THE whole of the debts due from Messrs. Dean and Co. not having been paid previously to the 15th of this present month of September, being the time to which the payment thereof was extended by us, we, in pursuance of the provisions contained in the deed of inspection, do hereby give notice, that a public general meeting of the partnership and separate Creditors of the said Messrs. Dean and Co. who have executed or assented to the said deed of inspection, will be holden at the King's Head Inn, in Wimborne Minster, in the County of Dorset, on Tuesday the 23d day of October 1827, at Ten o'Clock in the Forenoon, for the purpose of considering the expediency of further extending the time to convert the assets of the said Bank into money, and for raising from other sources any deficiency thereof; and generally to consider and determine on such other steps as may be necessary for insuring the full and speedy discharge of the debts remaining due, with interest thereon.

Any of the Creditors who may be prevented from attending the meeting personally, are authorised by the deed of inspection to appoint persons to act on their behalf.

Arrangements are now pending by which it is probable that the sum for fully liquidating the debts will be raised before the time above appointed for the meeting of the Creditors; and if so, due notice will be given of the payment of the final dividend, which will consequently supersede the necessity of the above meeting.—Dated September 21, 1827.
