

- Captain Thomas Rogers, for breaking the Blockade, February 17, 1801.
- The Danish Bark Hercules, from Bergen bound to Naples, laden with Stock-Fish: Detained by the Hector, Captain John Elphinstone, February 17, 1801.
- The French Trebaccolo La Delaide Privateer of Three Guns and Fifty-one Men, from Ancona on a Cruise: Taken by the Pigmy Cutter, Lieutenant William Shephard, February 18, 1801.
- The Ship L'Esperance, from Tunis, laden with Silk, Cotton, and other Merchandize: Taken by the Mercury and Mermaid, February 18, 1801.
- The Spanish Schooner Rofa, from Barcelona bound to Alexandria: Taken by the Flora, Captain R. G. Middleton, February 19, 1801.
- The English Snow Edward and Mary, from Oporto bound to Falmouth, laden with Beef, Pork, and Coals: Recaptured by the Netley, Lieutenant James Mein, February 20, 1801.
- The Genoese Settee Beato, from Selloa bound to Port Maurice, laden with Wine: Taken by the Mermaid, Captain Robert D. Oliver, February 21, 1801.
- The Swedish Providentia, from Messina bound to Stockholm, laden with Lemon Juice and Sulphur: Detained by the Hector, Captain John Elphinstone, February 21, 1801.
- The Spanish Settee St. Christe, laden with Oil and Almonds: Taken by the Mermaid, Captain Robert D. Oliver, February 22, 1801.
- The Genoese Settee Vierge de Carmo, laden with Wine: Taken by Ditto, February 22, 1801.
- The Spanish Settee La Rhone, laden with Oil and Rice: Taken by Ditto, February 22, 1801.
- A Danish Merchantman: Detained by the Geneux, Captain Manley Dixon, February 22, 1801.
- The French Brig La Caroline, of Four Guns, from Genoa bound to Alexandria, laden with Ordnance Stores: Taken by the Speedy, Captain the Right Honorable Lord Viscount Cochrane, February 24, 1801.
- The French Polacre Ship La Vertue, of Six Guns and Twenty-six Men, laden with sundry Merchandize, from France bound to Alexandria: Taken by the Squadron under the Command of Captain Thomas Louis, of the Minotaur, February 26, 1801.
- The Imperial Trebaccolo Madonna del Annunciade, from Trieste bound to Fiume, laden with Hemp: retaken by El Corso and Pigmy, from a French Privateer, February 27, 1801.
- The Genoese Ship Virgo Potens, from Marseilles bound to Genoa, laden with Salt and Merchandize: Taken by the Pearl and Santa Teresa, February 28, 1801.
- A Genoese Tartan, (Name unknown,) from Marseilles to Genoa, laden with Corn: Sunk, Part of her Cargo saved by Ditto, February 28, 1801.
- The French Tartan La Virge, from Marseilles bound to Genoa, in Ballast: Scuttled by Ditto, February 28, 1801.
- A Greek Vessel, (Name unknown,) laden with Wine and Snuff, bound to Alexandria: Taken out from under the Guns of Marabout, and scuttled by the Boats of the Greyhound, Captain Charles Ogle, March 6, 1801.
- A French Polacre, (Name unknown,) laden with Wine: Cut out from under Aboukir Castle, by Captain Maitland, with some Boats of the Squadron, March 6, 1801.
- A Greek Caïque, bound to Alexandria: Drove on Shore, off the Tower of Arabs, by the Petterell and Victorieuse, March 11, 1801.
- The French Aviso Madonna di Santa Ceriaco, from Ancona bound to Alexandria, with Troops, &c.: Taken by the Greyhound, Captain Charles Ogle, March 12, 1801.
- The French Trebaccolo L'Achille Privateer of Six Guns, from Ancona, on a Cruise: Taken by El Corso and Pigmy, March 15, 1801.
- The French Aviso L'Espeigle, from Brindise bound to Tarento: Taken by the Modeste, Captain Martin Hinton, March 17, 1801.
- The French Ship La Julie Rosalie, from Toulon bound to Alexandria, laden with Merchandize and Provisions: Taken by La Minerve, Pearl, and Santa Teresa, March 20, 1801.
- The French Bombard La Courageux, from Toulon bound to Alexandria, laden with sundry Merchandize: Taken by the Mercury, in Sight of Sir John Warren's Squadron, March 29, 1801.
- The French Bombard St. Gerrit, from Toulon bound to Alexandria, laden with sundry Merchandize: Taken by the Mercury, Captain Thomas Rogers, March 30, 1801.
- The French Brig La Gentil seconde, from Bayonne bound to Senegal, laden with Bale Goods and Wine: Taken by the El Carmen, Captain William Selby, April 3, 1801.
- The Spanish Schooner San Josef, from Santa Cruz bound to Cadiz, laden with Hides and Cinnamon: Taken by Ditto, April 6, 1801.
- The Spanish Brig St. Francisco Paulo, from Alicante bound to Marseilles, laden with Barrels and Oil: Taken by the Santa Teresa, Captain R. Campbell, April 7, 1801.
- The Spanish Zebec Santa de Carme, from Alcanidia bound to Palma, laden with Brandy, &c.: Taken by Ditto, April 10, 1801.
- The Imperial Brig Nuova Armicize, from Cyprus bound to Trieste: Taken by the El Corso, Captain William Ricketts, April 11, 1801.
- The Imperial Brig Padre Amaroza, from Messina bound to Trieste, laden with Cotton: Taken by Ditto, April 11, 1801.
- A Spanish Xebec of Six Guns, laden with Sardinias: Taken by the Speedy, Captain the Right Honorable Lord Viscount Cochrane, April 15, 1801.
- The Schooner La Madonna de Coutta, from Ancona bound to Alexandria: Taken by the Victorieuse, Captain John Richards, April 17, 1801.
- The Cisalpine Trebaccolo St. Luizi, from Elpidore bound to Siniglia, laden with Wheat: Taken by the El Corso, Captain William Ricketts, April 17, 1801.