

ecclesiastical duties within the districts attached to such respective churches and chapels, and for the due ecclesiastical superintendance of such district, and the preservation and improvement of the religious and moral habits of the persons residing therein, the said Commissioners shall represent such opinion to His Majesty in Council, and shall state in such representation the bounds by which such districts are proposed to be described; and if, thereupon, His Majesty in Council shall think fit to direct such divisions to be made, such Order of His Majesty in Council shall be valid and good in law for the purpose of effecting such division:” and whereas by an Act, passed in the 59th year of His late Majesty’s reign, intituled “ An Act to amend and render more effectual an Act, passed in the last session of Parliament, for building, and promoting the building, of additional churches in populous parishes,” further provisions are made for carrying such divisions into effect: and whereas the said Commissioners have made a representation to His Majesty in Council, stating that the parish of Bradford, in the county and diocese of York, contained in the year 1821, when the last census was taken, a population of 52,954 persons, which has considerably increased since that time; that besides the parish church there are only five consecrated chapels, which together afford accommodation for 6004 persons only; that the said Commissioners have caused to be erected two new chapels in the said parish, one at Shipley and the other at Wilsden, wherein accommodation has been provided for 2976 persons, including 664 free seats appropriated to the use of the poor; that such chapels have been consecrated and divine service is regularly performed therein; that it appears to the said Commissioners to be expedient, for securing a due ecclesiastical superintendance of the parish, and for the preservation and improvement of the religious and moral habits of the persons residing therein, that districts should be assigned to the new chapels, under the said Act passed in the 58th year of His late Majesty’s reign; and that such districts should be named, Shipley cum Heaton District, and Wilsden cum Allerton District; that their boundaries should be as follows: the boundary of Shipley and Heaton District to commence at the bridge called Baildon-bridge, which connects the towns of Shipley and Baildon, and to comprise the land on the south of the River Aire from the mouth of the Bradford Beck to the bridge called Darley Gap-bridge, where the parish of Bradford joins the parish of Bingley, and in a westerly direction, Bingley being on the right and Shipley on the left, at the distance of about three miles, extends the extremity of the township of Heaton, contiguous to which is the township of Allerton on the west, and in an easterly view continues the limits of the township of Heaton to the rivulet called the Bradford Beck, which, by a winding course of about two miles, and separating the townships of Heaton and Shipley from the township of Idle, empties itself into the River Aire at Baildon-mill, which district is described in the map accompanying the said representation; the boundary of Wilsden cum Allerton District to commence at Harden Beck-bridge, which connects the parish of Bradford with the parish of Bingley, and to proceed in a south westerly direction along the watercourse which is the boundary of Bingley parish, by Goitstock and

Cullingworth as far as Iverstone-bridge, over which is the Halifax and Haworth turnpike road; thence in the same direction along the boundary of Bingley parish as far as Oxenhope; thence in a south direction along the boundary of Haworth by Oxenhope to the south western extremity of Hallows-park; thence in a north eastern direction along the boundary of Denholme cum Thornton, crossing the Halifax and Keighley turnpike road, and onward in an easterly direction along the same boundary as far as the road, across Old Allen-common to Wilsden, is joined by Allerton; thence along the same boundary to the watercourse, which proceeding in a south easterly direction is the boundary of Thornton, as far as Lenthrop-mill-bridge; thence along the same watercourse in an easterly direction, being the boundary of Clayton, and then of Great Horton at Sam’s-mill, up to its junction with another watercourse where Manningham joins Allerton; thence along the last watercourse in a north westerly direction, being the boundary of Manningham, and then of Heaton to Lane Bottom on the Bradford and Haworth road; thence along a small run of water to where the parish of Bingley joins the parish of Bradford, and onward in a north westerly direction along the boundary of Bingley parish, as far as the watercourse which going in a westerly direction is the boundary of Bingley parish; and thence along this watercourse to Harden Beck-bridge, which district is described in the map accompanying the said representation: that the consent of His Grace the Lord Archbishop of York has been obtained, as required by the aforesaid Act; and humbly praying, that His Majesty would be pleased to take the said circumstances into consideration, and to make such order therein as to His Majesty should seem meet: His Majesty having this day taken the said representation into consideration, was pleased, by and with the advice of His Privy Council, to approve thereof, and to order, as it is hereby ordered, that the proposed division be accordingly made and effected, agreeably to the provisions of the said Acts.
