And four private bills.

St. James's, July 13, 1819.

THIS day His Royal Highness the Prince Regent proceeded in state from St. James's Palace to the House of Lords, where he arrived at two o'clock; and, having alighted from the state coach, he was received at the portico by the Great Officers and others, and proceeded to the robing room in the usual manner; His Royal Highness was there robed, his hat on his head, and the procession moved into the house in the usual order.

His Royal Highness being seated on the throne, the Great Officers and others standing on the right and left, Sir Thomas Tyndal, Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, was sent with a message from His Royal Highness to the House of Commons, commanding their attendance in the House of Peers. The Commons being come thither accordingly, His Royal Highness, in the name and on the behalf of His Majesty, was pleased to give the Royal assent to

An Act for applying certain monies therein mentioned, for the service of the year one thousand eight hundred and nineteen, and for further appropriating the supplies granted in this session of Parliament.

An Act to amend and render more effectual an Act, passed in the last session of Parliament, for building, and promoting the building, of additional churches in populous parishes.

An Act to repeal two Acts, made in the fifty-fourth and fifty-fifth years of the reign of His present Majesty, for maintaining and keeping in repair certain roads and bridges in Scotland, to provide more effectually for that purpose, and for regulation of ferries in Scotland.

An Act for the better regulation of the General Penitentiary for convicts at Millbank.

An Act to alter and amend an Act, made in the fifty-fifth year of the reign of His present Majesty, intituled An Act to repeal the Acts now in force relating to bread to be sold in the city of London and the liberties thereof, and within the Weekly Bills of Mortality, and ten miles of the Royal Exchange; and to prevent the adulteration of meal, flour, and bread, and to regulate the weights of bread within the same limits.

An Act to enable the directors of the poor of the several parishes within the city of Worcester, and of the parishes united therewith, to sell and dispose of certain lands discharged of all claims of the Crown, in respect of any forfeiture incurred under the Statutes of Mortmain.

An Act for amending and keeping in repair the mail coach road leading from Banbridge, in the county of Down, to Belfast, in the county of Antrim.

And two private bills.

After which His Royal Highness delivered the following most gracious speech to both Houses of Parliament:

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

IT is with great regret that I am again obliged to announce to you the continuance of His Majesty's lamented indisposition.

I cannot close this session of Parliament without expressing the satisfaction that I have derived from the zeal and assiduity with which you have applied yourselves to the several important objects which have come under your consideration.

Your patient and laborious investigation of the state of the circulation and currency of the kingdom demands My warmest acknowledgments; and I entertain a confident expectation that the measures adopted, as the result of this inquiry, will be productive of the most beneficial consequences.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

I thank you for the supplies which you have granted for the service of the present year.

I sincerely regret that the necessity should have existed of making any addition to the burthens of the people; but I anticipate the most important permanent advantages from the effort which you have thus made for meeting at once all the financial difficulties of the country; and I derive much satisfaction from the belief that the means which you have devised for this purpose are calculated to press as lightly on all classes of the community as could be expected when so great an effort was to be made.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

I continue to receive from Foreign Powers the strongest assurances of their friendly disposition towards this country.

I have observed with great concern the attempts which have recently been made in some of the manufacturing districts, to take advantage of circumstances of local distress, to excite a spirit of disaffection to the Institutions and Government of the country. No object can be nearer My heart than to promote the welfare and prosperity of all classes of His Majesty's subjects; but this cannot be
