WAR-OFFICE, October 27, 1863.

The Secretary of State for War has received a Despatch from Lieutenant-General Cameron, C.B., Commanding the Troops in New Zealand, of which the following is a copy:—

Head-Quarters, Queen's Redoubt,

August 4, 1863.

MY LORD,

WITH reference to the reports I have forwarded to your Lordship, relative to the operations in which the troops in this province have been engaged during the past month, I beg to state that their success has been owing in great measure to the valuable assistance rendered by Captain Sullivan, Senior Naval Officer at this station, and by the officers and men under his command.

A large party of seamen and marines of Her Majesty's ship Harrier have been encamped on the bank of the Mangatawhiri river since the 11th ultimo, and their services have been of the greatest advantage to the force under my command, all the boats employed in conveying troops and supplies across to the Koheroa having been entirely manned by them.

At my request Captain Sullivan has superintended the construction of six large flat bottomed boats, especially adapted for the transport of troops up the Waikato. Two of these have been brought overland from Auckland, a distance of thirty-five miles, to the Mangatawhiri, where they have been extremely useful.

Without the aid of such boats operations up the Waikato could not be carried on, as there is no road on either bank of the river.

For these services I am much indebted to Captain Sullivan, as well as for his cordial co-operation on all other occasions since the commencement of hostilities.

I have also to acquaint your Lordship that the small colonial steamer Avon was brought into the Waikato from the Manukau, by Commander Mayne, of Her Majesty's ship Eclipse, and is now at anchor off the Bluff Stockade, at Havelock. In reporting to Captain Sullivan the performance of this important and hazardous duty, Commander Mayne speaks highly of the assistance he received from Captain Greaves, Acting-Deputy-Assistant-Quartermaster-General, by whom the lower part of the river was surveyed last summer.

In justice to Captain Greaves, who is a most zealous and talented officer, I beg to forward Captain Sullivan's letter regarding his services on this occasion.

The Avon is the first steamer that has ever been brought into the Waikato, as it was supposed, previous to the survey made by Captain Greaves, that the numerous shoals in the lower part of its course rendered the passage of a steamer impossible.

The Avon can carry 200 men; her bulwarks have been made bullet-proof, and she is armed with a 12-pounder Armstrong gun.

I have no doubt that she will be of great service in our operations up the Waikato.

I have, &c.,

D. A. CAMERON, Lieutenant-General.

The Right Honourable

The Secretary of State for War,
War-Office, London.

Banks of Mangatawhiri,

SIR,

July 27, 1863.

I HAVE the honour to inform you that the colonial steam vessel Avon has this day arrived at Havelock, and is now ready for any service in which she can assist you.

2. Commander Mayne, to whom I had confided the task of bringing the Avon from the Manukau into the Waikato, a river hitherto considered navigable only for canoes, in his report to me, thus speaks of the valuable assistance rendered by Captain Greaves, Deputy-Assistant-Quartermaster-General:—" Captain Greaves, Deputy-Assistant-Quartermaster-General, accompanied the vessel, and it is owing to his knowledge of the river and unflagging energy that the service was accomplished so successfully; he preceded the vessel the whole way, sounding and shewing the channel;" and it is with pleasure I seize this opportunity of tendering him, through you, my hearty thanks for his valuable aid.

I have, &c.,

J. W. SULLIVAN, Commander, and Senior Naval Officer in New Zealand.
