

So that Vessels coming from the Westward, and making for Drontheim, have the Island of Garten on their North, and are certain of seeing the Light-House of Agnæs, and may then steer their Course for the Entrance until the Light-House is on their South by the Compass, when they are to tack towards the Light, and sail direct for Land until within Thirty Fathoms of it;—they must then keep along Shore in order to pass with Safety the Ring-fluon or Rock to the Eastward, which is situated at from One Hundred and Twenty to One Hundred and Thirty Fathoms to the N. E. half E. from the North of the Point.

Vessels sailing from East to West may, when the Light-House is upon their West half South, safely tack, and pursue a straight Course.

When the Wind is contrary and Vessels are in Sight of the Light-House, (so long as the Weather will permit their sailing, and that the Fog or Snow do not prevent them from seeing the Light-House,) they may fail, on tacking to and fro, in perfect Safety till Daylight appears.

Given at the Royal Council of Customs, at Copenhagen, the 15th November 1803.
