THE following Addresses have been presented to His Royal Highness the Prince Regent; which Addresses His Royal Highness was pleased to receive very graciously:

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, the Lord Mayor, Sheriffs, Commons, and Citizens of the City of Dublin, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness with our sincere and warm congratulations on the late splendid and glorious achievements of the British army, under the command of our immortal countryman, Field-Marshal the Duke of Wellington, which, with the brilliant successes of our illustrious and magnanimous Allies, have at length, under Divine Providence, terminated in the downfall of the enemy to the repose of nations.

In these signal successes we cannot but perceive the full manifestation of the justice of God, in punishing the guilty, and wresting the palm of victory from the ferocious usurper, who wished to intimidate the whole civilized world into a tame acquiescence in all his visionary schemes of inordinate ambition.

We see also with inexpressible satisfaction the restoration of the lawful Sovereign of France to the Hereditary Throne of St. Louis, and a certainty of that honourable and durable peace, which will put an end to the calamities and afflictions of long agitated Europe.

Permit the loyal citizens of Dublin to renew to your Royal Highness their assurances of unalterable attachment to your person, family, and government, and to express their warm and grateful acknowledgments for your Royal Highness's peculiar favour and attention towards us, in having been graciously pleased to appoint a Chief Governor to preside over us, who, every way formed to engage our confidence, does in the most ample manner possess it.

In testimony whereof the Common Seal of the said City is hereto affixed, this 22d day of April 1814.

[Transmitted by His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

The humble and loyal Address of the Mayor, Aldermen, and Capital Burgesses of the Borough of Harwich, in Common Council assembled.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Mayor, Aldermen, and Capital Burgesses of the Borough of Harwich, in Common Council assembled, beg leave to approach the throne, and humbly to offer unto your Royal Highness our sincere congratulations on the return of peace, an object long most anxiously looked for, but one which, notwithstanding the protracted miseries of war, we are convinced could not have been attained otherwise than by the great and illustrious example of our revered Sovereign, so successfully pursued by your Royal Highness, and by the wisdom and steady perseverance of your Royal Highness's Councils, aided by the powerful co-operation of the Allies, more especially of those august Sovereigns, who, influenced by feelings the most amiable, have been induced to visit this island, and are now participating with your Royal Highness in one common effusion of joy and heartfelt gratification at the happy event, which proves virtue triumphant, and, we trust, will ensure to Europe a lasting repose; creating at the same time among our Transatlantic enemies, not only a proper regret for an unprovoked aggression, but a conviction, that it will be to their interest and well-being to live in harmony and good fellowship with this United Kingdom. That your Royal Highness may long live to be a blessing to this empire, is our fervent prayer.
