Extract of a Letter from Captain Byron, of His Majesty's Ship Belvidera, to John Wilson Croker, Esq; dated North Farnmouth, 6th Instant.

YOU will be pleased to inform my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, that being near in Shore off Studtland, Coast of Norway, on the 22d of July, His Majesty's Ship Nemesis in Company. I observed a deep Bay in the Evening, and sent Mr. M'Pherson, the Master of the Belvidera, to sound round it, who perceiving Three Vessels at Anchor, rowed near to reconnoitre them; in the Night they fired at him, the Strangers being Danish Gun-Vessels. On the following Morning the Launch, with a Twelve-Pounder Carronade in Bow, Barge, and Two Cutters of the Belvidera, were well manned and armed as soon as possible, under the Command of Lieutenants Nibbett and Bruce, and Lieutenant Campbell of the Royal Marines; and the Launch, Pinnace, and Yawl of the Nemesis, under Lieutenants Hodgkens and Smith; the Seven Boats rapidly advanced to attack the Enemy, which soon began to cannonade them; the Boats firing their Bow-Guns with great Effect, the Danish Colours were soon struck, and the Two Gun-Schooners Balder and Thor, each carrying Two Long Twenty-four-Pounders and Six Six-Pounders Howitzers, and each manned with Forty-five Men, in our Possession; the Gun-Boat No. 5, carrying One Twenty-four-Pounder and Twenty-five Men, had repeatedly fired, was chased up a Fiora and abandoned by the Crew, was blown up by our Boats, whose excellent Fire and Resolution to close threw the Enemy in Confusion, and, notwithstanding the Firmness of Lieutenants Dahlreup and Rasmussen, their Commanders, caused their Fire to be ineffectual; we fortunately had no Loss; the Enemy had Four Men killed. I cannot sufficiently praise the Conduct of all the Officers, Masters' Mates, Midshipmen, and every Seaman and Marine of the Belvidera. Captain Ferris has expressed to me his perfect Approbation of all belonging to the Nemesis.
