

at such times, and upon such terms as the said Assignee shall think advisable, and either subject to any mortgage or mortgages thereon or not, and with or without the consent or concurrence of the Mortgagee, and to buy in or resell the same, or any part thereof, in such manner as to the Assignee may seem advisable, without being answerable for any loss or diminution in price at any such resale, or for any expences incurred by any such buying in and resale; and to assent to or dissent from the said Assignee paying off, or otherwise arranging a certain mortgage on the said property, of about the sum of £150; and also to the Assignee paying and allowing, or otherwise settling and arranging certain equitable liens claimed by the said Mortgagee upon the said property, for the sum of £160 or thereabouts, in such manner as he shall think fit; and to assent to or dissent from the said Assignee instituting any suit or suits in equity for the purpose of compelling the said Mortgagee to deliver up the deeds relating to the said property, upon payment of the amount, which shall be found to be due to him for principal and interest on his said mortgage and to obtain a reconveyance of the said property, discharged from all such alleged equitable liens as are claimed thereon; and all claims and demands in respect thereof; and to assent to or dissent from the said Assignee submitting to arbitration, or compounding the said alleged equitable liens; and to his commencing any suit at law or in equity, for recovery of any part of the said Insolvent's estate and effects; and submitting to arbitration, compounding, compromising, or settling any suits or actions, accounts, debts, demands, differences, or disputes, relating to the estate and effects of the said Insolvent.—Dated this 14th day of July 1831.

[All Letters must be post-paid.]

Printed and Published at the Office, in Cannon-Row, Parliament-Street, by ROBERT GEORGE CLARKE.

[Price Two Shillings and Nine Pence.]