

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty,
Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the undersigned Mayor, Bailiffs, Burgesses and other Inhabitants of the Town of Northampton, beg leave to approach your Majesty with sentiments of loyalty and fidelity to your Majesty's most sacred Person, and to express our unalterable attachment to that invaluable Constitution which secures to every class of your Majesty's subjects equal protection and security.

We cannot but express our abhorrence and detestation of those blasphemous and pernicious doctrines and sentiments, aided by a licentious press, which, at this awful and momentous crisis, inculcate contempt for religion, traduce the constituted Authorities of the realm, and threaten to involve the country in ruin and desolation.

We beg leave to assure your Majesty of our loyal and dutiful attachment, and of our best efforts to support the rights of the Crown, and the just and equitable balance of the Constitution, nor shall we cease to offer our most fervent prayers, that your Majesty may long reign in the hearts and affections of a happy, free and united people.

[Here follow the Signatures.]

[Transmitted by the Mayor.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Inhabitants of the Town and Neighbourhood of Alcester, in the County of Warwick, humbly beg permission to offer to your Majesty this solemn declaration of our sincere and ardent devotion to your Royal Person and Government.

In these awful and perilous times, when the most strenuous efforts are made by the turbulent and seditious, to confound and degrade all the duties which as men, christians and subjects, we are bound to perform; when loyalty is termed slavery, when a due submission to the laws is denominated servility, when reverence for our holy religion is railed at as bigotry and superstition, when evil is called good and good evil, we feel ourselves especially impelled thus publicly to declare our unalterable attachment to your Majesty's Royal Person, and our firm determination, collectively and individually, to maintain and defend the venerable institutions of our country, as by law established.

It is with the greatest possible satisfaction that we offer to your Majesty these sentiments of our affection and loyalty, as we feel the firmest conviction that they are also entertained by a large majority of your Majesty's subjects throughout the united dominions, and we beg to assure your Majesty that, (notwithstanding the dangers, by which to human eyes, we appear to be surrounded,) we still rely, with unabated confidence, on the high patriotism by which your Majesty is so eminently distinguished; on the sound sense of your Majesty's people, and above all, on the protection of Divine Providence for continuing to us and to our posterity that glorious form of Government, which has for so many ages been the blessing of our country, and the admiration of the civilized world.

That your Majesty may long reign in prosperity and health, in the hearts of a free, united and happy people, is the fervent prayer of your Majesty's faithful, devoted and loyal subjects.

[Here follow the Signatures.]

[Transmitted by the Marquess of Hertford, K. G.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, the undersigned Gentlemen, Clergy, Farmers and other Inhabitants of the Parishes of Boxford, Assington, Milden and Grotton, in the Hundred of Babergh, in the County of Suffolk, humbly beg to offer to your Majesty the assurance of our loyal and dutiful attachment to your Majesty's sacred Office and Person.

We consider it our duty at all times to stand forward in protection of our sacred Religion and the Throne, but especially at the present, when the overthrow of both are so openly menaced, when the press is made the vehicle for blasphemy and sedition, and every endeavour is making by the disloyal to encrease the present distress of the country:

That the agricultural part of us are indeed struggling with considerable difficulties is most true, which we consider the result of a state of peace after a long and expensive war. That that war has been brought to so glorious a close, we have to ascribe to the wisdom and firmness of your Majesty, and we feel confident, that when the proper time arrives that the same relief will be extended to us which has been to the other classes of your Majesty's subjects, and we pledge ourselves, as true and loyal subjects, to be ready, at all times, to stand forward in support of the Altar, the Throne and the Laws with our lives and fortunes.

We earnestly pray, that it may please Almighty God, long to continue to your Majesty, an happy and glorious reign over an attached and faithful people.

[Here follow the Signatures.]

[Transmitted by the Rev. Thomas Thurlow]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, Inhabitants of the ancient Royal Burgh of Stirling, beg to approach the Throne with the humble assurance of our unshaken loyalty and attachment to your Majesty's most sacred Person, and to that mild and paternal Government which has characterised the reign of your Majesty, in common with the other Sovereigns of your august House.

We have seen with the deepest regret, that factious men, from motives which we cannot forbear to call base and criminal, have made use of recent events to inflame the passions and mislead the judgments of the unthinking, and perhaps ill-informed part of our fellow subjects; and appreciating as we do those blessings which our happy Constitution, as by law established, has hitherto bestowed upon the people of these realms, we must view with suspicion, if not with serious alarm, those attempts at innovation which the rude hands of wild and unprincipled agitators would introduce