Publiched by Authority.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1821.

THE following Address from the British Residents at Boston, the principal city of New England, in the United States of America, has been received by the Marquess of Londonderry, K. G. one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, from George Manners, Esq. His Majesty's Consul residing there, and has been presented by his Lordship to the King, who was pleased to receive the same very graciously:

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the undersigned, His Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects now resident at Boston, in the United States of America, and its Vicinity.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's ever dutiful and loyal subjects, now residing at Boston, in the United States of America, and its Vicinity, but unshaken in our allegiance and affection to your august Person, beg leave humbly to approach your Throne, and offer our sincere and hearty congratulations on the recent auspicious and glorious event of your Majesty's Coronation.

Far removed from our beloved native country, we feel, with pride and gravitude, that there is no spot in the civilized world uncheered by the splendour of our Sovereign's crown, or where your Majesty's faithful subjects may not derive honour, happiness, and protection from its benignant and resistless influence.

We pray your Majesty graciously to accept our warm assurances of firm attachment to your Person and Government, and to the venerated Constitution of the British empire as by law established.

of the British empire as by law established. Fervently rejoicing at the enthusiastic feelings of loyalty and satisfaction which the reiterated proofs of affection and confidence, given by your Majesty to your loving subjects, have recently elicited, and firmly relying on the vigour, wisdom, and integrity of your Majesty's Councils and the Legislature of the British empire, we regard with more indignation than alarm, the wicked machinations of those few perturbed spirits who are incessantly striving to clisseministic discontent, disloyalty, and fireligion; whom no concessions could tranquilize, no elemency conciliate, and in whom no virtues could excite one sentiment of admiration or approval.

We supplicate Almighty God to pour down upon your Majesty every earthly blessing, and to grant that you may long continue to reign over our happy country, the pride and glory of your people, and the admiration of the world.

Boston, United States of America, October 1, 1821.

THE following Addresses, having been transmitted to Viscount Sidmouth, one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, by the several persons whose names are respectively subjoined to each Address, were presented by His Lordship to His Majesty, who was pleased to regeive the same very graciously:

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful subjects, the Mayor, Aldermen, and Chief Citizens of your ancient and loyal City of Hereford, humbly desire to offer to your Majesty our sincere and cordial congratulations on the joyful occasion of your safe return to your native realms, after diffusing amongst your faithful subjects abroad, the happiness of a personal knowledge of their Sovereign.

It has been your Majesty's glory, in your progress thither, to receive from other countries, especially from that which has been supposed naturally most inimical to Great Britain, the expression of those sentiments of high and grateful respect to which your Majesty's magnanimity has a just and strong claim. We have sympathised, Sir, in the universal feeling of joy which has pervaded every place honoured by the presence of a Prince, whose wise Councils, and whose irresistible arms have rescued and preserved Europe, and conferred on his own dominions the blessings of durable peace.

In returning from the shores of the sister island, where the beniguant influence of your Majesty's
