

The London Gazette.

Published by Authority.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 26, 1818.

Lord Chamberlain's Office, December 8, 1818.

ORDERS for the Court's change of mourning, on Sunday the 3d January next, for Her late Majesty, of blessed memory, viz.

The Ladies to wear black silk, fringed or plain linen or muslin, white gloves, black and white shoes, fans and tippets, white necklaces and earrings, no diamonds.

Undress—White or grey lustrings, tabbies or damasks.

The Gentlemen to wear black, full trimmed, plain or fringed linen, black swords and buckles.

Undress—Grey frocks.

The Court to change the mourning further on Sunday the 24th of January next, viz.

The Ladies to wear black silk or velvet, coloured ribbons, fans and tippets.

The Gentlemen to continue in black, to wear coloured swords and buckles.

And on Sunday the 14th of February next, the Court to go out of mourning.

Heralds College, December 19, 1818.

In reference to the order for a general mourning for Her late Majesty the Queen of blessed memory, which was announced in the Gazette of Saturday the 21st ultimo;

These are to give notice, that upon the present melancholy occasion, it is not desired or expected that the public should appear in mourning after the 29th instant.

HENRY HOWARD-MOLYNEUX-HOWARD,
Deputy Earl Marshal.

THE following Addresses, having been transmitted to Viscount Sidmouth, one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, by the several persons whose names are respectively subjoined to each Address, have been presented by His Lordship to His Royal Highness the Prince Regent, who was pleased to receive the same very graciously:

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Mayor, Aldermen, Sheriffs, and Common Council of the City of Gloucester, in Council assembled, having witnessed another loss to your Royal House, again beg permission to offer our condolence on so mournful an event; inadequate indeed must all expressions of sorrow be upon such an occasion, but as sincere proofs of attachment to your Family, they may not be unacceptable to your Royal Highness.

Mankind have ever regarded filial piety with the highest esteem and reverence, nor is there any thing more honourable to our nature, more pleasing and affecting to behold, than those acts of affectionate kindness, those tears of tenderness and regret shed by a dutiful Son on the pillow of his departing Parent.

May the memory of your conduct to your Royal Mother—of that solicitude with which you soothed her long and painful progress to the tomb, be to you some consolation for her loss, and may you find another consolation in the generous sympathy and loyal attachment of a great people.

Deign then, Sir, to accept a repetition of our best wishes for your welfare and for that of the House of Brunswick; and, guided by those sacred principles which placed it on the Throne of these realms, may your Royal Highness long continue to protect the liberties, promote the happiness, and increase the glory of the British nation.

Given under our common seal, at the Tolsey, in the said City, the 10th day of December 1818.

[Transmitted by Lord Henry Howard-Molyneux-Howard, High Steward of the City, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]