

under date of 17th April 1813, has, on the 29th April and 16th August 1813, taken in execution and put under sequestration, the cotton estate Geanies, situate on the Correntine coast of this colony, with all its slaves, buildings, cultivation, &c. as also the lower half of Lot No. 80, Correntine River, the property of abovenamed J. Craufurd MacLeod and J. Bethune, all of which properties an inventory is to be seen at the Marshal's Office.

Be it therefore known, that I the undersigned intend to sell, after the expiration of one year and six weeks from the 16th August 1813, the abovenamed cotton estate Geanies, and the lower half of Lot No. 80, cum annexis.

Whoever should think to have any right, action, or interest on the abovenamed estates, and wishes to oppose the sale thereof, let such persons address themselves to the Marshal's Office, declaring their reason for such an opposition in due time and form, as I hereby give notice, that I will receive opposition from every one thereunto qualified, appoint them a day to have his or her claim heard before the Court, and further act therein according to law.

This first proclamation made known to the public by beat of drum, as customary.—Berbice, the 22d August 1813.

K. FRANCKEN, First Marshal.

By His Majesty's Royal Patent.

ANTI-ATTRITION.

THE Patent Anti-Attrition Composition is the cheapest and best thing ever yet discovered for ships' bottoms, instead of copper; to preserve cables from being rubbed in the hawse-holes, instead of a plat, service, or rounding; the rigging of ships from the weather, and from being chafed, instead of tar, "parcelline, and service;" for the slides and carriages of gins; to render leather and canvas water-proof; and to prevent the effects of friction in steam-engines, mills, sugar-mills, threshing-mills (or other implements of husbandry generally used by farmers), carriages, coaches, waggon, carts, and machinery of every description. It is also the best thing to preserve the blades of swords, and all kind of polished steel articles, from rust. It will likewise preserve iron hoops, water butts, casks, tubs, spouts, posts, rails, gates, park paling; barn floorings, and every kind of wood and wooden building, from the weather, worm, and dry rot, either in the East or West Indies, or in any climate; and it will not only preserve iron rail-ways from corroding and wearing out, but also render the draught so light, that one horse will do the work of two.

One priming of the composition is, in some cases, equal to one hundred applications of oil, tallow, or any other kind of grease, paint, or tar, and the public save by its use from three hundred to four thousand per cent., exclusive of preventing the wear and tear in machinery, wheels, &c. &c., which is a saving of expence more than that of saving nine parts out of ten, and nothing can be so clean in its working, or give so little trouble.

Sold, for the patentees, at No. 40, Charing-Cross, near the Admiralty, London; and by their appointment, at most ship-chandlers, printers, booksellers, libraries, stationers, druggists, medicine warehouses, perfumers, ironmongers, cutlers, coachmakers, lunkepers, coach and waggon offices, oil and colour shops, saddlers, and shopkeepers, in the United Kingdom, in boxes, price 2s. 6d.; 5s. 6d.; 10s. 6d.; one guinea, and two guineas each.

The smallest size box contains a quantity sufficient to prime a four-wheel carriage four times, with which it will run upwards of six thousand miles, without applying any thing else to the axletrees, and one half-guinea box contains a sufficient quantity for a stage-waggon to travel thirty-three thousand miles; and it will work with wood axletrees, or with common boxes and axletrees of any kind. The most satisfactory proofs of the merits of this discovery may be seen at the Patentees' Office, and also at their Agents.

* * * The Public must be on their guard against a spurious composition, which is sometimes attempted to be foisted upon them, to prevent the effects of friction, instead of which it is injurious to machinery, &c. and none is genuine but that for which a patent has been obtained. To prevent imposition, the directions given with each box are signed W. D. Bellamy, and have the King's Arms on them—to counterfeit which is forgery; and any person making use of a composition, by which the patentees are defrauded, will be prosecuted, one hundred guineas reward having been offered by them to detect brands on the patent right.
