London, April 22, 1814.

THIS day the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor, the Aldermen, Recorder, Sheriffs, Common Council, and Officers of the Corporation of London, waited upon His Most Christian Majesty the King of France, at Grillon's Hotel, in Albemarle-Street, with the following Address, which was read by John Silvester, Esq. the Recorder.

To His Most Christian Majesty Louis the Eighteenth, KING of FRANCE and NAVARRE.

The Address of Congratulation of the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the City of London, in Common Council assembled.

May it please your Most Christian Majesty,

WE, the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the City of London, in Common Council assembled, beg leave to approach your Majesty with the tender of our sincere congratulation upon the great and glorious events which, under the guidance of a gracious Providence, have led to the deliverance of your people from a tyranny, as oppressive as any that has ever enslaved and afflicted mankind.

It is matter of cordial gratification to the people of this country, that, during the wide and desolating ravages of war, a safe asylum has been found in these happy realms for the Royal Family of France.

The day is now arrived, when your Majesty is called upon to convince your people and the world, that the Sovereign of France has incalculable blessings to dispense to his gallant and faithful subjects, who are eager to behold their beloved Monarch, as ample and glorious amends for the calamities they have so long endured.

That your Majesty may long sway the recovered sceptre of your illustrious ancestors, that you may prove a blessing to your people, and that the two countries of Great Britain and France may be so indissolubly allied by the relations of amity and concord, as to ensure and perpetuate to both, and to Europe at large, uninterrupted peace and repose, is our sincere and fervent prayer.

Signed, by order of Court,

Henry Woodthorpe.

To which Address His Most Christian Majesty was pleased to return the following answer :

My Lord and Gentlemen,

" I thank you with all My heart for your obliging address and kind wishes.

" It is as gratifying to My pride as affecting to My heart, to receive the felicitations of the city of London on so happy an event.

" Neither Myself or My Family, will ever forget the asylum afforded to us, nor the stand which has been made against tyranny by England, whose powerful aid has enabled My people to speak freely their sentiments of loyalty.
