Usher of the Black Rod, was sent with a Message to the House of Commons, commanding their Attendance in the House of Peers; the Commons being come thither, His Majesty signified His Pleasure to them by the Lord High Chancellor, that they should return to their House and chuse their Speaker, and present him on Friday next at One o'Clock. St. James's, October 30.

This Day the following Address was presented to His Majesty, and read by Dr. Fothergill, accompanied by a Deputation from the People called Quakers, introduced by the Lord of His Majesty's Bed-Chamber in Waiting.

To George the Third, King of Great Britain, and the Dominions thereunto belonging,

The humble Address of the People called Quakers.

May it please the King,

TO accept our Congratulations on the present happy Occasion, and our fervent Wishes, that the Royal Nuptials may be blessed with Felicity, as permanent and unmixed, as the Joy they produce is universal.

From the evident Marks we have seen of thy Attention to the Happiness of thy People, guided by an uniform Steadiness and Prudence, we are persuaded, that in thy illustrious Consort are united those amiable Qualities, which will alike contribute to the domestick Happiness of our Sovereign, and endear Her to His Subjects.

Impressed with such Sentiments, we already regard the Queen with Duty and Affection, and we truit it will be our constant Endeavour, to cultivate the like Sentiments in those among whom we converse; promoting by Example, that dutiful Submission to Authority, which renders Government easy to the Prince, and grateful to the People.

May it please the most High, by whose Wisdom Kings reign and Princes decree Justice, to confirm every virtuous Purpose of thy Heart; and to replenish it with Stability and Fortitude, superior to every Exigency: Long may He vouchsafe, to continue thee a Blessing to these Nations, and thy Descendants, the Guardians of Liberty, Civil and Religious, to many Generations.

Signed on Behalf of the said People in London, the Twenty-sixth of the Tenth Month, 1761.

To which His Majesty was pleased to give this very gracious Answer:

THIS Address, so full of Duty and Affection, is very agreeable to Me. You may depend on My Protection.

Immediately after, they were introduced to Her Majesty, by his Grace the Duke of Manchester, and presented the following Address, which was read by Jacob Hagen.

May it please the Queen,

WE beg Leave to present the Congratulations of the People called Quakers, on thy safe Arrival in this Kingdom, and thy happy Nuptials with our Sovereign.

[Price Six-pence.]

Such is the Confidence we repose in the Wisdom of our gracious King, and such the Respect which our Principles inspire towards our Superiors, that Duty would have led us, to render to His Royal Consort the Honour due to Her exalted Station.

But when the Voice of the Publick, and of those who have had the Priviledge of nearer Observation, confirm the Prudence of our Sovereign's Choice; both Duty and Inclination engage us to give the Queen every Proof in our Power of a sincere and affectionate Attachment.

To promote this Attachment to the Queen, so justly due to Her Virtues as well as Quality, shall be our Endeavour; and we hope, by a Conduct consistent with such Sentiments, to entitle ourselves to Her favourable Regard.

May it please the Almighty to preserve the Queen ever sensible of His Power and Goodness; may He render Her a Blessing to the King; and Her illustrious Progeny the Support and Ornament of this extensive Empire, to late Posterity.

London, the Twenty-sixth Day of the Tenth Month, 1761.

To which Her Majesty was pleased to give this very gracious Answer:

I Thank you for this Proof of your Affection to the King and Me. You may rely on My good Wishes.

Leicester-House, October 30.

This Day a Deputation from the People called Quakers, being introduced to her Royal Highness the Princess Dowager, of Wales, by Major Montolieu, her Vice-Chamberlain, presented the following Address, which was read by Dr. Fothergill.

To the Princess Dowager of Wales,

The humble Address of the People called Quakers:

May it please the Princess,

THE Satisfaction we feel in every Event that increases the Happiness of the Royal Family, induces us to wait upon the Princess Dowager upon the joyful Occasion of the Marriage of our Sovereign.

The signal Proofs which the King has given of Wisdom and Ability to promote the Welfare of His Subjects, the eminent Qualities ascribed to His Royal Consort by those who have had ample Opportunities of Information, afford us just and pleasing Expectations:

That whatever Happiness can accrue to the Princess Dowager from an affectionate Discharge of every filial Duty;

Whatever Protection or Encouragement the Deserving and the Good of every Denomination can reasonably desire;

All these may be hoped for from the Virtue and Benevolence of our Sovereign.

Possessed of the dutiful Affection of the illustrious Pair, and secure of the cordial Regard of a grateful People, long may the Princess Dowager enjoy the inexpressible Satisfaction of having, under Providence, contributed so essentially to the Happiness of Britain.

The following Address of the Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of the Borough of Beverley in the County of York, has been presented to His Majesty by Michael Newton, Esq; one of their Representatives in Parliament, being introduced by the Lord of His Majesty's Bed-Chamber in Waiting: Which Address His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty.

Most gracious Sovereign,

WE your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Mayor, Aldermen and Burgesses of Beverley in the County of York, with great Humility beg Leave to express our most sincere Congratulations on the Solemnization of your Royal Nuptials; an Event of so great Felicity to your Majesty and the whole Nation.

We have beheld with inexpressible Pleasure, your Majesty's Reign distinguished by every Circumstance of Glory and Prosperity which could infuse Joy into the Breast of a Sovereign, studious of the Interests of His People, and jealous of the Honour of His Country. But something remained to satisfy the Wishes of your loyal Subjects. It was the earnest Desire that their Posterity might not be destitute of those Blessings, which the present Age so happily experience; and that the domestic Happiness of so excellent a Prince might not be inferior to that, which flows from His Royal and public Station. Those Wishes are at length accomplished. We see your Majesty's Throne graced with a Consort, illustrious in Her Birth, and adorned with Accomplishments so amiable and distinguished, as would derive Merit to any Station, and add Lustre to the most exalted. Such Virtues promise to your Majesty every conjugal Felicity, to your People every national Blessing, and to their Posterity the most lasting Advantage.

May the same Providence, which has guided your Majesty in so happy a Choice, secure to you the long Enjoyment of it: May a numerous Offspring, the Fruit of this auspicious Marriage, imitate the Virtues of their Parents, and perpetuate the Glories of their illustrious Line; and may every Year of your Majesty's Reign be crowned with new Honours, and distinguished by fresh Marks of the Gratitude of a happy and united People.

Given under our Common Seal, the sixth Day of October, 1761.

Most gracious Sovereign,

AMIDST the Joy, so universally diffused through every Rank of His Majesty's Subjects, permit us, the Mayor, Aldermen and Burgesses of Beverley in the County of York, most humbly to offer to your Majesty our unfeigned Congratulations on your happy Arrival into the British Dominions, and the Celebration of your Royal Marriage. His Majesty's constant Attention to the Interests and Welfare of these Kingdoms has ever been blessed with Glory and Success. But no Event of His happy Reign has been distinguished with more auspicious Omen, nor promises greater Good to His People, than His Alliance with a Princess, whose personal Merit and noble Endowments reflect upon Her Ancestors that Honour which she has received from Her illustrious Birth. We behold your Majesty the glorious Reward of those Virtues, which adorn our Sovereign, and which His loyal Subjects could only admire.

Permit us, Madam, to express our most ardent Wishes that it be your Majesty's Lot, long, very long, to enjoy that Felicity which virtuous Minds have ever ranked among the greatest; a Felicity, resulting from those tender Relations of Wife and Parent; that the Graces and Accomplishments of your Majesty and our Royal Sovereign may afford to your Offspring a lasting Example by what Means they may attain true Greatness and permanent Glory; and that our Civil and Religious Rights may never be destitute of a Prince of your Royal Line for their Guardian and Protector.

Your Majesty has been pleased to consult their Happiness, and to provide for your own by the wise Choice of a Royal Consort. We most heartily pray that your Felicity may be perpetual, and that you may long continue to enjoy the Honours of publick Magnanimity, and the Blessings resulting from social Virtue and Conjugal Affection.

The Happiness we have enjoyed under the powerful, yet gentle Government of your Majesty, and the Kings of your Royal House, makes us look upon your Marriage as an Instance of the great Regard your Majesty bears to the Good and Prosperity of your People, and the Increase of your Majesty's Family, which we doubt not but God will grant, as what will give Strength and Perpetuity to our excellent Constitution.

That Almighty God, by whom Kings reign, may establish your Throne, and crown your Majesty and your Royal Consort, with all Felicity; and that your Majesty and the Princes to descend from you, may govern these Nations for ever, are the united Wishes and Prayers of us your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects.

WE your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Mayor, Aldermen, Common-Council and Burgeses of the ancient Borough of Cardigan, beg Leave to approach your Royal Person, to congratulate your Majesty on the important Event of your auspicious Nuptials.

Conscious of the Felicity we enjoy under your glorious Reign, we are strongly impressed by every Sentiment of Duty and Gratitude, to find your Majesty's paternal Care towards your Subjects so early and so nobly extended to Posterity, in your Marriage with a Princess justly esteemed the Ornament of her Sex, whose Descent is not more noble and illustrious, than her own Personal Accomplishments are great and exalted; and whose Ancestors, like those of her Royal Highness your Mother, have been signally instrumental in the Foundation and Establishment of the holy Protestant Religion, which we hope will obtain a permanent Support from your Majesty's happy Alliance with a Princess whose Virtues have thus made her a worthy Consort for your Bed and Throne; future Generations will participate of this Happiness, and bless the Hour in which the Houses of Brunswick and Mecklenburgh were united; the Defenders of Religion, and the Patrons of Liberty.
