

Whitehall, October 11, 1817.

WHereas it hath been humbly represented unto His Royal Highness the Prince Regent, that, on the morning of Friday the 9th of May last, the sawing-mills, belonging to Mr. Timothy Burstall, situate at Bankside, in the Borough of Southwark, were discovered to be on fire, and that there is every reason to suppose the same was the act of some evil-disposed person or persons unknown;

His Royal Highness, for the better apprehending and bringing to justice the person or persons concerned in the felony above mentioned, is hereby pleased, in the name and on the behalf of His Majesty, to promise His Majesty's most gracious pardon to any one of them (except the person who actually set fire to the said mills), who shall discover his, her, or their accomplice or accomplices therein, so that he, she, or they may be apprehended and convicted thereof. SIDMOUTH.

And, as a further encouragement, a reward of FIFTY POUNDS is hereby offered by the said Mr. Timothy Burstall, to any person or persons (except as is before excepted) who shall discover his, her, or their accomplice or accomplices therein, so that he, she, or they may be apprehended and convicted thereof, or to any person who shall apprehend and bring the offenders, or any of them, to conviction, or cause them, or any of them, so to be apprehended and convicted as aforesaid.

BY THE LORDS COMMISSIONERS OF HIS MAJESTY'S TREASURY.

WHereas by an Act passed in the forty-seventh year of His present Majesty's reign, intituled "An Act to allow, for two years from and after the passing of this Act, an additional bounty on double-refined sugar, and to extend former bounties on other refined sugar, to such as shall be pounded, crushed, or broken; and to allow, for one year, certain bounties on British plantation raw sugar exported," reciting, that whereas by the laws now in force in Great Britain and Ireland respectively, it is required that refined sugar exported for the bounties shall be in lumps or loaves, complete and whole; and that it is expedient that the said bounties shall be continued to be allowed and paid on the exportation of the same from the ports of London and Dublin, although such lumps or loaves may be pounded, crushed, or broken; it is enacted, that on the due exportation of refined sugar for the bounties under those laws, the same bounties respectively shall be allowed and paid under the provisions and regulations of those Acts, on such lumps and loaves as may be pounded, crushed, or broken, under the regulations of this Act; and whereas by the said Act, it is further enacted, that whenever it shall be made appear to the satisfaction of the Lord High Treasurer, or the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury for the time being, in Great Britain or Ireland respectively, that proper refineries are established and carried on at or near to any port of the United Kingdom, to which it would be safe in their judgment to extend the benefit granted by this Act to the ports of London and Dublin, it shall and may be lawful for the Lord High Treasurer, or the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury for the time being, in Great Britain or Ireland respectively, to declare, that the regulations of this Act shall be extended to such port, provided that no bounty shall be paid or allowed upon refined sugar or candy exported from any such port, unless and until the Lord High Treasurer, or the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury for the time being, in Great Britain or Ireland respectively, shall have signified their approbation thereof by publication in the London or Dublin Gazette respectively; and from and after the day mentioned in such publication, all and every the provisions, powers, authorities, penalties, forfeitures, regulations, acts, matters, and things in this Act contained, or any way relating to the allowance of the bounties on such lump or loaf sugar pounded, crushed, or broken, or on sugar candy in pursuance thereof, shall extend and be construed to extend to the port or ports named in such order, in like manner, in every respect, and as fully and amply to all intents and purposes, as if such port or ports had been expressly named in this Act: and whereas it has been made appear to our satisfaction, that proper refineries are established and carried on in the port of Dundee, in that part of the United Kingdom called Scotland, and it is in our judgment safe to extend to the said port the benefit granted by the said Act to the ports of London and Dublin, We, the undersigned, Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, do therefore, in pursuance to the said Act, hereby declare, that the regulations of the said Act shall, from the day of the date hereof, be extended to the said port of Dundee.

Given under our hands this 11th day of November 1817,
