WILLIAM (otherwise WILLIAM CRUDEN) M'GILL.

THE relatives, friends, or other persons who may have been acquainted with the said William (otherwise William Cruden) M'Gill, or with the time and place of his decease, are requested to communicate any information respecting him in their power to Mr. Gatty, Solicitor, Charterhouse, London.

The said William (otherwise William Cruden) M'Gill was a Midshipman and Acting Lieutenant in the Royal Navy, and serving on board His Majesty's Ship Acasta, on the West India station, in May 1809, and is supposed to have died soon after that time.

IF John Garrod, son of William Garrod, late of Debenham, in the County of Suffolk, and Virtue, his wife, formerly Virtue King, Spinster, be living, and will apply as under, he may hear of something to his advantage. If he be dead, any person giving information of his death, and producing a certificate of his burial, shall be rewarded for his trouble.

The said John Garrod, if living, is about 54 years of age; he went to sea when a lad, was at Debenham for six weeks about twenty-one years ago, left that place, intending again to enter the service, and has never since been heard of by his family. It is believed that he served on board the Victory, for a short time, about the period of the battle of Trafalgar.
