

by the generosity of a beaten enemy, in our possession (Romainville and Belleville being carried) at the moment when Count Langeron's corps was about to storm them, and had already taken possession of the rest of the hill.

Count Woronzow's division also carried the village of La Villette, charging with two battalions of chasseurs; and possessing themselves of twelve pieces of cannon, were also stopped near the Barrier of Paris by the flag of truce.

However, His Imperial Majesty, the King of Prussia, and Prince Schwartzberg, with that humanity which must excite the applause, while it calls for the admiration of Europe, acceded to entertaining a proposition to prevent the capital from being sacked and destroyed. Count Par, Aide-de-Camp to the Prince Field-Marshal, and Colonel Orloff, Aide-de-Camp to His Majesty the Emperor, were sent to arrange the cessation of hostilities; and Count Nesselrode, His Imperial Majesty's Minister, went in at Four o'clock this evening, when the battle ceased, to Paris.

The result of this victory cannot yet be known; numerous pieces of artillery taken in the field, and a large number of prisoners have fallen into our hands. The number of guns in the margin* are already reported.

Our loss has been something considerable; but we may have the consoling hope, that the brave men who fell, will accomplish the work of the downfall of despotism, and rear the standard of renovated Europe under a just equilibrium, and the dominion of its legitimate sovereigns.

I take the liberty of sending my Aide-de-Camp, Captain Harris, with this dispatch, being with me during the day; he will make his way, I hope, with the Cossacks, whom Lieutenant-General Count Woronzow has given him, and will acquaint your Lordship verbally, with details I can but imperfectly enter into. When I receive Colonel Lowe's report, as well as Colonel Cooke's, I shall not fail to dispatch again, to put you in possession of all further information in my power of this interesting and wonderful day.

I have the honour to be, &c.

(Signed) CHARLES STEWART,
Lieutenant-General.
