Admiralty, January 12, 1842.

DISPATCHES have been received at this Office from Vice-Admiral Sir William Parker, K.C.B. of which the following are copies or extracts:

SIR, Wellesley, at Amoy, August 31, 1841.

I REQUEST you will lay before my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty the accompanying copy of a despatch which I have addressed to the Right Honourable the Governor-General of India, detailing the proceedings of Her Majesty's squadron under my command, in the capture of the city of Amoy and the island of Golong-soo, with all their fortifications and defences, by the combined forces of the expedition on the 26th instant; on which event I beg to congratulate their Lordships, and reiterate my entire approbation of the gallantry and good-conduct of all the Officers, seamen, and royal marines of Her Majesty's squadron, as well as those of the Indian Navy, and Bombay artillery under my command. I have the honour, &c.

(Signed) W. PARKER, Rear-Admiral.

To the Secretary to the Admiralty.

*Wellesley, in the Bay of Amoy,
Aug. 31, 1841.*

MY LORD,

It is with much gratification that I have the honour of announcing to your Lordship the capture of the city of Amoy and the island of Golong-soo (which forms the west side of the harbour), together with their strong lines of batteries and sea defences, mounting above 228 guns, by the combined forces of Her Majesty, after a short but vigorous attack, on the 26th instant, with very trifling loss on our part.

The expedition, comprising the ships of war hereafter named, and twenty-one transports, containing the land forces, military and victualling stores, &c. under the command of his Excellency Major-General

Sir Hugh Gough, sailed from the anchorage of Hongkong on the 21st, and fortunately arrived off the islands at the entrance of Amoy Bay by sunset on the 25th.

A few shots were discharged at Her Majesty's ships as they passed between the fortified islands, but no mischief was done. It was then beginning to blow strong, but, favoured by a fair wind and good moonlight, with the advantage of the local knowledge of Captain Bouchier of the Blonde, the fleet were pushed into the bay, and anchored in security for the night.

It blew too hard during the night to admit of any boats leaving the ships to sound or make observations; but no time was lost after daylight in reconnoitering the Chinese positions, in which the General and Sir Henry Pottinger did me the favour to accompany me in the Phlegethon steam vessel.

We found the batteries and works of defence on the entire sea face strengthened by every means that the art of these active people could devise; presenting a succession of batteries and outworks, from the extreme outward points of this extensive bay, until within about three quarters of a mile of the entrance of the harbour, where a high barrier wall was constructed from the foot of a steep and rocky mountain to a sandy beach on the sea; and from this latter point a strong casemated work of granite, faced with soil, and occasional small bastions, with parapets of stone, to afford flanking defences, was continued to the very suburbs and entrance of the harbour, from whence were masked batteries with sand bags, until opposite the north east point of Golong-soo island, altogether one hundred and fifty two guns.

On the island of Golong-soo, which is the key of Amoy, strong batteries, mounting in all seventy-six guns, were also placed in every commanding position for flanking the approach to the harbour (which is scarcely half a mile wide at the entrance), and protecting the accessible points of landing.

As it was of the utmost importance, with a view to ulterior operations, and the advanced period of the present monsoon, that we should be delayed as short a time as possible at Amoy, it was determined that the batteries within the barrier wall and on the island of Golong-soo should be immediately attacked by the squadron, and the troops landed within the barrier as soon as it might be practicable, to take the batteries in the rear. For this object the Wellesley and Blenheim were ordered to anchor against the strongest batteries on Amoy, and as near the entrance of the harbour as possible, leaving the Cruiser Pylades, Columbine, and Algerine, to engage the extreme point of the line, and cover the landing of the troops, flanked by the heavy guns of the Sesostris and Queen steam-vessels, the Phlegathon and Nemesis being appointed to receive the troops, and tow in the boats for landing them.

The attack on the island of Golong-soo, where we had reason to apprehend the water was shoaler, was assigned to Captain Bouchier, of the Blonde, with the Druid and Modeste, 150 marines under Captain Ellis, and a detachment of the 26th Regiment, under Major Johnstone.

Pending the necessary preparations for disembarking the troops and moving the ships into their appointed positions, a communication was received from the shore, requesting to know the object of our visit, to which the answer No. 1 was returned.

About a quart past one, a steady and favourable breeze having set in, the squadron weighed, and proceeded to their stations. The Sesostris, being the most advanced, received a heavy fire before any return was made. She was soon joined by the Queen, and both commenced action with good effect.

The Wellesley and Blenheim, after ranging along the line of works on Amoy under a smart fire, were anchored by the stern about half-past two P.M. admirably placed by Captains Maitland and Herbert in ten fathoms water, within 400 yards of the principal battery, precisely in the position allotted them, and the Cruiser, Pylades, Columbine, and Algerine, took their stations with equal judgment.

The Blonde, Druid, and Modeste, reached their positions against the batteries on Golong-soo a few minutes earlier, but their captains found such difficulty from the shallowness of the water in placing them satisfactorily, that to effect this object they very spiritedly carried their ships into almost their own draught.

The Bentinck had been appointed to sound the channel ahead of the Wellesley, as we ran in, which Lieutenant Collinson very skilfully performed, and then gallantly anchored the brig within the entrance of the harbour, where she was joined by the Sesostris, which was placed by Captain Ormsby in a very judicious situation for relieving her and the other ships from a flanking fire.

The fire of the Chinese soon slackened under the excellent gun practice of the squadron. At half-past three I had the satisfaction of seeing the marines and the 26th regiment land on the island of Golong-soo, and the British colours planted on the batteries. The Modeste and Blonde then weighed and stood into the inner harbour; and, after silencing, they passed the town batteries, which were out of our reach; they anchored completely inside and abreast of the city, taking possession of twenty-six war junks, with 128 guns on board, in a state of preparation for sea, but deserted by their crews.

About the same time the first division of troops were landed under the able direction of Commander Giffard, of the Cruiser, and, headed by their gallant General, Sir Hugh Gough, escalated and took possession of the works at the barrier wall.

An outwork beyond this point (which had been previously silenced) was also entered, and the British colours hoisted by the crew of a boat from the Phlegathon; and the batteries immediately opposite the Wellesley and Blenheim being nearly demolished, a party of seamen and marines were landed from those ships, under the command of Commander Fletcher, and the officers undermentioned, by whom the Chinese, who had taken shelter in an adjoining building, were put to flight, after discharging their matchlocks, and possession taken of the works. Wellesley—Acting-Lieutenant Carmichael, Lieutenant White, Royal Marines; Mates, Lord A. Beauleck, S. S. L. Crofton, L. G. Halsted; Midshipman, W. F. F. Jackson. Blenheim—Captain Whitcomb, Royal Marines; Mates, R. C. Kevern, F. A. St. Leger.

The General having cleared the intermediate space of such of the Chinese as remained, pushed forward and occupied the heights immediately above the town. For the night, every point being thus completely in our power.

In detailing this service to your Lordship, I have the highest satisfaction in reporting the gallantry, zeal and energy which have been manifested by every officer and man in Her Majesty's navy and royal marines, as well as those of the Indian navy under my command. They have vied with each other in the desire to anticipate and meet every object for the public service, and are fully entitled to my best acknowledgments, and the favourable consideration of the Board of Admiralty and Indian Government. I have no less pleasure in witnessing the anxiety which pervades all ranks to go hand in hand with our gallant companions of the army.

His Excellency Sir H. Pottinger and suite were with me on board the Wellesley during the operations of the 26th.

Captain Bouchiers' own report (Enclosure No. 2) will best describe the proceedings of the little squadron placed under his orders for the attack of Golong-soo, which was admirably executed; and I can only add my meed of praise on this additional instance of the gallantry of Captain Ellis and the officers and men of the royal marines under his command, as well as of Major Johnston and the detachment of the 26th acting with them.

The accounts we have received of the force of the Chinese for the defence of Amoy vary from five thousand six hundred to ten thousand troops; and it is with sincere pleasure I am enabled to transmit to your Lordship so small a list of casualties amongst the crews of the squadron. (Enclosure No. 3.) The resistance made by our opponents would have justified the apprehension of greater injury. Under the protection of their well-constructed casemated works, they stood on some points firmly to their guns. We have no knowledge of their actual loss. More than sixty dead bodies were, I believe, found in the batteries; but nearly all the wounded, and many of the slain, were carried off by their countrymen.

His Excellency, the Commander of the Forces, will, probably, give your Lordship an account of the munitions of war and government stores which have fallen into our hands, including a large quantity of gunpowder and a foundry for cannon, where some guns of very large calibre, newly cast, have been discovered.

We have been constantly employed in destroying the guns, and, as far as it has been practicable, the batteries taken on the 26th. The last two days Commander Fletcher, with a party of seamen and marines, has been also detached in the Nemesis, and with very commendable zeal, has completely disabled the guns on every battery on the north east and the south west sides of the bay, and the fortified islands at the entrance, of which your Lordship will find official returns.

The superiority of the bay and inner harbour of Amoy has much exceeded our expectations. The anchorage in the former appears excellent; and the latter, as far as our hasty surveys have gone, affords perfect security for ships of any class, and, to a great extent, with a reasonable prospect of proving a healthy situation. Sir Hugh Gough and myself have, therefore, entirely concurred with his Excellency Sir Henry Pottinger, in the expediency of retaining possession of the island of Golong-soo, which will at any time give us the command of Amoy, until your Lordship's wishes, or the pleasure of Her Majesty's Government is known. For this purpose a sufficient garrison will be placed on the island by the General, and I propose to leave Captain Smith, of the Druid, with the Pylades and Algerine for their support.

The wind is, unfortunately, at present adverse; but your Lordship may be assured that the expedition will proceed to the northward the moment it is practicable, in the further execution of our instructions.

I have the honour to be, &c.

(Enclosure No. 1.)

On board Her Majesty's ship Wellesley, off Amoy, August 26, 1841.

The undersigned, Sir H. Pottinger, Bart. Her Britannic Majesty's Plenipotentiary; Sir W. Parker, commanding in chief the naval forces; and Sir H. Gough, commanding in chief the land forces of the British nation in these parts, to his Excellency the Admiral, commanding in chief the naval forces in the province of Fukien.

There being certain differences subsisting between the two nations of Great Britain and China, which have not been cleared up, the undersigned Plenipotentiary and Commanders-in-Chief have received the instructions of their Sovereign that, unless these be completely removed, and secure arrangements made, by accession to the demands last year presented at Treatsin, they shall regard it as their duty to resort to hostile measures for the enforcement of those demands.

But the undersigned Plenipotentiary and Commanders-in-Chief, moved by compassionate feelings, are adverse to causing the death of so many officers and soldiers as must perish, and urgently request the Admiral commanding in chief in this province forthwith to deliver the town and all fortifications of Amoy into the hands of the British forces, to be held for the present by them. Upon his so doing, all the officers and troops therein will be allowed to retire with their personal arms and baggage, and the people shall receive no hurt; and whenever these difficulties shall be settled, and the demands of Great Britain fully granted, the whole shall be restored to the hands of the Chinese.

If these terms be acceded to, let a white flag be displayed from the fortifications.

H. POTTINGER, Her Majesty's Plenipotentiary.

W. PARKER, Rear-Admiral.

H. GOUGH, Major-General.

Her Majesty's ship Blonde, Inner Harbour of Amoy August 27, 1841.

Sir, - The operations of the force you did me the honour to place under my command for the attack of the island of Golong-soo were so immediately under your observation that little remains to me beyond the agreeable duty of bringing to your Excellency's notice the admirable conduct of every officer and man I had the honour to command.

The squadron was led into action by Captain Eyres, commanding Her Majesty's sloop Modeste, with the most perfect skill and gallantry. The Blonde and Druid followed, and were placed as near as the shoalness of the water would admit to the three principal batteries, which they succeeded in silencing after a fire of one hour and twenty minutes, when the Marines, under the gallant Captain Ellis, were landed, and carried the heights with their accustomed bravery.

The distance of the transports prevented the 26th (Cameronian) Regiment from being sent on shore at the same moment with the Marines, but they were promptly after them; and the detachment of that distinguished corps, under Major Johnston, assisted in clearing the remaining batteries, and dispersing the enemy.

From Captain Smith, of Her Majesty's ship Druid, I received the most able support. That ship was placed with excellent judgment, and her conduct such as was to be expected from her high state of discipline. This island being now completely in our possession, I left the Druid to protect it, and pushed the Modeste and Blonde into the inner harbour, silencing their war-junks and batteries on the opposite shore as we passed; and I have herewith the honour to enclose a return of the vessels captured and ordnance destroyed. The officers and crew of this ship merit my highest praise, as well as the party of Royal Artillery serving on board under the command of Lieutenant the Hon. R. E. Spencer. I should be wanting in justice were I to close this letter without bringing to your notice the merits of Lieutenant Sir Frederick Nicholson, first of this ship, to whose valuable assistance I am much indebted; and I must also beg to name to your Excellency the senior mates of this ship, Messrs. Walker, Rolland, and Anderson, young officers of much promise.

I have great pleasure in adding that this service was performed without loss of life on our part, although the ships have suffered considerably in their masts, sails, and rigging.

The captains of the Druid and Modeste speak in the highest terms of their officers and ships' companies. I enclose the report of Captain Ellis, of the Royal Marines.

(Signed) T. BOURCHIER, Captain.

To his Excellency Rear-Admiral Sir W. Parker,

(Enclosure in Captain Bouchier's Letter.)

Military Quarters Royal Marines, Island of Golong-soo, near Amoy, Aug. 27, 1841.

Sir.—Having yesterday received your directions to land from Her Majesty's ship Blonde and Druid under your orders, the detachments of Royal Marines of the ships Wellesley, Blenheim, Blonde, Druid, and Modeste, and drive the enemy from the strong battery of Golong-soo you had previously engaged, I have the honour to acquaint you, for the information of Rear-Admiral Sir William Parker, K. C. B., Commander-in-Chief, that in furtherance of that object I landed with them on a sandy beach to the right of the battery, and, after some difficulty in climbing rocks and other impediments, succeeded in gaining the ridge, and the flank of the Chinese position.

The enemy, before we had gained the level, opposed us courageously, attacking us with matchlocks, spears, and stones; but we soon drove them before us, cleared the battery, and dispersed them, the garrison retreating to the rear, many of whom effected their escape by boats on the beach to Amoy opposite. Several men were killed in and about the battery. In following the retreating party (some of whom also were wounded) I made a detour of this large and populous island, and discovered at its western extremity a sandbag battery of nine guns, and a few gingals; they were also loaded, but did not appear to have been recently discharged. No other armed party of the enemy was fallen in with. I am happy to add, that in these operations no casualty happened to the detachment I have the honour to command; moreover, I have great pride in reporting to you that all the officers, non-commissioned officers, rank and file, throughout the day, conducted themselves, individually as well as collectively, with a courage, zeal, and perseverance, far beyond my power to express.

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

Drogheda-Harbour Light Houses, East Coast of Ireland.

Ballast-Office, Dublin, December 9, 1841.

THE Corporation for preserving and improving the port of Dublin hereby give notice, that three Light-houses have been erected at the entrance of Drogheda-harbour, from which lights will be shown on the evening of the 1st of March 1842, and thenceforth will continued to be lighted every night from sun-set to sun-rise.

Specification given of the Position and Appearance of the Buildings, by Mr. Halpin, Inspector of Light-houses:

Three light-houses, erected on timber framings, coloured brown, have been placed on the Sand-hills, at the entrance of the River Boyne or Drogheda-harbour. The East and West Lights, kept in line, will lead in the deepest water over Bar. The North Light will lead vessels, when within the Bar, to the Long Deep, which extends from abreast of the Maiden Tower towards the South Crook Point.

1. The Drogheda East Light is a fixed white light, open to seaward from E. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. to S. E. by E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E. it is elevated thirty feet above the level of the high water of spring tides, and bears from the Helly Hunter Rock, off the entrance of Carlingford Lough, S. W. $\frac{1}{2}$ W. distant 19 sea miles; Rock-a-bill, N. N. W. distant 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ sea miles.

2. The Drogheda West Light is a fixed white light, open to seaward from E. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. to S. E. by E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E. it is elevated forty feet above the level of the high water of spring tides, and bears from the East Light-house, W. by N. distant 300 feet.

The relative bearings of the East and West Lights will, whenever necessary, be changed as alterations may take place, either from the shifting of the sand banks or from the operations in progress for the improvement of the harbour.

3. The Drogheda North Light is a fixed light of red colour, open to Channel from within the Bar, it is elevated twenty-eight feet over the level of the high water of spring tides, and bears from the Bar Perch, N. W. distant 1583 yards; East Light-house, N. by W. $\frac{1}{4}$ W. distant 780 yards; Maiden Tower, N. N. W. distant 280 yards.

Vessels having passed to within the Bar, in the line of the East and West Lights, should, on opening the North Light, alter their course.

The bearings stated are magnetic.
