Whitehall, October 7, 1831.

THE following Address to the King, on the occasion of their Majesties' Coronation, having been transmitted to the Right Honourable Viscount Melbourne, one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, was by him presented to His Majesty, who was pleased to receive the same very graciously:

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the Convener, Master of Hospital, Seven Deacons, and whole other Members of the Seven Incorporated Trades of the City of Aberdeen, beg leave most humbly to approach your Majesty, and to offer to your Majesty our joyful and heartfelt congratulations on the late august and auspicious solemnity of your Majesty's Coronation, when your Majesty, in presence of God and of your Majesty's loyal and affectionate subjects, solemnly confirmed that compact with your people, under which your Majesty succeeded to the Throne of these realms.

Permit us, Most Gracious Sire, on this happy occasion, to renew our expressions of inviolable attachment and loyalty to your Majesty's sacred Person and Government; and to assure your Majesty of our deep sense of those truly generous and patriotic exertions which your Majesty has made for the lessening of the public burdens, for the redress of public abuses, for the amending of the imperfections which have crept into our glorious Constitution, and for the wise and able Ministers whom your Majesty has called to your enlightened Councils, for carrying those generous and patriotic exertions into effect; these must render loyalty not merely the duty, but the pride of every British subject.

That Almighty God, by whom alone Kings reign, may bless your Majesty with length of life and happy days, to reign in the hearts of a free, a happy, and a grateful people; that the unfeigned loyalty and sincere attachment of your Majesty's subjects may be the brightest and most unperishable gems in your royal diadem; and that future ages may bless the memory of so patriotic and beloved a Monarch, are the sincere and heartfelt prayers of, Sire, your Majesty's most loyal and affectionate subjects, the Convener, Master of Hospital, Seven Deacons, and whole other Members of the Seven Incorporated Trades of Aberdeen.
