THIS Day about Noon the Queen was happily delivered of a Prince. Her Royal Highness the Princess Dowager of Wales, his Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury, several Lords of His Majesty's most Honourable Privy Council, and the Ladies of Her Majesty's Bed-Chamber, were present.

This great Event was soon after made known by the Firing of the Tower Guns. Her Majesty is, God be praised, as well as can be expected; and the Young Prince is in perfect Health.

Whitehall, November 3.

Yesterday Morning, about Ten o'Clock, His Majesty's Yacht Mary came to an Anchor off Greenwich, with the Corps of his late Royal Highness the Duke of York. About Three o'Clock in the Afternoon the Body was put on Board the Admiralty Shallop, and landed at Greenwich; from whence it was conveyed in a Hearse to the Prince's Chamber between Five and Six, preceded by the Coaches of their Royal Highnesses the Dukes of Cumberland and Gloucester, and his late Royal Highness's State Coach, and followed by a Party of the Horse Guards, and a great Number of Coaches, &c. of the Nobility, and other Persons of Distinction. The Body lay in State in the Prince's Chamber this Day; and will be privately interred about Ten o'Clock at Night, in the Royal Vault in King Henry the Seventh's Chapel.

Minute Guns were fired from all the Yachts, from the Time of the Body's being put on Board the Shallop, till its Arrival in the Prince's Chamber.

The Particulars of the Ceremonial of Interment will be inserted in the next Gazette.
