

acter of your Majesty's Royal Mother, we cannot, on this occasion, refrain from paying to our most gracious Queen Adelaide the tribute of our admiration, following, as she does, the illustrious example which has been set before her, more especially in the cultivation of all those amiable and substantial virtues which shed new lustre on the Crown she wears, and which are most precious and endearing in the eyes of a British people.

Receive, then, Sire, the humble tribute of our heartfelt congratulations on your Majesty's accession to the Throne of your Ancestors, accompanied with the assurance of our cordial attachment to your august Person and Family, and of our fervent prayer that the Almighty Disposer of events may bless your Majesty, and your beloved Consort, with every happiness; and that, rich in the affections of your subjects, and undisturbed by foreign hostility or domestic faction, you may long be spared to dispense to a brave and generous people the invaluable blessings of our unrivalled Constitution.

On behalf of the public meeting,

Geo. O'Halloran, Lieut.-Col., Chairman.

[Transmitted by Lieut.-Col. O'Halloran.]

No. 16.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, Justices of the Peace for the Liberty of His Majesty's Tower of London, in Special General Session assembled, humbly offer our condolence to your Majesty upon the death of our late beloved Sovereign.

We presume to express to your Majesty our hearty congratulations upon your Majesty's accession to the Throne of your illustrious Ancestors, and to assure your Majesty of our attachment to your gracious person.

We fervently pray that your Majesty, and your Royal Consort, our Queen, may long remain, by God's providence, with a faithful and affectionate people.

We assure your Majesty, that, as Magistrates, we will, by a faithful and humane administration of the laws within our commission, continue in your Majesty's subjects the principle of loyalty and of affectionate obedience.

William Ballantine, Chairman.

Court House, 29th July 1830.

[Transmitted by Wm. Ballantine, Esq., Chairman.]

No. 17.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the Governors of the Small Pox and Vaccination Hospital, at Saint Pancras, in the County of Middlesex.

WE, the Governors of the above mentioned Hospital, in General Court assembled, venture to approach the Throne, to offer to your Majesty our sincere and respectful condolence upon the demise of our late beloved Sovereign and Patron.

We congratulate your Majesty on your happy accession to the Crown of these Kingdoms; and we recur with grateful recollection to the honour conferred on this Establishment; when your Majesty was pleased to become its President on the demise of your Royal Brother, the Duke of York.

We cannot close this our humble address, without offering our prayers to Him by whom all Kings reign, that he would be pleased to prosper your Majesty's life and Government, with a long course of felicity.

By order of an Extraordinary General Court, held at the Hospital, James Clift, Secretary.

[Transmitted by James Clift, Esq. Secretary.]

No. 18.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's most loyal, dutiful, and attached subjects and servants, the Vicar, Churchwardens, and Inhabitants of the Parish of Langley, in the County of Bucks, with the profoundest reverence, presume to offer an expression of our sincere and loyal sympathy with your Majesty's feelings, upon the bereavement which your Majesty has experienced, in the demise of your Royal Brother, our lamented Sovereign, of blessed memory.

It can never be forgotten by us, or by the British Nation, that, under the auspices of His late Majesty, a most triumphant warfare was carried on, which was succeeded by a permanent peace, that the arts and sciences were encouraged and liberally upheld, that the kingdom was raised to the highest pinnacle of glory, that the laws were in no small degree ameliorated, and that the gracious prerogative of pardon was most readily and most mercifully exercised, by the beneficent Monarch whose loss we lament. But while we deplore that loss, in common with your Majesty (whom God preserve) and the Nation at large, we derive the most heartfelt satisfaction in knowing that the Crown has descended to a Prince, the benevolence of whose heart, the firmness of whose mind, and the soundness of whose judgment, will insure the glory of Britain and the happiness of the people.

We most humbly offer to your Majesty our unfeigned congratulations upon the accession of your Majesty to the Throne of these Realms; and we pray that the blessing of God may ever be upon your Majesty, and that Heaven's best gifts of life and health may be bestowed upon your Majesty, which will enable your Majesty (under God) to dispense happiness and peace to your Majesty's loyal and affectionate subjects.

[Here follow the signatures.]

[Transmitted by the Rev. Charles Champnes, M. A.]

No. 19.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the Mayor, Sheriffs and Commonalty of the City of Cork.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Mayor, Sheriffs, and Commonalty of the City of Cork, beg leave humbly to approach your Royal presence with our tribute of condolence on the lamented death of your illustrious Brother, our late revered, beloved, and ever to be lamented Sovereign.

We feel deeply impressed with the remembrance of his many inestimable qualities, and that under his wise and auspicious administration, the honour and glory of the empire was most successfully promoted and maintained.