Board of Trade, Whitehall,
January 16, 1866.

The Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade have received, from the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, a copy of a Despatch from Her Majesty's Ambassador at Vienna, enclosing a copy of an Ordinance recently issued by the Austrian Government, admitting Foreign Joint Stock Companies to transact business in Austria, and of which the following are the most important provisions:—

Imperial Decree of the 29th November 1865, concerning the admission of Foreign Joint Stock and Limited Liability Companies (except Insurance Companies) to transact business in Austria.

ART. I.—All Foreign Joint Stock and Limited Liability Companies (except Insurance Companies) are recognized as legally established in Austria, and admitted to carry on business under their titles, like any similar Company existing in Austria, provided—

- a. That they have been legally established in the country of their existence.
- b. That the Government of the country to which they may belong accords similar admission and rights to such Companies established in Austria, by way of, and on the principle of reciprocity.
- c. Provided also, that the transactions of such Companies do not interfere with the State's interests and militate against the Statutes of this country established for the protection of trade on the legislative principles of Austria. And finally—
- d. Provided that such Companies engage to transact business in Austria according to the general laws of the country, and more especially in conformity with the present Decree.

ART. II.—The decisions as to existence mentioned in Article I, and the granting of the privilege of admission, are left to the authorities which are charged with the same, with regard to the establishment of similar Companies in Austria.

The admission may be granted either for the full term, as established by the Statutes of the Foreign Company, or for a shorter term.

Every prolongation of those terms of duration, on which the original admission is based, every establishment of branches or agencies which are not comprised in the same, as also every supplementary arrangement, extension, and alteration in the Statutes of the Company made abroad, must be duly submitted to the competent authorities in Austria for decision and adoption, before they can be acted upon.

ART. III.—Before any Foreign Company enters into actual operation of its business, in conformity with the present Decree, or before it extends, prolongs, or alters its Statutes (Article II), it is bound to publish the text and special conditions of this Decree in the public papers, established by law for this purpose, as also for any other publication concerning such Companies.

ART. IV.—The Company is bound to specify to the Administration the whole extent of its operations, and the name or names of the individuals composing the same, and to publish the same in the public papers, notifying at the same time the names of the members who are already settled or intend to be permanently settled in Austria.

The representatives of the Company in Austria have full power to represent the same, either with the Administration, Courts of Justice, or private individuals, in all things that concern the transactions of the Company.

In cases of dispute or litigation on any subject concerning the transactions of the Company, in which the latter appear as defendants, the same is subject to the jurisdiction of the usual competent Courts of Justice in Austria. Should an arbitration be agreed upon, the case is to be submitted to the decision of arbitrators settled in Austria.

ART. V.—The representatives of the Company are bound to submit, to the political authorities of the district where the chief seat is situated, within the first three months of every year, the following accounts concerning the transactions of the past year.

- a. The resolutions of the General Meeting.
- b. The general balance-sheet of the Company.
- c. The special balance-sheet of the operations in Austria, in which are to be separated the assets and funds employed in the Austrian transactions from the rest of the Company's property. The above balance-sheets are, moreover, also to be published in the papers.

ART. VI.—The representative members are personally responsible to the creditors here of the Company for any damage or injury that may accrue from the incorrectness of the special balance sheet (Art. V., letter c), and which might have been avoided if more care had been employed in preparing the same.

ART. VII.—The rights and duties of such Companies admitted in Austria, are to be judged by the same laws which are established for the regulation of similar Companies at home.

Particular application have on such Companies the regulations on the practical supervision of the State, as far as the Companies are engaged in commercial transactions in Austria, and also on their duty of entering such transactions into the Commercial Register where such practice does exist.

Such Companies are also subject to the income and other taxes levied in Austria on trade and other undertakings, according to the regulations of the country.

ART. VIII.—The permission of the admittance becomes void and annulled:

- a. If the Company has failed to open its operations in Austria within the term expressly notified in the admittance license, or in default of such notification, within the term of six months from the date of granting such license.
- b. If the Company has altogether discontinued its operations in Austria, for the space of three months, without the consent of Government.
- c. If the Company has ceased legally to exist in its own country, or has lost there the entire right and disposal of its capital.
- d. If the time has expired for which the license of operation in Austria had been granted.

The conditions of the terms mentioned in a and b do not preclude the possibility that the consent of Government may cease even before the expiration of the period, as regards some special operations of the Company, in conformity with the general rules of trade.

ART. IX. Government is justified in revoking the license:

- a. If the Home Government of the Company happens to make, in the reciprocity treaty, alterations prejudicial to such companies at home (Art. I., letter b), or if—
- b. The Company itself attempts to transgress this law.

ART. X.—A special separate Decree will follow as regards the admission of Foreign Insurance Companies into Austria.

ART. XI.—The central districts which are concerned in this Decree are charged with its execution.
