

ing, and promoting the building, of additional churches in populous parishes;" further provisions are made for carrying such divisions into effect:

And whereas the said Commissioners have made a representation to Her Majesty in Council, bearing date the sixth day of December one thousand eight hundred and forty-two, in the words following, viz.

"Your Majesty's Commissioners for building new churches, appointed by virtue of an Act, passed in the fifty-eighth year of the reign of His Majesty King George the Third, intituled "An Act for building, and promoting the building, of additional churches in populous parishes;" continued by an Act, passed in the seventh and eighth years of the reign of His Majesty King George the Fourth, intituled "An Act to amend the Acts for building, and promoting the building, of additional churches in populous parishes;" and further continued by an Act, passed in the first year of your Majesty's reign, intituled "An Act to prolong, for ten years, Her Majesty's Commission for building new churches;" beg leave humbly to represent to your Majesty, that, when the last census was taken, the parish of Almondbury, in the county of York and diocese of Ripon, contained a population of thirty-seven thousand three hundred and nine persons:

"That, besides the parish church, which affords accommodation to nine hundred and fifty persons, there are nine consecrated chapels in the said parish, including the chapel of St. David, at Holmebridge, which affords accommodation to seven hundred and seventy-four persons, including six hundred and seventy-four free seats appropriated to the use of the poor; the chapel of Christ Church, at Linthwaite, which affords accommodation to eight hundred persons, including two hundred free seats appropriated to the use of the poor; the chapel of the Holy Trinity, at South Crosland, which affords accommodation to seven hundred persons, including three hundred and twenty-two free seats appropriated to the use of the poor; the chapel of Emmanuel, at Lockwood, which affords accommodation to nine hundred and twenty persons, including three hundred and ninety-eight free seats appropriated to the use of the poor; and the chapel of All Saints, at Netherthong, which affords accommodation to seven hundred persons, including three hundred and eighteen free seats appropriated to the use of the poor; and that divine service is regularly performed in the said chapels:

"Your Majesty's said Commissioners beg leave further to represent to your Majesty, that, having taken into consideration all the circumstances attending this parish, it appears to them to be expedient, that a particular district should be assigned to each of the said chapels at Holmebridge, Linthwaite, South Crosland, Lockwood, and Netherthong, under the provisions of the sixteenth section of an Act, passed in the fifty-ninth year of the reign of His Majesty King George the Third, intituled "An Act to amend and render more effectual an Act, passed in the last session of Parliament, for building, and promoting the building, of additional churches in populous parishes;" and that such districts should be respectively named, "The Chapelry District of Saint David, Holmebridge;" "The Chapelry District of Christ Church, Linthwaite;" "The Chapelry District of the Holy Trinity, South Crosland;" "The Chapelry District of Emmanuel, Lockwood;" and "The Chapelry District of All Saints, Netherthong;" with boundaries as follow:

"The chapelry district of Saint David, Holmebridge, is to consist of the two townships of Austonley and Holme, the same being bounded on the east by the parish of Kirkburton; on the south east by the parish of Penistone; on the south by the county palatine of Chester; on the west and north by the township of Upperrthong, in the parish of Almondbury; the said district is further to consist of Wessenden-head Allotment, awarded to the township of Austonley, which allotment is bounded on the east and south by the township of Upperrthong; on the west by the parish of Saddleworth; and on the north by the township of Marsden, in Almondbury parish, which district is more particularly described on the plan hereunto annexed, and is thereon tinted brown:

"The chapelry district of Christ Church, Linthwaite, is to consist of the chief part of the township of Linthwaite, and a small portion of the township of South Crosland, the same being bounded on the north by the parish of Huddersfield; on the west by the township of Lingards; on the south by the townships of Meltham and South Crosland; and on the east by a lane dividing the townships of South Crosland and Lockwood; thence running westerly on the Old Turnpike-road to the junction of the road leading to Linthwaite Chapel; thence northerly, up the centre of the said road, to the north west corner of Pym Royd-wood; thence proceeding north easterly, on the north side of the said wood, to a wall fence dividing the property of John Eastwood; running northerly to the river Colne, which divides the parish of Almondbury from the parish of Huddersfield, as shewn on the map hereunto annexed, and thereon tinted blue:

"The chapelry district of the Holy Trinity, South Crosland, is to consist of the chief part of the township of South Crosland, with a part of the township of Honley, and is bounded on the north and north east by the townships of Linthwaite and Lockwood; on the west by the township of Meltham; on the south, in part by the road of Honley Wood-bottom, commencing on the south west corner, at a certain property called the Farm, belonging to the Earl of Dartmouth, and terminating at Lord's-mill, and in other part by the township of Honley; and on the east by the township of Almondbury, running northwards to a fence dividing the properties of Lord Dartmouth and William Brooke, Esq.; thence by the property of William Brooke, Esq., consisting of wood land and buildings, and usually called Armitage-bridge, by other properties designated the Armitage, and by the Lockwood and Meltham turnpike road, as shewn on the map hereunto annexed, and thereon tinted yellow:
