

that Being who over-rules the ways and destinies of man, we cannot withhold our tribute of respect to the memory of that illustrious Princess, now no more, and our heartfelt sympathy for the severe shock which the feelings of your Royal Highness must have sustained, both as a Parent and a Prince, by this melancholy and overwhelming event. We beg leave to assure your Royal Highness that we participate in the general sorrow, and that we unite in humble and earnest prayer, that Almighty God may have your Royal Highness in his holy keeping; that he may pour the balm of consolation into your wounded spirit, and support you under this great and grievous affliction.

To His Royal Highness the Prince REGENT.

The dutiful Address of the Faculty of Physicians and Surgeons of the City of Glasgow.

WE, His Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Members of Faculty of Physicians and Surgeons of the City of Glasgow, penetrated with the deepest sorrow, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness, to express to you our condolence on the late melancholy event which has deprived your Royal Highness of an affectionate daughter, and the nation of its brightest ornament and fondest hopes. Long accustomed to look up to Her Royal Highness the Princess Charlotte of Wales as the source of national prosperity, and as the pattern of public and domestic excellence, her death has deeply affected us, as the greatest public calamity and private misfortune.

That it may please the Almighty disposer of events to pour the balm of consolation into your Royal Highness's wounded heart, that your Royal Highness may long continue to rule over a great and a loyal people, and that the descendants of the House of Brunswick may for ever wield the sceptre of these realms, is the prayer of Your Royal Highness's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Faculty of Physicians and Surgeons of the City of Glasgow.

Signed at the pro re nata Meeting of Faculty, by Dr. Robert Graham, our Preses, in our name and in our behalf, and the Common Seal of the Faculty affixed hereunto, at Glasgow, the 2d December 1817.

Robert Graham, M. D. Preses.

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE the Convener, Deacons, and Members of the Nine Incorporated Trades of the Ancient and Royal Burgh of Dundee, most humbly condole with your Royal Highness on the death of the Princess Charlotte, who, we hoped, was destined by the Almighty to be the prop and stay of your declining years, and afterwards to reign over a happy, free, and loyal people, promoting their welfare and increasing their happiness. The only consolation which the nation can receive, is the hope that the life of your Royal Highness will long be preserved for the interest and happiness of your loyal subjects, and that the descendants of the Illustrious House of Brunswick will long enjoy the Throne of the British Empire.

Signed, by order and on behalf of the Nine Incorporated Trades, by

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

The humble Address of the Mayor, Aldermen, Bailiffs, Burgesses, and other Inhabitants of the Borough of New Windsor, in the County of Berks.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE the Mayor, Aldermen, Bailiffs, Burgesses, and other Inhabitants of the Borough of New Windsor, respectfully approach your Royal Highness, with the expression of that grief, which in common with every portion of our fellow subjects, we deeply feel at the calamity which has befallen your Royal Highness, your august Family, and the whole British people.

The affliction with which the Great Disposer of events has visited your Royal Highness, must at present be incapable of outward consolation; but when the progress of time shall have mitigated the sharpness of domestic sorrow, and tempered the ardour of public regret, it may afford an indelible satisfaction to your Royal Highness, that your private griefs have been sincerely partaken by a loyal and affectionate people; that the testimonies to the departed worth of the lamented Princess Charlotte-Augusta have been as spontaneous, as they have been heartfelt and universal.

The consolations which His Majesty's dutiful subjects have felt under this visitation, have been derived from the monitions and comforts of religion; may the blessings of the Most High afford your Royal Highness the same "present help in trouble," and be your "refuge and strength" in this and every other calamity.
