Lisbonne, July 8.

AN Accident lately happened here, which at first made some noise, as if the Infanta had been poysoned; the occasion was this, Part of a roasted Pullet, which was taken from the Infanta's Table, being eaten by a Wife of one of her Officers; she was presently after taken very ill with a Collique; and though she was soon recovered by the Remedies applied to her, yet the great tenderness People here have for their Prince, and particularly for the Infanta, whose Royal Virtues are admired by all, made them go and acquaint the Judge de l'Inconfidentia therewith, that he might examine whether the Pullet had not been poysoned; but the thing having been thoroughly searched into, their fears vanished; for it appeared, that the Infanta, who had eaten of the same Pullet, had not been since in the least indisposed; and the Physicians were of opinion, that the illness of the Officers Wife, was a natural Distemper.

Barcelona, July 16. The Duke of Vivonne, General of the Gallies of France is now in these Seas. On the 7th after having passed by Roses, and Palmos, which places he saluted with six pieces of Cannon, and had the like Salute returned him, he appeared within sight of this City, and sent ashore the Major of the Gallies, to Compliment the Duke de Bournoville our Viceroy, and to acquaint him with his intention of coming to an Anchor in the Road, as well as to adjust the manner of the Salutes; The Duke of Bournoville returned his Compliment by the Sieur Mugnal, General of Battaille, and invited the Duke of Vivonne to receive himself ashore, but not being able to agree the Salutes, the Duke de Vivonne chose rather quite to avoid them, by retiring to a farther distance from the Town. The 13th, the Duke de Vivonne sailed again, taking his way towards Majorca.

Ratisbonne, July 25. The Elector of Trier has by his Minister here, acquainted the Dyet, that the French have lately possessed themselves of the Castle of Oberstein, belonging to his Archbishopsrick; and that they intend to seize several other places on the Moselle. Besides this, other Complaints are daily made to the Dyet, concerning the proceedings of the French Officers, which has put a stop to the Letter that was ordered to be written to the French King upon this Subject.

Berlin, July 28. Several Merchant Ships, and six Frigats, with a Fireship, which were fitted out at Comingsberg, are sailed from thence, the Commander in Chief; being charged not to open his Orders, till he was several Leagues at Sea; so that the design of this Expedition is not known. We are very much concerned here, at the French proceedings in the Palatinate. Our Elector, at the Instance of the Deputies of Maegdebourg and Hall, has put off his Journey thither till October. Several persons have been seized at Stralsund who are suspected to have had a hand in that great Fire that lately happened there.

The King of Denmark, and the Duke of Holstein have had an Enterview at Flensburg, where the King Entertained the latter at Dinner; and though it is said, they did not then enter upon any Discourse, concerning Business, yet it's not doubted but this their Meeting will tend to the renewing the Correspondence and Friendship between them, which has for several years past been interrupted. The Duke of Zell having received the Moneys we told you of in our last, has restored Boexboede to the Swedes, who are now in possession again, of all the Dutchy of Bremen, as well as of that of Ferden. That the King of Spain had Ratified the Treaty of Alliance, lately concluded between the King of England and him; and that in consideration of the good Service performed on occasion thereof, by Don Pedro de Ronquillo, his Minister in England, he had given him a yearly Pension of 2000 Crowns, and made him of the Council of Castile.
