NOTICE TO MARINERS.

IN virtue of an Act of Parliament, passed in the fifty-fifth year of His present Majesty's reign, for enabling the Commissioners of the Northern Light-Houses to erect and maintain Light-Houses on the Isle of Man, one Light-House has been erected at the Point of Ayre, at the Northern extremity of that Island, and two Light-Houses have also been erected on the Calf Island, at the Southern extremity of Man; notice is accordingly hereby given, that these Lights will be exhibited on the evening of Monday the 1st day of February 1819, and will thereafter continue to be lighted from the going away of day light in the evening till the return of day-light in the morning.

The following is the Specification of the Position of the Light-Houses, and the Appearance of the Lights, by Mr. Stevenson, Engineer to the Commissioners.

POINT OF AYRE LIGHT-HOUSE.

This Light-House is situate about 650 feet from the Sea, upon an extensive plain in the Main Island of Man, called the Point of Ayre, in North latitude 54 deg. 27 min. and West longitude 4 deg. 20 min. The Light-House bears by compass from the Mull of Galloway, S.S.E., and is distant 22 miles; from Burrow-Head, S.S.W. 1-3d W., distant 16½ miles; from St. Bees, in Cumberland, W. by N. ¾ N., distant 29½ miles; from Maughold-Head, in the Isle of Man, N. by E., distant 8½ miles; from Rue or Blue Point, E. by S., distant 4 miles.

The light will be from oil, with a reflecting and revolving apparatus, and will be known to Mariners as a single revolving light with colour, exhibiting from the same light-room a light of the natural appearance, alternating with a light tinged with a red colour. These lights will respectively attain their greatest strength or most luminous effect at the end of every two minutes; but in the course of each periodic revolution of the reflector-frame, both lights will become alternately fainter and more obscure, and, to a distant observer, be totally eclipsed for a short period of time.

The Light-Room at the Point of Ayre is glazed all round, but the light will be hid from the Mariner by the high land of Maughold-Head towards the South, and by Rue Point towards the West. Being elevated 106 feet above the medium level of the Sea, its most luminous side may be seen, like a star of the first magnitude, at the distance of four or five leagues; but the side tinged red being somewhat obscured by the coloured shades, will not be seen at so great a distance.
