The Speech of the Lords Commissioners to both Houses of Parliament, on Thursday July 2, 1801.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

WE have it in Command from His Majesty to VV acquaint you, that, on account of the advanced Period of the Season, and the State of Public Bufinels, he is induced to relieve you from a longer Attendance in Parliament,

His Majesty highly commends the Wisdom, Temper, and Diligence, which have marked all your Proceedings; and particularly acknowledges the Assiduity and Zeal with which you have pursued the Investigation of the important Subjects brought under your Confideration in confequence of the fevere Pressure occasioned by the high Price of Corn. The beneficial Effects of the Measures you have fuggested for the Alleviation of this Calamity, have afforded His Majesty great Consolation, and He has the utmost Satisfaction in indulging the Hope that, under the Favour of Providence, the Blessings of Plenty will be restored by the Produce of the enfuing Harvest.

Gentlemen of the House of Commone,

His Majesty has directed us to return you His particular Tlianks for the liberal Provision which you have made for the various Branches of the public Service. While He regrets the Necessity of Supplies so large, it is a Relief to His Majelly to observe, that the Resources and continued Prosperity of the Country have enabled you to distribute the public Burthens in fuch a Manner, as to prefs with as little Severity as possible on His faithful Subjects.

My Lords, and Gentlemen, ...

The brilliant and repeated Successes of His Ma-jesty's Arms by Sea and Land, important as they are in their immediate Consequences, are not less fatisfactory to His Majelly's Mind, as affording fresh and decrive Proofs of that vigorous Exertion, undaunted Valour, and steady-Perseverance which distinguish the national Character; and on which the chief Reliance must be placed for Respect Abroad, and for Confidence and Security at Home. Events to honourable to the British Name derive, at the present Moment, peculiar Value in His Majesty's Estimation, from their Tendency to facilitate the Attainment of the great Object of His unceafing Solicitude, the Restoration of Peace on fair and adequate Terms. They farnish at the same Time an additional Pledge, that if the Sentiments of Moderation and Jullice which withertr govern his Majesty's Conduct, should be fendered unavailing, in this Inflance by unreasonable. Pretensions on the Part of His Enemies, the Spirit and Firmness of His
