

We fully concur in a sentiment which is widely entertained through the country, namely, that the House of Commons, as at present constituted, does not possess the confidence of the people; we are of opinion also that the measure now proposed will, in a great degree, remove those defects which have gradually brought about this want of confidence between the nation and its representatives; we therefore earnestly hope that the proposed scheme of improvement, for which we feel most deeply grateful to your Majesty's Ministers, and which has given so much satisfaction through the country, may pass into a law entire and unchanged.

We, your Majesty's loyal and dutiful subjects aforesaid, believe that this is the only means which can avert a perpetual conflict between the people and the legislature, or which will restore the nation to a state of due prosperity; and we contemplate the consequences to be expected from a rejection of the measure with the most serious alarm.

And that your Majesty may long be spared to reign over a free, a loyal, and a happy people, is our most ardent wish and prayer.

Signed, in our name and presence, and by our appointment, by

Will. Bayne, Provost and Preces of the meeting.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

Sire,

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, Inhabitants of the Parish of Clerkenwell, in the County of Middlesex, in Vestry assembled, beg leave humbly to approach your Majesty with heartfelt congratulations upon the highly satisfactory plan of reform lately submitted to the Commons House of Parliament by your Majesty's Ministers, which promises in its results to confer the greatest benefits on your Majesty's subjects, and ultimately to restore harmony and prosperity to the nation.

We beg your Majesty to accept our unfeigned assurance of attachment to your Royal Person, and our determination to support your Majesty's Ministers in their patriotic exertions to restore the Constitution of the country to its pristine state, which will confer those blessings upon a virtuous and industrious population to which they are justly entitled.

Signed, on behalf of the Vestry,

Thos. Key, Churchwarden.
