She was one of the Squadron that composed the Expedition to Ireland; and at the Commencement of the Action had on board Five Hundred and Eighty Men, including General Menage, Second in Command of the Troops, (who was also killed in the Action,) Adjutant-General Crazey, and some Soldiers.

I should wish to recommend the steady good Conduct of Mr. Carden, First Lieutenant of the Fisgard, on this Occasion, but not to the Prejudice of any other Person, as every Officer and Man on board behaved with that Courage and Intrepidity which at all Times distinguishes His Majesty's Subjects in the Presence of the Enemy. Annexed is a List of Killed and Wounded. I am sorry to say, Thirteen of our wounded Men have suffered so much as to preclude all Hope of their Recovery.

I have the Honor to be, &c. &c. &c.

Whitehall, October 27, 1798.

The King has been pleased to appoint Sir William Scott, Knight, His Majesty's Advocate-General, to the Office of Judge of the High Court of Admiralty of England.

Windsor, Tuesday, October 23, 1798.

Yesterday, at a Quarter past Six o'Clock, P. M. Their Majesties and Their Royal Highnesses the Princesses arrived here from Weymouth in perfect Health.

St. James's, October 24, 1798.

THIS Day the Right Honorable the Lord Mayor, the Aldermen, Sheriffs, and Common-Council of the City of London, waited upon His Majesty (being introduced by the Lord in Waiting) with the following Address, which was read by Sir John William Rose, the Recorder.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty,
The humble Address of the Lord Mayor, Aldermen and Commons of the City of London, in Common-Council assembled.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the City of London, in Common-Council assembled, humbly approach your Majesty with our warmest Congratulations on the very important Victory lately obtained off the Nile, by your Majesty's Fleet under the Command of Rear-Admiral Sir Horatio Nelson; over a French Fleet, superior in Force, and in a chosen Situation extremely advantageous to the Enemy.

We take the earliest Opportunity of testifying to your Majesty our heartfelt Joy at an Event so glorious to this Nation, so splendid and decisive, unexampled in Naval History, and reflecting the highest Honor on the Courage and Abilities of the gallant Admiral and his Officers, and the Discipline and irresistible Bravery of British Seamen:

So complete a Destruction of the French Navy in that Part of the World must be productive of the most beneficial Consequences. We trust it will frustrate the exterminating Designs of an overbearing and implacable Enemy; rouse other States to resist and circumscribe their wide-extending Power; and, by its brilliant Effect, excite the Admiration of surrounding Nations.

May the Almighty continue to give Effect to your Majesty's Arms, and thereby insure Security to your Dominions, and Happiness to your People; and, as soon as it shall please His Divine Will, restore to your Majesty's Kingdoms, on a firm and lasting Basis, the Blessings of Peace.

Signed by Order of Court,

WILLIAM RIX.

To which Address His Majesty was pleased to return the following Most Gracious Answer:

I Receive with peculiar Satisfaction the Congratulations of My loyal City of London on the late glorious Victory obtained, under the Blessing of God, by My Fleet commanded by Rear-Admiral Lord Nelson, over that of the Enemy at the Mouth of the Nile.

I trust that the Valour of My Fleets and Armies, the Talents and Conduct of My Officers, which were never more conspicuous than on this late Occasion, the vigorous and united Exertions of the whole Body of My People, and, above all, the Protection of Almighty God, will enable Me to bring the War in which We are engaged, by the unjust Aggression of our Enemies, to a safe and honorable Conclusion.

My City of London may be assured of My constant Attention to their Interests and Welfare.

They were all received very graciously, and had the Honor to kiss His Majesty's Hand.

St. James's, October 24, 1798.

THE following Addresses have been presented to the King; which Addresses His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty,
The humble Address of the Guild or Brotherhood of the Trinity House of Kingston-upon-Hull.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Wardens, Elder Brethren, and Assistants of this Maritime Corporation, beg Leave to approach the Throne with our hearty Congratulations on the Victory which it pleased Almighty God, on the First of August, to give your Majesty's Squa-
