

The following Addresses of the President, Council and Fellows of the Society of Antiquaries of London, have been presented to Their Majesties by the Earl of Leicester, President of that Society: Which Addresses Their Majesties were pleased to receive very graciously.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty,

The humble Address of the President, Council and Fellows of the Society of Antiquaries of London.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your dutiful and loyal Subjects, the President, Council and Fellows of the Society of Antiquaries of London, humbly presume to express the warm Effusions of our Hearts on the happy Event of your Majesty's Recovery.

Not satisfied with the Opportunities which we have embraced of subscribing our Names separately to the affectionate Addresses laid at the Foot of the Throne, on this joyful Occasion, by different Descriptions of your Majesty's Subjects, with whom we are respectively connected as private Individuals, we feel ourselves impelled by peculiar Obligations to unite in offering our sincere Congratulations as Members of this Public Body, which has been distinguished by Royal Patronage with the Honor of a Charter of Incorporation, and which never can meet to hold its stated Assemblies, without being reminded, that it is indebted to your Majesty's munificent Patronage for its permanent Establishment within these Walls.

We trust, that the Objects of our Institution have been diligently and profitably pursued; and, by persevering in our active Exertions to throw Light on ancient History and Manners, in various Particulars, about which our General Historians are silent, because they had not the Means of Information, we look up with Confidence for a Continuation of the favourable Regard of a Monarch, who, during His auspicious Reign, hath extended Protection to every Branch of Literature.

Thankful to Providence for the great National Blessing we have so lately received, it is our ardent Wish, that your Majesty may be long preserved, endeared to all your Subjects by your unwearied and successful Endeavours to make them happy.

Given under our Seal, at Somerset Place, March 26, 1789.

To Her Majesty the QUEEN,

The humble Address of the President, Council and Fellows of the Society of Antiquaries of London.

May it please your Majesty,

THE President, Council and Fellows of the Society of Antiquaries of London, having paid their glad Tribute of Congratulation to their most Gracious Sovereign, on the happy Re-establishment of His Health, would have thought themselves very deficient in their Duty if they had not presumed, at the same Time, to convey to your Majesty the humble and dutiful Expressions of their loyal Zeal on an Event, which however interesting to the whole Body of a People sensible of the Happiness they have enjoyed under His mild and paternal Government, must have excited a particular Glow of the most exalted Satisfaction in the Breast of your Majesty, to whom He is united and endeared by the tenderest Ties of conjugal Affection.

Given under our Seal, at Somerset Place, March 26, 1789.

Whitehall, April 4.

THE following Addresses having been delivered or transmitted to the Right Honourable Lord Sydney, His Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, have been by him presented to the King: Which Addresses His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty,

The humble Address of the Archbishop, the Dean and Chapter, and the Archdeacon and Clergy of the Diocese of Canterbury.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Archbishop, the Dean and Chapter, and the Archdeacon and Clergy of the Diocese of Canterbury, beg Leave to present our humble Congratulations to your Majesty on your providential Recovery from your late Illness.

They are a Tribute justly due from loyal and grateful Subjects to a King, under whose mild and gracious Government they enjoy the Blessings of Religion, Liberty, Prosperity and Peace; and more particularly from the Ministers of that Holy Religion, which your Majesty defends by your Authority, and supports by your Example. We presume to offer them too, Sir, as Proofs of our Veneration for those respectable and amiable Virtues, which constitute your Majesty's personal Character.

Impressed with these Sentiments, we shall not cease to pray unto God to preserve your Majesty, through a long and happy Reign, the Health which He hath restored, and every domestick as well as publick Happiness. It shall be our Part to shew our Gratitude for the Blessings of your Majesty's Government, by instructing your People committed to our Care in the Duties of Christianity, and by confirming them in a zealous Attachment to your Majesty's Person and Royal Family, constitutional Obedience to your Authority, and Imitation of your Example.

[Delivered by his Grace the Lord Archbishop of Canterbury.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty,

The humble Address of the Bishop, Dean and Chapter, and Clergy of the Diocese of Bangor.

MAY it please your Majesty to accept the sincere Congratulations of your most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Bishop, the Dean and Chapter, and Clergy of the Diocese of Bangor, on the happy Event of your Majesty's Recovery from your late Indisposition.

We humbly beg Leave to assure your Majesty, that the Account of your Illness deeply affected all Ranks of People in this remote Part of your Kingdom; but none were more truly sensible of the great national Calamity than those of our Order, who would not suffer their Anxiety to abate, till they had heard of your Majesty being, by the Blessing of Providence, restored to the Prayers and Wishes of your faithful Subjects.

We enjoy, in common with the rest of your Majesty's Subjects, the invaluable Blessings of your mild and equal Government; and besides these, we have the rare Felicity also of finding the sacred Cause, in which we are engaged, supported and encouraged by the bright Example which your Majesty has uniformly set of every Christian Grace and Virtue.

The Cares of Government are so many, and so weighty, that they who administer it stand in Need of every Comfort and Support; and we humbly hope, that the affectionate Regard and
