for the Prospect of the Continuance of the domestick Prosperity of this Nation in your Royal Line, more pleasing than the Triumphs of the most successful War. A Prince born among us, and educated under the Care of such Illustrious Parents, will, doubtless, learn by their bright Example, that the Greatness of a King is founded on the united Affections of His People.—The Birth of his Royal Highness on the Anniversary of the Accession of your Majesty's Family to the Crown of these Realms, will make succeeding Generations regard that Day, as ever propitious to the Laws and Liberties of Great Britain.

The following Address of the Lord Provost, Magistrates, and Town-Council of the City of Edinburgh, has been presented to His Majesty: Which Address His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty,

The humble Address of the Lord Provost, Magistrates, and Town-Council, of the City of Edinburgh, in Council assembled.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

Permit us to approach your Throne, to congratulate your Majesty, upon the late most joyful Event.

Nothing was wanting to compleat the Happiness of your faithful Subjects, but to see your Majesty's domestick Felicity fully established.—Heaven has most graciously granted our warmest Wishes, in the safe Delivery of your Majesty's most amiable and beloved Consort the Queen, and in the Birth of a Prince, upon an auspicious Day.

May the same good Providence soon restore Her Majesty to perfect Strength, and preserve His Royal Highness the Prince, till educated under the Care of His Royal Parents, he be equally with them, the Darling of the Nation.

Late, very late, may he come to the Throne, and long may he reign over a brave, free and loyal People, and make them Sharers of that Happiness which we enjoy, by imitating the Example of His Royal Parents.

May it please your Majesty,

Your Majesty's most loyal and faithful Subjects and Servants, the Lord Provost, Magistrates and Town-Council of your City of Edinburgh.

Signed in our Presence, and by our Appointment, the City's Seal being affixed, this 19th of August, 1762. Geo. Lind, Provost.
