To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The Joint Address of His Excellency Colonel John Ready, Lieutenant-Governor and Commander in Chief of His Majesty's Island of Prince Edward and its Dependencies, of the Honourable His Majesty's Council, and of the House of Assembly, in their Legislative Capacities, now sitting at Charlotte Town:

May it please your Majesty,

THE Lieutenant-Governor, Council, and Assembly, now convened in General Assembly, on behalf of themselves and the Inhabitants of this Island, beg leave most humbly to approach the Throne, to offer to your Majesty their sincere condolence upon the melancholy event which has bereaved your Majesty of a highly beloved and illustrious Member of your Royal Family.

The sentiments of loyalty and affection for your Majesty's Person and Government, which are deeply implanted in our bosoms, render it impossible for us not to participate in the grief which this afflicting event must have caused to your Majesty and to the Nation at large.

And we assure your Majesty, that, although far removed from the capital of the empire, the death of your lamented brother, His Royal Highness the Duke of York, is in no part of your Majesty's widely extended dominions more sincerely and deeply deplored than in this your loyal island of Prince Edward.

Council-Chamber, May 1, 1827, in behalf of His Majesty's Council,

COPY of a Dispatch received at the Colonial Office from the Lieutenant-Governor of Upper Canada, enclosing an Address of Condolence to His Majesty, from three thousand three hundred and five Inhabitants of that Province; upon the lamented death of His Royal Highness the Duke of York and Albany:

MY LORD, York, U. C. May 23, 1827.

THE inhabitants of the several districts of this Province, to the number of three thousand three hundred and five, have united in an Address of condolence to His Majesty upon the lamented death of His late Royal Highness the Duke of York, and I am requested by their Committee to transmit the same to your Lordship, to be laid at the foot of the Throne.

It will be gratifying to your Lordship to receive this proof of the sentiments of affectionate attachment, which the distinguished character of His late Royal Highness had impressed upon all classes of

His Majesty's subjects in Upper Canada: and I beg to be allowed on this occasion to express, in common with so many of my fellow subjects, my deep sense of the loss which the British Nation has sustained.

Lieutenant-Colonel McGregor, of the 70th Regiment, who is proceeding to England on leave of absence, will have the honour to deliver this dispatch and the address.

I have, &c.

(Signed) P. MAITLAND.

Earl Bathurst, K. G. &c. &c. &c.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the Clergy, Magistrates, and other Inhabitants of the Province of Upper Canada.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Clergy, Magistrates, and other Inhabitants of the Province of Upper Canada, humbly beg leave to express to your Majesty our deep and unfeigned sorrow, under the afflicting dispensation of Divine Providence, which has deprived your Majesty of an affectionate Brother, the Army of an Illustrious Chief, distinguished for his zeal and ability to promote its glory and welfare, and the Nation of a Prince firmly attached to her Constitution, just, indefatigable, and considerate in the discharge of its high functions, and forward in every work of charity and benevolence.

Although we inhabit a distant dependency of your Majesty's Crown, the name and character of His Royal Highness the late Duke of York have been for a long series of years so closely connected with the honour of the British arms, that we feel no less sensibly than any other portion of your Majesty's subjects the loss which the Nation has sustained.

The long and glorious reign of your Majesty's Royal Father had nearly half passed away before any portion of this now flourishing Colony had been reclaimed from a state of nature. Under the mild and powerful sway of that revered Monarch, and the paternal care and protection of your Majesty, we have grown to a numerous, happy, and prosperous people; and our sense of the affliction which we now suffer, in common with the empire, is heightened by the recollection, that during nearly the whole of this eventful period, so glorious in British annals, the name of the Duke of York has been ever associated in our minds with ideas of perfect military discipline, the glory of the British army, and that just and attentive consideration of the rights and happiness of soldiers of every rank, which endeared him alike to the highest and the lowest.

It has been our pride to reflect, that in no other country, and under no other form of Government, could the appointment of the State, or the choice of the people, have called to so important a trust, an individual better fitted to fulfil its arduous duties than His late Royal Highness approved himself in a period of uncommon difficulty and responsibility.

We see in this happy coincidence one of the blessings of our admirable constitution, that the illustrious chief, whose rank so naturally assigned to him the command of the British army, has, by his manner of discharging its duties, conferred honour on the military service, and contributed to rivet the affections of your Majesty's subjects closer to the throne, and to strengthen their attachment to the illustrious family of Brunswick.

It has been eminently proved, by his invaluable example, that, under a free constitution, even royal birth does not claim an exemption from the anxious responsibility and fatiguing details of public service, while it tends to elevate the prince to a more than ordinary height above every disposition to haughtiness, injustice, or oppression.

We consider it, Sir, a most happy consolation, under the misfortunes which we so deeply deplore, that your Majesty has been able to place at the head of your armies an illustrious general whose fame will engage the admiration of the latest posterity, whose zealous attention to the security of your Majesty's dominions we see at this moment displayed in the important works proceeding under his direction for the defence of this Province, and of whom history gives the assurance, that the honour of the British arms can never be impaired under his auspices.

We beg to renew, on this occasion, our assurance of perfect and affectionate devotion to the Person and Government of your Majesty, who we pray may continue long to reign for the happiness and glory of your mighty empire.

(Signed) W. Campbell, Chief Justice, and upwards of three thousand Individuals.

Monday, April 2, 1827.

THE following Addresses, having been transmitted to the Marquess of Lansdowne, one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, were presented by His Lordship to His Majesty, who was pleased to receive the same very graciously:

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The most humble Condolence and Address of the Barbadoes Auxiliary Bible Society of the Free People of Colour.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, most humbly implore your Majesty to permit us to lay at your Majesty's feet this our most humble Condolence and Address, endeavouring to state our inexpressible concern for the afflictions with which it has pleased Almighty God to visit your Majesty's Royal House. The removal from this life of any of your Majesty's Royal Family must be afflicting to us as tending to distress your Majesty's feelings. Our sorrow is unfeigned for the loss of your Majesty's Royal Brother, His Royal Highness the Duke of York and Albany, whose virtues and studious imitation of the example your Majesty has shewn forth, in disseminating the Gospel of Peace and Salvation to all classes of your Majesty's subjects, as well as your gracious care for their temporal welfare, compel us to view this afflicting visitation of Almighty God with mourning and lamentation, whilst we most humbly implore the Almighty to grant unto your Majesty His comfort and support, and that many years may be added to your benevolent reign, and bless your Majesty with health, wealth, and long life, vanquishing and overcoming your enemies; and lastly, that your Majesty who has so earnestly sought to extend the glory of God, may receive all the blessings promised in that sacred volume your Majesty has so zealously studied to propagate, whilst we for ourselves and the whole Society most humbly beg leave to subscribe our names at your Majesty's feet.

The humble and dutiful Address of the People of Keighley, in the West Riding of the County of York, to His Most Gracious Majesty, on the death of the Right Honourable George Canning.

WE, the Inhabitants of the abovenamed populous town, desire to offer to your Most Gracious Majesty our unfeigned condolence on the unexpected death of the First Minister of the Crown.

We consider it our duty to express to your Most Gracious Majesty the feelings of sorrow and alarm with which we have received the intelligence of the death of the Right Honourable George Canning at this important juncture, in which the unrestrained exercise of his brilliant talents and liberal sentiments, his patriotic plans of retrenchment and œconomy, gave promise of the happiest results to his country.

Had he been less diligent and less devoted to his country's welfare, his country might still have enjoyed his services; he has fallen a martyr in the sacred cause of his country, and his memory will long be dear to those in whose cause he fell.

With feelings of the deepest humility we beg leave to express our sanguine hopes, that the liberal principles and enlightened views, with regard to trade and religious liberty, which he possessed, and which are founded on the sacred rule "of doing to others as we wish they should do unto us," may long continue to adorn and to support your Majesty's Government.

We, being inhabitants of a manufacturing town, beg to be permitted to seize the present opportunity of expressing our lively gratitude to your Most Gracious Majesty, for your liberality exercised towards the distressed manufacturing population, during the late season of commercial embarrassment, in which we, in common with our neighbours, deeply suffered, and were bountifully relieved by the stream of liberality which took its rise from your Royal hand.

We desire to express our loyalty and attachment to your Most Gracious Majesty's Person and Government, and our full confidence in the wisdom of your measures in the present juncture of affairs.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's loyal subjects, the Inhabitants of Birmingham and its Vicinity, in public meeting assembled, humbly beg permission to approach your Majesty with assurances of our devoted attachment to your Majesty's Person and Government.

We also beg your Majesty's gracious permission humbly to offer our dutiful condolence on the lamented decease of the late First Lord Commissioner of your Majesty's Treasury, the Right Right Honourable George Canning, by which afflicting event your Majesty has been deprived of an able, zealous, and faithful Minister, and the British Empire of a wise and patriotic Statesman.

Deeply regretting this unhappy event, and sympathising with your Majesty in all the difficulties and anxieties which your Majesty has lately experienced, we further beg permission humbly to express our grateful acknowledgements for the wisdom and paternal care evinced by your Majesty in your Majesty's recent official appointments, which afford us the most confident assurance that the same just, enlightened, and beneficent policy will be continued by your Majesty's present Government, which has lately conducted so greatly to your Majesty's honour, and so eminently benefited your Majesty's dominions and the whole civilized world.

We fervently pray that your Majesty may long reign over a free, loyal, and united people.

Signed, by order of and on behalf of the Meeting,
