

Venice, May 7. Some Days ago Cavalier Mocenigo set out with the Character of Ambassador Extraordinary from this Republick to the King of the Two Sicillies, as did Sig. Tiepolo with that of Ambassador to his most Christian Majesty.

Venice, May 15. A few Days ago died here, in a very advanced Age, Cavalier Emo, Procurator of St. Mark's.

Hague, May 27. By the last Accounts from Prince Ferdinand's Army, we have the News, that they encamped, on the 20th instant, on the Heights of Fritzlar, and were reviewed on the following Day by his Serene Highness, who had the Satisfaction to find the Troops in the best Order imaginable. General Imhoff and General Gilsoe command each a detached Corps, the first upon the Ohme, and the latter upon the Fulda near Hirschfeld. Nothing had happened but some Skirmishes with Colonel Freytag's Corps, which had all turned to our advantage.

The two Regiments of British Cavalry arrived in the Weser, and lay some Leagues below Bremen on the 17th, and are now upon their March to join Prince Ferdinand's Army. We have likewise Advice, that the Corps of British Infantry, under the Command of Major General Griffin, arrived safe in the Weser, off Giertendorff, on the 22d Instant, having fortunately escaped a violent Storm, which came on soon after. We don't learn, that Marshal Broglio has hitherto made any Motions; or that any material Alterations have happened in the Positions of the Austrian or Prussian Armies in Saxony.

Northampton, April 29, 1760.
