All permits granted and acts done in pursuance of former regulations are to be valid and effectual until the 15th of October next, unless the regulations shall have been sooner received and made known at the place of such permits or acts.
