To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty,
The humble Address of the High Sheriff, Grand Jury, Noblemen, Gentlemen, Clergy and Freeholders of the County of Kildare, at an Assizes held at Naas the Ninth of March, One thousand seven hundred and eighty.

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the High Sheriff, Grand Jury, Noblemen, Gentlemen, Clergy and Freeholders of the County of Kildare, beg Leave to offer to your Majesty our most humble and sincere Thanks for your Majesty's gracious and parental Attention to the Welfare of this Kingdom.

Our Hearts overflow with Gratitude for the great and happy Measures which the Wisdom of your Majesty's Councils, the liberal Sentiments of the British Parliament, and the generous Concurrence of the whole British Nation, have compleated for our Relief.

They must cement and strengthen that mutual Confidence and intimate Connection with Great Britain, which it will be our greatest Happiness to cultivate, and which we are convinced is inseparable from the Prosperity of both Kingdoms.

We are truly sensible of your Majesty's benevolent and anxious Wishes to see your loyal Subjects of Ireland a happy, a rich, and a commercial People; and we do with Gratitude acknowledge, that those wise and generous Measures give us most ample Means to become so.
